people who intend to hold the spot of ground, so large and magnificent, which our forefathers handed down as a sacred charge. (Cheers.) In a brilliant flight of word imagery, the hon. gentlemen eloquently recalled the historical memories of the past, and portrayed with incomparable skill the progressive development of the Dominion, from the era of its unpeopled virgin soil down to its present proud position as one of the brightest gems in the British Crown. By means of comparative statistics he showed the marvellous growth and development which is going on in every branch of commercial enterprise, and the recital of the startling statistics was in every instance received with a perfect volley of enthusiastic cheering.

NO MORE FISHING LICENSES.—An Ottawa despatch says: Early in the week all collectors of customs in the maritime provinces were instructed not to issue any further licenses under the modus vivendi. The treaty of Washington act of last session provides that these licenses may be issued for a period not exceeding two years, from the 15th of February last, "pending change of ratifications." As the object for which licenses were to be granted has been frustrated by United States action the Canadian government has deemed it wise to suspend further issue. A number of licenses granted last year will not run out until next July, the first issue being for 12 months from the date of issue, but as the season advanced, at the request of the Newfoundland government and to make Canadian licenses uniform with licenses of that colony, they were issued good only until December 31. What the policy of the government on this fishing license question will be for next season is a matter still undecided, but for the present no more licenses will be issued.

THE W. C. T. UNION entertained the University and Normal School Students on Thursday evening. There was an excellent paper on teaching of Scientific Temperance in the schools by Mrs. R. Phillips, and addresses by Governor Tilley and Mr. Parkin, and music. The opening was conducted by Rev. Jos. McLeod.

At the close of the literary and musical entertainment there were refreshments. It was a pleasant evening.

Every week, nearly every day, friends of the INTELLIGENCER are putting new names on its list. Thank you all. Let the good work go on all over the field.

MISSIONARIES MURDERED.—A Zanzibar despatch of the 26th says: An English missionary named Brooks and 16 of his followers were murdered on Saturday near Saadani by members of the coast tribes and natives of Zanzibar. These murders indicate the extent of the hatred to the whites the Germans have aroused. Saadani, for many years, has been the starting point of European missions, the natives welcoming missionaries and assisting them, especially the English. The question as to the measures England will take to punish the murderers is eagerly discussed here.

GONE.—The many millions of the great A. T. Stewart estate are all gone, in twelve brief years. "Lawyers, thieves, jealous relatives, unwise sales and investments and inevitable accidents and incidents of business have used it all up." "The last of the Stuarts," the pitiful consummation of a great royal line, was not more sad than is the disintegration and decay of the Stewart line. Gone! Completely gone! Ignobly gone! And only mockery of the name left. "His body, before it reached its splendid mausoleum, was stolen; none appear to-day to rise up and call him blessed."

FOREIGNER ASSASSINATION.—The Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York has forbidden his priests to give absolution to any Catholic who attends the meetings of the deceased Father McGlynn. The reason as stated by the Independent is that Dr. McGlynn talks in a very unrestrained, and as it seems to submissive Catholics, scandalous way about the Roman hierarchy. He would like to see the Pope walking down Broadway in a black silk hat and a frock coat. He ridicules the pretensions and authority of Pope, Archbishop and all the ecclesiastical machine. Under the new rule the priests in this city who sympathize with the rebel, or at least think he has been hardly dealt with, can no longer give absolution to those that attend his meetings but must refer them to the Archbishop for absolution. Dr. McGlynn, we suppose, will not hesitate, however, to hear their confessions. Protestants can only look on with interest mixed with pity. If men put their consciences into the keeping of some one else, and pretend to give the right of judging for themselves then let them suffer for it. We suspect the Archbishop has the right, that is, the authority, on his side; and our interest is to know whether the Roman Catholic Church is able gradually to reform itself, to discover a way to recover the liberty of private judgment which its clergy is removed.

PROPOSED DONATION.—The friends of Rev. Gideon Swim intend holding a donation party at the residence of M. Geo. H. Vanwart, Queensbury, on Thursday evening Feb. 7th. The ladies purpose providing a tea, and a pleasant evening is expected. It is to be hoped that all parts of his pastorate will be represented. All are welcome. Remember the date.

