

AN ESTIMATE. Prof. Proctor says it has been calculated that on the average each man who attains the age of threescore and ten consumes during the course of his life twenty wagon-loads of food, solid and liquid. At four tons to the wagon, this would correspond to an average of about a hundred ounces of food per day, or say some one hundred and twenty ounces per day during adult life, and about eighty ounces during infancy and youth. Most modern doctors agree in regarding one hundred and twenty ounces of food per day, corresponding to five or six half pints of liquid food, and seven or eight pounds of solid food, as in excess of the real daily requirements of a healthy man or woman. Yet probably most of us take more than this, in one way or another, during the day. Dr. Lankester, from an extensive analysis of the dietary of soldiers, sailors, prisoners, and the better paid classes of artisans and professional men in London, found the average daily quantity of solid and liquid food to be one hundred and forty-three ounces. Doubtless many take much more than this.

A NEEDED REBUKE.—A Washington paper says that Mrs. Cleveland administers a gentle but wholesome rebuke to the wearers of the extraordinary low-cut gowns here of late years, by having her own cut modestly and becomingly. The paper further declares that "the grossly immodest apparel which has been the vogue at the National Capital for some time was contrary to the taste of the best and most artistic designers of female costumes; but they were compelled to lay aside their own tastes and sense of propriety because their customers desired this species of unwholesome and unwholesome notoriety." It is not surprising that politicians, and especially those at the National Capital, have a poor opinion of women as a political factor, and are almost solidly opposed to woman suffrage. May this not be largely owing to the fact that they see so much of that frivolous class of women who are ready to adopt any fashion, however ridiculous, immodest or unwholesome, which may be prescribed? They argue if woman cast not go into society and maintain her independence and self-respect, it is useless to expect that she will in politics; and we believe that she will never be in position to demand her "rights" whatever they may be—till she is clothed in her right mind.

AN ILLUSTRATION.—As a convincing illustration of the divine origin of the Bible we have the results of the mission of the Free Church of Scotland, at Lake Nyassa, Africa, in civilizing a tribe of warriors who have hitherto lived by plundering, and have so terrorized the people on the western shore of the lake as to compel them to collect in stockades, or to build their houses on piles beyond wading depth in the lake. Ten thousand people have settled around the station in order to be free from these pitiless marauders. These men now say that the missionaries' book tells all the thoughts of their hearts and has made cowards of them to such an extent that they dare not now go out and plunder as they once did. While, generally, they have no real conception of their spiritual needs they are slowly yielding to the influence of the gospel. A well-attended night-school is doing a promising work among the young men. Would any other book than the Bible so transform these men.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.—About 100 ladies and gentlemen assembled at the residence of the Rev. Geo. W. McDonald, pastor of the F. C. Baptist church, of this place. Some of the evening's ago for the purpose of proving in a tangible way that he possessed the entire confidence and esteem not only of the members of his church but of the community in which he has labored and associated himself, during his residence in Sussex. This being the 20th anniversary of his marriage, the Rev. Mr. McDonald and his estimable lady were made the recipients of costly and useful gifts, amongst which were a handsome china tea-service and cutlery, etc. These were presented by Rev. James Gray, who made an excellent and appropriate address, and to which Rev. Mr. McDonald, for himself and his lady, expressed the warmest thanks. Speeches were made by Rev. Mr. Wiggins, Clarence Spooner, editor of the Kings County Record (who by the way, has proved quite an acquisition to our social gatherings and is becoming pretty popular). Some excellent local music was furnished during the evening, which was very pleasantly spent. To Miss Mary Jane and Miss Alice McLeod, of Sussex, and Miss Jennie Morton and Ella Freeze, of Penobscot, much credit is due in connection with this pleasant treat.—Cor. of Sun.

OF MINISTERS.—Rev. Dr. Hopper has taken the pastorate of a church in Sacramento, Cal. His family went to him last week. Rev. S. B. Welton (Baptist) of Sussex has been called to a church in Washington Territory. He has not yet said whether he will go.

SUNDRIES.—Mr. D. L. Moody has a son in the Freshman class of Yale University. The longest tunnel in the world is in Hungary. It is ten miles and a quarter long, ten feet high, and five feet and a quarter wide. A bill for the compulsory retirement of incompetent English Church clergymen is in preparation. There are now in America about thirty hospitals for inebriates.

