LITERARY NOTES.

Canoeing is becoming so general a recreation that the account of one of the most venturesome of recent canoe voyages, which Mr. C. H. Farnham is giving in HARPER'S MAGAZINE, has an unusual interest. His second "Labrador" paper will be printed in the October issue. "It is a profound experience," The London Canadian Gazette says Mr. Farnham, "to visit alone the utter abom- tion with the company which has been formed for ination of desolation." The self-reliance which the construction of a dry dock at Halifax, we hear comes from solitary battling with wind and wave is that Mr. Owen Jones, C. E., has been requested to a chief boast of the canoeist, but Mr. Farnham proceed to Canada for the purpose of conferring to act as agent for the INTELLIGENCER, seems willing to confess that there may be another with the government and authorities in Halifax in side to this delight. "I often had to take my will reference to the construction of the work. Mr. in both hands," he says, "to prevent demoralization." In the storms of the Gulf of St. Lawrence building in Australasia. his daily journey averaged only ten miles. At last he got so far north as to find himself canoeing River John on Monday, says: A shocking acciden among icebergs, and his description of the bursting took place yesterday afternoon on the Pictou road of an iceberg is at first hand. The second paper has a dozen illustrations from sketches which Mr.