ALL TOGETHER.—Let the work for canvassing for new subscribers, and getting old subscribers to renew, go on together. There should be a systematic canvass on every pastorate. The increased circulation of the Intelligencer, will increase the interest in every department of denominational work.

THE Dominion Parliament opens to-morrow.

John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, distributed $140,000 among his employees as their share of profits for 1888.

ALL SORTS.

Half a million dollars have been appropriated for common schools by Georgia legislature.

A blast of 6,000 pounds of powder was recently set off in a quarry on Telegraph Hill, San Francisco. It shook the earth for miles around, and dislodged from 60,000 to 50,000 tons of rock.

A new role for women in London city is that of serving writs. A pretty young woman there is said to find doors open to her, which to nearly every other sheriff's officer are shut fast.

The young Emperor of China, in addition to one principal wife, is to be presented with five subordinate wives and seventy-five concubines on the day of his marriage. This is Chinese civilization!

A Persian cat was able to spread scarlet fever amidst a large community of children in Chicago. This animal had been petted by a sick child, and in its visits to several neighbors' houses it carried the disease with it.

An unattractive woman and a successful farmer in Vineland, who emigrated from Massachusetts some years ago, is spoken of by a neighbor as "an intelligent, well-read woman," who can "plow, rake and dig potatoes, bake bread or play the piano."

In Canton, China, two hundred and fifty thousand people live continually upon boats, and many never set foot on shore from one year's end to another. The young children have a habit of continually falling overboard, and thus cause a great deal of trouble in effecting a rescue; while in many instances this is impossible, and a child is drowned.

The thimble was originally called a thumb bell by the English, because worn on the thumb, then a thimble, and finally its present name. It was a Dutch invention, and was first brought to England in 1695. The first thimble introduced into Siam, says Good Housekeeping, was a bridal gift from the king to the queen; it is shaped like a lotus bud, made of gold and thickly studded with diamonds arranged to spell the queen's name.

Send a new name with your renewal if possible.

Literary Notes.

The Missionary Review of the World for February is fully up to the high mark which this monthly has reached. In the Literature Section we have a masterly "Vindication of Missions" by Dr. Pierson, and "Miracles of Missions" (The Blind in China) from the same facile pen. The 3rd paper on "Missions to the Lepers," is very interesting. Dr. C. S. Robinson has another of his characteristic papers on Egypt. "Woman and Woman's Work at the London Conference" will excite attention, and "Missionary Heroes in Africa" is a thrilling contribution. The other seven departments of The Review are crowded with matter adapted to their several purposes—matter gleaned from every available source. The Review grows in interest and power from month to month. The first volume new bound—a volume of nearly 1,000 pages—is a fine contribution to the literature of missions.

Published by Paul & Weynalls, 18 and 20 Astor Place, New York. $2 per year; 25 cents for single numbers. In clubs of ten, $1.50.

BETTER THAN EVER.—It did seem as though the seedmen outdid themselves last year in the line of elaborate catalogues, but here comes Vick's Floral Guide for 1889, from Rochester, N. Y., better than all previous issues. "Better" hardly expresses it—rather, we should say, far superior. It has been changed in every respect; new cuts, new type, enlarged in size (opening like an old-fashioned singing-book); contains three elegant lithographs (8x10 inches) of Roses, Geraniums and Melon and Tomato; besides a very fine plate of the late James Vick and his three sons who now own and manage this large business. These features must make the Floral Guide valuable to their many thousands of customers in this country.

We also notice that Vick returns to the plan started by the founder of the business years ago, of offering cash prizes at the State Fair. One would think they were a little out of their heads to offer to the public such a work as the Guide free, for that is what it amounts to, when they say it will be sent on receipt of fifteen cents and that a certificate good for fifteen cents worth of seed will be returned with the Guide.