Christian Triumphs.

In India when the Christian Church attacked the Hindoo faith it undertook the greatest of tasks, but there have been marvelous results. Only recently a procession of 2,000 Sunday-school scholars took place in Lucknow. In Travancore the London Society have 20,000 Christians, and in Burma, in the Karen Mountains, there are 100,000 native Christians. A lady from India says, the question is not now how to get into zenanas, but how sufficient workers can be sent out, for on every hand are there open doors. A few years ago there were not ten converted Jews in Russia, now there are 3,000, and a Hebrew Prayer Union has several hundred members. Fifteen years ago, if a missionary had gone into Russia, many a Jew would have deemed it an honor to kill him, but now it is very different. To-day in Russia, thousands are studying and reading the New Testament. In China, now, relates one missionary, there is no need of announcing meetings. "We can have a meeting in the street at any moment," he says, "and there we can preach as long as we are able. Often when I have arrived the whole city seems to have turned out to see me. The streets have been lined, so that there has not been room for me to walk up the street. On the tops of the houses, and on the walls, and at the windows and at the doors the people now crowd around to see the 'foreigner,' and to hear what he has to talk about."

Things About Town.

—The stone work of the Railway Bridge is completed. The superstructure will be put on between February and May, probably.

—The applicants for the position in the Education office, made vacant by the death of Mr. Geo. Thompson, are said to number about a half a hundred. It must be considered a desirable situation. From so many anxious ones it ought to be possible to make a good selection.

—That woman, who so long ago was sentenced to jail for ranselling, is yet at large. Who has the warrant? And why is it not served?

—The Y. M. C. A. meetings are said to be quite interesting.

—The W. C. T. Union last week entertained the University and Normal school students. There were many present, addresses, music, tea, coffee, cake etc, and an enjoyable time, evidently.

—The electric light seems to be giving satisfaction. The light at the Railway Depot is particularly bright. When the other electric company gets its machinery running the city will be aglow, there will be enough and to spare.

—The ladies of the Free Baptist congregation had a successful sale of useful articles in the vestry of the church last Wednesday.

—Work on the Victoria Hospital is proceeding satisfactorily. There is talk of a concert in its aid sometime about New Year.

—A marble tablet in memory of the late Rev. Dr. Brooke has been placed in the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Brooke was pastor of the church over thirty years, and was much beloved.

—The University students are having a course of lectures this year. Mr. Parkin told them of Imperial Federation last Friday evening, a subject to which he has given much attention. And on which he is an enthusiast. The young men enjoyed it.

Literary Notes.

Almanacs. We are indebted to Messrs Barnes & Co and Messrs J. & A. McMillan for copies of their almanacs for 1888, which have just been issued.

One prize of $700 and one of $300 are offered by the Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society, Boston, for the first and second best MSS., suitable for Sunday-school books, either of fiction, biography, or history. These prizes ought to set a good many pens to work. Competition is open until May 15, 1888. Full particulars may be obtained by addressing the Society.

The forthcoming Christmas Number of Harper's Magazine will be the most princely descendant of its royal line, with the noble blood of many kings of thought throbbing its arteries, and richly decked in sumptuous attire of illustrations. In point of attractive reading and luxurious drawings it takes the palm even from the previous holiday numbers of "The Giant of the Monthlies."

Let us always have an old-fashioned Christmas, abounding in deep snow, warm fires, and fur robes, in sleds and sleighs, evergreens, carols, and gifts for everybody! Nothing else so appeals to the hearts of children, or the people who have had a childhood. And that is just the kind of a Christmas told about in "Captain Santa Claus" in the December Harper's. The sweet children have the presents they so longed for, and the sweet woman has her lover who so long had waited for her; and all the world was happier and better for the day, just as everybody else who reads Captain King's charming story will be happier and better for it.

Out Of The Shadow. By Mary Hubbard Howell, Author of "Through the Winter," "On the Way Home," "In After Years," and "Along the Old Road." 12mo, cloth, pp. 341. Price, $1.50. This is the fifth book by Miss Howell. Her plots and characters are interesting from the beginning to the finish. Her stories are not merely entertaining; they are uplifting. The reader feels that he is introduced into "good society," that is, into the society of those who are good, and are trying to help others to become better.

