LITERARY NOTES.

One of the most notable utterances regarding General Grant is likely to be that promised in the September HARPER's, from the peu of Gen. Horace Porter. Gen. Porter was on Gen. Grant's staff during most of the war, and was one of his private secretaries when he became President. He knew the dead hero, therefore, under all varieties of circumstances; and his paper, it is understood, will present a great number of personal reminiscences both of his military and political life. It will be awaited with much interest. A fine portrait, engraved by Kruell, will accompany the article.

There are few Northern men in better position to give "Impressions of the South" which the general public will welcome, than Mr. Charles Dudley Warner, who will record the result of a recent journey of observation in the South in the September HARPER'S. Mr. Warner feels sure that 'Louisiana, for instance, was never, in its whole history, so consciously loyal to the United States as it is to-day." "For the past ten years there has a lot of currants. It took a quarter of an acre to been growing in this country a stronger feeling of plant the gooseberries upon, and this year he took nationality—a distinct American historic consciousness—and nowhere else has it devoloped so rapidly of late as in the South. I am convinced that this is more than double the amount in the future, Mr. a genuine development of attachment to the Union Holt understands managing the bushes, and makes and of pride in the nation, and not in any respect a political movement for unworthy purposes. I am sorry that it is necessary, for the sake of any lingering prejudices at the North, to say this. But it is time that sober, thoughtful, patriotic people at the North should quit representing the desire for office at the South as a device to get into the government saddle and ride again with a 'rebel' impulse....The South has entirely put the past behind it, and is devoting itself to the work of rebuilding on new foundations."

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AVER'S CHERRY PECTORA . has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.