Perhaps the best sketch the Russian artist Vassili Verestchagin ever drew is the article on "A Russian Village," which he contributes to Harper's Magazine for February. It would have been well called "An Artist's Sketch," if the author had never in his life painted a picture, for the vivid impressions it gives of Russian peasant life could only have been created by a man with an artist's comprehensive vision. In the same Number of the Magazine the reader has an opportunity to look at three other quarters of the globe. P. F. McClure writes exhaustively of Dakota; Bjornstjerne Bjornson begins a series of three papers on "Norway and its people"; and Henry Ballentine relates what he saw on a trip to "Nepaul, the Land of the Gorkhas." These papers are all elaborately illustrated (that on "A Russian Village," with drawings by the author himself). Intrinsically valuable, and relatively valuable owing to the rarity of genuine criticism, is the penetrating estimate of "The Work of John Ruskin," by Dr. Charles Waldstein. Theodore Child describes the Hotel Drouot, the Mecca of art collectors; John Habberton talks with amateurs about "Bulb Gardens In-doors," and Emilie Christina Curtis pleads for a wiser training of Children's voices in public schools. Annie Fields, Annie Kent, Constance Kinney, Amelie Rives are the poets represented, the last mentioned with two Scotch songs. Edward Bellamy, who is nothing if not original, writes a remarkable fiction, "To whom this may Come." Constance Fenimore Woolson continues her serial, "Jupiter Lights." W. D. Howells, in the Editor's Study, pays tribute to two great foes of literary conventionality, Walt Whitman and Bjornstjerne Bjornson, and George William Curtis and Charles Dudley Warner vie with him in the interest of their respective departments.

Deaths.

DIBBLEE.—On the 18th inst., at the residence of W. E. Dibblee of Welsford, Queen's County, Margaret, widow of the late Sidney A. Dibblee, aged 58 years.

Sister Dibblee was a member of the F. C. Baptist Church at Midland, R. Co., of which her father, Bro. Samuel Dibblee, is an aged Deacon. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. A. Hartley.

SIMS.—The subject of the following sketch was daughter of the Rev. Mr. Normandy, Baptist Missionary to the Acadia. Early in life, Miss Helen Normandy evinced strong desire for the culture and training necessary to engaging in the profession of teaching, in which calling she succeeded well for a number of years. She also early conceived the necessity of that moral culture and experience necessary for the development of a womanly woman. Her exceptional life was the proof of great development in that direction. At the age of fifteen years she gave herself to God and publicly dedicated herself to his service, and was baptized by the Rev. J. H. Saunders at Chocomaug. She united with the Baptist church at Lakeside which she remained a worthy member until her marriage with Mr. Robert Sims Deacon, of the Free Baptist church of Plymouth. In 1881, with that breadth of thought and feeling which always characterize a saintly person, our dear sister, sinking all the denominational differences, united with the Free Baptist church at Plymouth. In her new home she acquitted herself as wife, mother and Christian so that she gained the esteem of all. She took a deep interest in religious work, never seeking foremost positions and yet always ready when duty called to the front. Anywhere to work for Jesus. Her spirit was mild and charitable, her voice soft and sweet. Never demonstrative in her friendship, yet to know her was to find a true friend. Sister Sims had been for some time subject to attacks of rheumatism. Up to the morning of her death she had for some time been quite well. But the time came when the enemy was permitted to strike the deadly blow (rheumatism) of the heart probably. In a few hours our brother was bereft of wife, his children, of the tenderest of mothers, and the church of an acreable & useful member. "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." A large concourse of people gathered at the funeral, and they expressed their sympathy with the bereaved ones. Rev. E. Crowell, the former pastor of the church, was present and took part in services on the occasion. Sermon by the writer.

WM. M. KNOLLIN.

BARNS.—At Perth, Victoria Co., on the 13th inst., Fred McLeod, aged 4 years and nine months, eldest son of Rev. J. J. Barnes.

SHAW.—At Knoxford, C. C. on the 10th inst., Hannah, relict of John Shaw, late of Wakefield. Brother Shaw got to his final rest some three years ago. Sister Shaw has seemed homesick ever since. She was carefully nursed by her daughter, yet her faith in Christ was that for her to die would be gain; she was in the 90th year of her age. She leaves 10 children, with a very large number of relatives to mourn their loss. Brother and sister Shaw were members of the F. C. Baptist Church of Victoria Corner for some 50 years; some say they were among the charter members of that Church. Sister Shaw was half sister to the late Rev. C. McMullen. Her remains were buried beside her husband, in the old burial-ground at Victoria Corner. Her funeral was conducted by the writer. T. S. VANWART.