The sensible reader does not go to such books for history. But he wants to find reality, that is, characters and incidents which do not seem impossible. In a fairy tale he expects to find the impossible; in stories which purport to describe real life he expects to read of things which are credible. Still he does not want them commonplaces. Miss Howell's book satisfies these natural desires. The book is the story of a noble life which reaches its consummation through manifold perplexities. The reader's faith in God, in Christ, in the Bible, in humanity and in goodness will be increased by studying how John Millington came "out of the shadow." The American Sunday-School Union, 1122 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. 10 Bible House, New York.

The Gospel Story; or The Life of Christ for the Little Ones. 16mo, cloth, 303 pp., with 17 full-page illustrations. Price only 60 cents. There is a perennial interest in that life which shall be the subject of study through all the ages of time, and the theme of praise through all the cycles of eternity. To all mankind its supreme importance precludes the utterance of one word of apology for the appearance of any work on so great a subject. Every recital of the old, old story possesses a freshness and charm which invests it with matchless interest, especially to the young. In this gospel story the words of the narrative of the four evangelists harmonized have been adopted. As it is intended for children, hard words have been avoided, and in thirty-three chapters (with seventeen full-page illustrations) we have a simple, full and orderly account, which places before "the little lumps of the flock" a loving and life-like view of their great Shepherd, from his annunciation to his ascension.

The illustrations are attractive and instructive. The American Sunday-School Union, 1122 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. 10 Bible House, New York.

Alden's Manifest Cyclopaedia of Knowledge and Language. One of the most extraordinary literary enterprises of the age is the work which bears the above title.

The specimen pages which the publisher sends free to any applicant, show the type which is used—a good clear-faced Brevier; also the form—"Ideal" for convenience, easy for the eye, handy to hold. The volumes will average about 640 pages each, and there will probably be about thirty of them—the "manifest" number will not be inconvenient; when you consult a Cyclopaedia you are supposed to know what "title" you are looking for; the lettering on the back of each volume tells you at a glance what titles will be found within, so you do not look in the wrong one—and the volumes are so "handy" you quickly turn to the sought for page.

There will be several thousand illustrations—no "mere pictures" but everything of importance that will serve to illustrate.

The Manifest Cyclopaedia is to be much more than a "Cyclopaedia of Universal Knowledge;" it will embody also a Dictionary of the English Language—including every word which has any claim to a place in the language. How often you have consulted Appleton's or Chambers's, or Johnson's Cyclopaedia and failed to find the title you were looking for—then consulted Webster's Unabridged and were successful; the word belonged to the Dictionary rather than to the Cyclopaedia. Or you have consulted Webster, and found little more than a mere definition of the word—you must go to the Cyclopaedia for details of knowledge. Or, more probable than either of the foregoing suppositions, you do not own either a first-class Cyclopaedia or a first-class Dictionary, or only one of the two, because of their prohibitory cost, so you "consult your imagination" and "go hungry" for lack of the few lines of print that would satisfy you. In the Manifest Cyclopaedia you will find a survey of all knowledge which is illustrated by the English Language—and its cost is within your reach, only 50 cents a volume for cloth binding, 65 cents for half morocco!

In this age of the world, no general Cyclopaedia or Dictionary can be in any proper sense "original"—each new compilation, if it has merit, is based upon the knowledge found embodied in all its predecessors. "Knowledge" as set forth in books can not be monopolized by "patent" or "copyright"—only the form of embodiment can be thus covered. The latest discoveries (or imaginings) of the scientists, the latest "finds" (or frauds) of the archaeologists, the latest theories of the political economists—all are subject to the "sight drafts" of the latest Encyclopaedist. Alden's Manifest Cyclopaedia undertakes to combine in the most convenient and concise (and yet full) and economical form possible, the results of the scholarship of the world, up to the time of its publication. Availing itself most of the labors of its predecessors who have accomplished the best results, the Manifest Cyclopaedia, draws more largely from Chamber's than from any other of the family of Cyclopaedias, and more largely from Stormonth than from any other of the family of Dictionaries—the Chamber's is an acknowledged model for a Cyclopaedia; but it is adapted particularly to England rather than to America; Stormonth is the acknowledged peer of Webster, Worcester, the Imperial, and Murray, as an authority, "but without a peer in the combined qualities of conciseness, clearness, and accuracy of learning. No authorities, however, are blindly followed, but effort is carefully made to bring all matters to the generally accepted standard of the most eminent American, rather than foreign, scholarship.

