Does any one Care for Father?

Does any one care for father?
Does any one think of the one
Upon whose tired, bent shoulders
The cares of the family come?
The father who cares for your comfort
And toils on from day unto day,
Although his steps ever grow slower,
And his dark locks are turning grey?

Does any one think of the due-bills
He's called upon daily to pay?
Milliner bills, college bills, book-bills—
There are some kind of bills every day;
Like a patient horse in a treadmill,
He works on from morning till night;
Does any one think he is tired?
Does any one make his home bright?

Is it right, just because he looks troubled,
To say he's as cross as a bear?
Kind words, little actions, and kindness
Might banish his burden of care.
'Tis for you he's ever so anxious;
He will toil for you while he may live;
In return he only asks kindness,
And such pay is easy to give.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON.

Fourth Quarter-Lesson VII—Nov. 17.

DAVID'S LAST WORDS.—

2 Sam. 23: 1-7.
GOLDEN TEXT.—He hath made me an everlasting covenant, ordered in all things and sure.—2 Sam. 23: 5.

DAVID'S LAST WORDS TO THE PRINCES OF ISRAEL.—1 Chron. 28, 29. The princes and leaders of Israel were assembled just before David's death, and David told them what he had done for the temple. They gladly followed his example, and brought willingly great treasures for the same purpose.

DAVID'S LAST WORDS TO SOLOMON.—1 Kings 2: 1-9. David on his dying bed, called Solomon, and gave him a most solemn charge to show himself a man and to walk in God's ways. His dying request about two men seems at first thought to be very strange. He laid upon Solomon the execution of Joab, the general of the armies; but this was not revenge, but the duty of the chief ruler, which David felt that he had neglected. Joab had deliberately and treacherously murdered two of the chief men of Israel. He ought to have been executed long before. Moreover, he had joined in Adonijah's attempt upon the throne, and would be a dangerous element in Solomon's kingdom. Shimei, who had cursed David so bitterly, was also to be punished as Solomon deemed best. He commanded him to live in Jerusalem under the king's eye, and not to leave the city under penalty of death. He was another unpunished rascal, full of danger to Solomon's kingdom. Justice and foresight are right even upon the death-bed.

DAVID'S LAST WORDS TO THE WORLD.—Vers. 1-7. This is a short hymn, and "seems to have been uttered in connection with his final words to Solomon." At least it was his last public utterance. The man who was raised up on high. His exaltation from a lowly shepherd lad to one of the greatest and most influential men the world has ever known he attributes to a higher power than himself. The anointed of the God of Jacob. Appointed to his place and work by the true God. He was part of a great plan of redemption, the promise of which was made to Jacob. The sweet psalmist of Israel: by the composition and arrangement of Israel's liturgical songs he was entitled to be called "pleasant." He has brought pleasure and comfort, and hope, "sweetness and light" to multitudes of people all down the ages. The Spirit of the Lord (Jehovah) spoke by me. A direct claim of inspiration, to which Christ himself bears witness (Matt. 21: 43). The Rock of Israel. God is called a rock because (1) he is immovable and unchangeable, like the everlasting hills. (2) He is the defence of his people. (3) He brings shelter and rest, as "the shadow of a great rock in a thirsty land." He that ruleth, etc. Such a one the psalmist sees in the far future. He is the ideal king of David's line. The ideal was fulfilled in Jesus Christ, "David's greater Son," the successor to his kingdom, which, unfolding from the germ in David's time, became the universal kingdom of God. All true believers are his subjects and heirs according to his promise. Jesus Christ is the absolutely holy and good ruler; the perfect king. And he shall be as the light of the morning. Blessings will follow him as verdure clothes the earth from the united influence of sunshine and rain. Even a morning without clouds; with nothing to interfere with the full power of his rays. This description of the ideal was fulfilled in Jesus Christ, "the Sun of Righteousness, with healing in his wings." The world lay in the darkness of sin and hopeless wretchedness and trouble; in the darkness of ignorance. Jesus Christ came as the light of the world. He is the source of power. He is the source of life. He is the source of comfort and cheer. He is the source of the beauty of holiness. He shines everywhere, enlightening all the earth. As the tender grass springing out of the earth by clear shining after rain. In order to appreciate the force of the figure, it must be borne in mind that verdure is not perpetual in Palestine, as with us. There what in June is "a brown, hard-baked, gaping plain, with only here and there the withered stems of thistles and centaureas to tell that life had ever existed there" is clothed in spring, after the rains, with "a deep, solid growth of clovers and grasses." This is a picture of the new life which Jesus has brought into the world by the converting and life-giving influences of the Holy Spirit. Although my house be not so with God. He expresses his confidence that God will in due time cause the salvation promised to him and his house, and all his own good pleasure, to grow and prosper. But the sons of Belial. Belial means worthlessness. So that "sons of Belial" are wicked, lawless persons, who obey neither God nor their own consciences. Shall be all of them as thorns thrust away: because they are useless and injurious to others. Because they cannot be taken with hands. They are dangerous, bringing injury to all who approach them. Must be fenced (armed) with iron, etc. The thorns must be torn up with an iron hook on a long handle. In the same place: where they are gathered together.

DEATH AND BURIAL OF DAVID.—David died at the age of seventy, "full of days, riches, and honor." He was buried at Jerusalem, in the tombs of the kings cut in the rocks under Mount Zion. No trace of his tomb now remains, although it still existed in the time of Christ. REVIEW OF DAVID'S LIFE.—His character. David was a noble, brave, loving man, with strong passions, a warm heart, and a ready, generous hand; a devoted friend, attractive, bright, joyous, poetic, deeply religious and devotional, strong in faith, unselfish, and sincerely good. He fell into some of the vices of the age; he committed a great crime; he was too easy in his family government; but his repentance and public confession prove him to be at heart a true and godly man.

