Reports from Kent county, which leads all other New Brunswick counties in the business of lobster canning, say that the catch of this year will equal that of last season, notwithstanding the shorter period allowed by law for operations. As a rule the lobster packers are not displeased with the restrictions, as they realize the fact that something had to be done to save the industry from total extinction. When the somewhat improved price is taken into consideration, it will probably appear that the profits are not less than usual.

Wild fruit of all kinds is abundant this season. Large quantities of berries are being shipped to Boston. The trade distributes considerable cash. Donald Morrison of Newcastle can fit fifty tons of blueberries this season.

The fire was due to spontaneous combustion.

On Wednesday night John Howe, an employe in Jas. Harris & Co.'s car shops, met with an accident which resulted in his death. Howe was working upon the end of a car which was nearly finished, and only a few feet away upon the same track was another car, the end of which projected beyond the door. As it was about knocking off time, some of the men warned Howe to get out of the way so that they could allow the car to come inside the door; they then started the car and Howe, not having heeded the warning, was caught between the two cars, the buffers of each taking him just below the stomach and jamming him fearfully. He was held as if in a vice for a couple of minutes and when released was unconscious. He died next morning.

Fire was discovered early Wednesday morning in the rear of Mr. Theodore Vanwart's premises on Metcalf street Portland. It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin, and started in the carpenter shop of James Thorne. Mr. Thorne's shop together with a lot of valuable tools was entirely destroyed. He had $400 insurance. The fire burned Mr. Vanwart's barn with two cows and five dogs in it. The house and ell were saved from burning but were damaged by water. Mr. Vanwart has $1000 insurance on his house and $400 on the barn. The ell of Mr. S. Cody's house was considerably damaged. He is insured.

The Bathurst Courier tells of a new bear trap. Mrs. Foley who lives on the Tategouche river hung her creamer on a nail at night, on the outside of the house. In the morning it was gone. The family concluded that it was stolen, but soon they saw in a distant field a bear performing some strange antics, turning round and round, not knowing where to go, and occasionally screaming in a vicious way. They soon took in the situation. The bear, prowling about the place at night, had pushed his head into the creamer, and could not get it out. A well directed shot from a musket laid brain low; Mrs. Foley got her creamer, and the trap is ready for another bear.