Editorial talent second to none in America, in experience and skill is engaged in the conduct of the work; the publisher's past experience in Cyclopaedia making (notably in The Library of Universal Knowledge, now known—trebled in price—as the International Cyclopaedia) is good basis for the pledge he makes to his patrons that The Manifest shall be inferior to no other Cyclopaedia in any of the important qualities of a popular guide to knowledge. Specimen pages free, or a specimen volume may be ordered and returned if not wanted. John B. Alden, Publisher, 393 Pearl Street, New York.

For Christmas. Chas. A. Bates of Indianapolis has published a good collection of recitations for Christmas, which he sells for 25 cents. It contains sixty pieces in poetry and prose which are nicely suited to the time and purpose for which they are designed.

Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided. This Syrup is pleasant to the taste and unsurpassed for relieving and curing all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., etc.

HOUSE CLEANING. The best thing ever produced for this and all kindred purposes is James Pyle's Pearlina. It makes the housekeeper do the work more satisfactorily in less than half the usual time without the aid of soap, or anything else, and its great value in the Kitchen and Laundry is attracting wide-spread attention. Sold by Grocers everywhere, but beware of vile imitations with names that sound like Pearlina.

Mrs. W. J. Lang Bethany, Ont., writes: I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort, I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, etc., in fact it is our family medicine.

Joseph Rusan, Percy, writes: I was induced to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for a lameness which troubled me for three or four years, and found it the best article I ever tried. It has been a great blessing to me.

Ayer's Pills are always ready for use. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, and sure to bring relief and cure. They are effectual in all diseases caused by disorders of the stomach and digestive organs.

After years of suffering, persons who have vainly sought remedial help from other sources, have obtained the long desired relief from Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which puts a stop to the torments of Dyspepsia, renews activity of the Bowels and Liver, relieves maladies incident to the gentler sex, and builds up failing health and strength, gives purity to the blood, and tone to the whole system.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I could get nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine."

EPPE'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Eppe has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

ST. NICHOLAS

For Young Folks.

SINCE its first issue, in 1873, this magazine has maintained, with undiminished recognition, the position it took at the beginning—that of being the most excellent juvenile periodical ever printed. The best known names in literature were on its list of contributors from the start—Bryant, Longfellow, Thomas Hughes, George MacDonald, Bret Harte, Bayard Taylor, Frances Hodgson Burnett, James T. Fields, John G. Whittier; indeed the list is so long that it would be easier to tell the few authors of note who have not contributed to "the world's child magazine."

The Editor, Mary Mapes Dodge, author of "Hans Brinker; or, The Silver Skates," and other popular books for young folks, and for grown-up folks, too, has a remarkable faculty for knowing and entertaining child ren. Under her skillful leadership, ST. NICHOLAS brings to thousands of homes on both sides of the water knowledge and delight.

St. Nicholas in England.

It is not alone in America that ST. NICHOLAS has made its great success. The London Times says: "It is above anything we produce in the same line." The Scotsman says: "There is no magazine that can successfully compete with it."

The Coming Year of St. Nicholas.

The fifteenth year begins with the number for November, 1887, and the publisher can announce: Serial and Short Stories by Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett, Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Brown, Joel Chandler Harris, J. T. Trowbridge, Col. Richard M. Johnston, Louisa M. Alcott, Professor Alfred Church, William H. Rideing, Washington Gladden, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Amelia E. Barr, Frances Courtenay Baylor, Harriet W. Upton, and many others. Edmund Alton will write a series of papers on the "Routine of the Republic,"—how the President works at the White House, and how the affairs of the Treasury, the State and War Departments, etc., are conducted; Joseph O'Brien, a well known Australian journalist, will describe "The Great Island Continent"; Elizabeth Robins Pennell will tell of "London (Christmas Pastimes)" (Alice in Wonderland, etc.); John Burroughs will write "Meadow and Woodland Talks with Young Folk," etc., etc. Mrs. Burnett's short serial will be, the editor says, a worthy successor to her famous "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which appeared in ST. NICHOLAS.

Why not try ST. NICHOLAS this year for the young people in the house? Begin with the November number. Send us $3.00, or subscribe through booksellers and newsdealers. The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New-York.
