TRAINING A RAW SERVANT.

A family in the pretty suburb of Scottwood have been in trouble with their hired girls. They had a jewel of a German girl, who had come from the East, and introduced many little ideas she had learned there-among others, to use Pearline in the laundry and "dust covers" in the bedrooms. But Louise got married, and the family has had a series of incapables ever since. Driven to desperation, the mistress finally secured a country girl, and determined to train her. She proved of Yankee descent. and was constantly experimenting, to find improved or "handier" ways of doing her work. She was told of Louise's methods, and declared she was 'goin' ter see " what they were worth. In cooking she soon excelled. She took a fancy to Pearline, and, aside from washing and bleaching clothes, did wonders with it. She washed the furniture with it; put it in the water to sprink e carpe before it; put it in the water to sprink e carpe before it; put it in the water to sprink e carpe a before sweeping; used it to shampeo the dog, dampened a cloth with it to rub the mantels, the book-covers e'c.; always had it in her dishwater; washed blimds and woodwork with it ; in short cleaned everything, the house included, with it. With Pearline for an aly, she declares, "the cholera won't stand no show round this 'ere house !"-Toledo Blade. KIDNEY COMPLAINT,