A Statesman. It is hard to realize how great a change David made in his kingdom. He organized the government; he extended its boundaries; he developed the resources of the nation; he promoted the arts; he opened up commerce; he distributed the Levites, the religious teachers, over the land; he organized courts of justice; he united the people.

A General. He was a wise and victorious military leader; he conquered the enemies who during the previous reign had continually overrun and distressed the nation; he organized the army in a most skillful manner.

A Religious Organizer. David made Jerusalem the religious capital of the nation. He organized 24,000 Levites in twenty-four courses for service in the house of God; 4000 were trained musicians. David introduced many musical instruments into the service of the sanctuary.

An Author. "David was undoubtedly the most distinguished writer of the sacred songs of the Hebrews." Many of his hymns were set to music and sung by his choirs in the religious services. He brought in a new era of song.

More uses for the Phonograph.

A recent Italian scientific paper reports that Americans have recently found it to be practicable to apply the phonograph to locomotive whistles. Whether this statement has any foundation or not makes no difference; the idea is worthy of American genius.

When a convenience it would be to have the whistle shout, in a stentorian voice, "Hoosac Junction!" ten minutes for refreshments!" How it would save the brakeman his indistinct enunciation! What a pleasure to all travellers, if the conventional old lady were periodically informed that the train was just two minutes late, and that there was no ice water in the baggage-car!

But since it has been found that, by the mere substitution of a metallic cylinder for wax one, it can be made to talk loudly, there is no end to the possible uses to which it will be put. Hitherto it has been proposed to employ it only as a substitute for the eloquent reporter to his various capacities.

But now we may at any time expect to see the deaf and dumb mute listening to a conversation through the medium of an audiphone, and replying in perfect English, with an instrument which is a storehouse of syllables, manipulated as one would manipulate the characters in a typewriter. One key may supply him with a rippling laughter for frivolous occasions, while another enables him to furnish with condoling sympathetic signs a weeping mourner.

Hints to Superintendents.

Come twenty minutes before the time, to get acquainted with the new members.

Begin promptly.
Wait for order if it takes many minutes.

Let nothing drag. Pass quickly from one exercise to another.

Have a written program of exercises, with hymns selected.

Vary the exercises.

Attend to business early in the session.

Have all notices handed in early or not given.

Vary the reading of the lesson.

Read in concert, then responsively, then have the boys read one verse and the girls the next. Sometimes let a teacher read it all.

Never allow a teacher to be interrupted during the lesson.

Have a five minute bell of warning.

Have a piece of sacred music played while the classes are taking their places.

Never begin the closing exercises without perfect order.

Narrate some incident that illustrates the lesson.

Never speak without something important to say.

Frequently hold a meeting for prayer and testimony.

Encourage the use of the Bible rather than the lesson-leaf.

Always take the name and address and age of every new scholar.

Ask if he is a Christian.

Try and get him then and there to give his heart to the Lord.

Put him in a class where the teacher will care for him, telling the class about him, and asking them to pray for him.

Have all papers and lesson-helpers given out at the very last.

At the close have it understood that you are waiting at the desk for any teacher to bring to you a scholar who wants to be a Christian, or would like to have you pray with him.

Let your every action tend toward the conversion of your scholars.

Pray much for both teachers and scholars.—The Illustration.

The Care of Toys.

Young mothers do not always realize the importance of teaching their children to be careful of their toys. "The child is father to the man," and the child who is careless of his toys will be careless of his belongings when he is grown to man's estate. If he is permitted to leave them around without any restriction, be sure he will leave his hat, his shoes, his clothes around when he is older. If he breaks them wantonly or carelessly, he will show little wantonness or carelessness in the management of whatever he comes to possess later on.

It is very poor policy to purchase perishable toys for children. A premium is thus put on carelessness. A few strong, well-made toys are far more desirable than a great many frail and foolish ones. A few toys are better than many for a higher reason. The imagination and fancy of a child has freer play with few than with many, and his attachment to them becomes greater. He can "play" that they are something very different from what they are, and so learn to make a great deal out of a little—a most useful lesson to learn.

If a child knows that he will be obliged to pick up and put away all his playthings when he is through with them for the time, he will learn to be careful about scattering them; he will learn to anticipate the consequences of his actions, and not buy present pleasure too dearly.

Meals Spoiled.

An easy way to spoil the evening meal is for each member to tell the sad tale of all that has gone wrong during the day, to mention the disappointments and vexations, to tell of the slights that were endured, and the offenses that were given; and to lament over the results of this infelicitous combination of affairs, is enough to counteract the refreshing effect of all the good things with which the most generous and skillful housewife can load the table. Better put this complaining off until some other time. What is the best time for it, it is hard to say. Perhaps an indefinite postponement would be a happy thing for all concerned. Half the things that we groan over to-night will right themselves before to-morrow night, if we let them alone.

ORIGINAL SIN. Rev. Mr. ——— having preached on the doctrine of original sin, one of his hearers in conversation afterward objected to the views he had advanced. After hearing the objections very patiently, he said, "I hope you do not deny actual sin, too?"

"No," said the other, "there is plenty of that in the world."
"Well," said the minister, "did you ever see a tree growing without a root?" And the objector had no answer to give.
