

recollections of boyhood days on the old homestead, memories of first meeting my former pastor, Rev. C. T. P., just then entering on the work of the Lord. 'Tis a score of years ago. What have those years wrought? The weakling has become a strong man, and the then untamed has proved faithful. What development of mind what soul culture since then. Always kind, experience has ripened his genial spirit till his life is a benediction. Bless God for good men, whose hearts are pure, whose hands are willing. Bro. Noble prayed with us, and for us. He prayed for me 24 years ago. Do I remember his prayers? Yes. Has their influence gone? No. The same zeal and fervor of spirit, the same faith in God which characterized his prayers then, are manifest now. The years have left their marks. The grey hairs are white now, the countenance only more sweet, the veteran in God's service 20 years nearer home. Well, what of these other men. Twenty years ago we were, perhaps, annoying our good mothers, filling their lives with care and anxiety. The days gone have answered in part the mother's and the pastor's prayers, brought these lads to manhood, and led them to the vineyard where opportunities for work and soul culture are abundant.

Bro. Leonard Slipp's home was open to us. How kind they were to us. They are kind to everybody. Such kindness makes one feel as though he did not half appreciate the good in this life. While there I saw two years copies of the RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCER. It, also has changed in some respects since 1888 and 1889. It has a new editor. Its price is now named in dollars and cents instead of in shillings and pence. And yet it has not changed. In the old members I saw articles on the mission work, home and foreign; on temperance, and against the theatre. It still prints such articles. It was for truth and righteousness then, it is for truth and righteousness now. Error was scorned, truth was exalted. Let it ever be so.

The incidental, the local passes, but firm as the everlasting hills, adapting itself to the circumstances of man, is truth. I noticed many names in its columns of those who have ceased from labours. Pioneers of the faith of the Gospel in the provinces, they have gone. Let us emulate their spirit, and in our field, broader because of their toil, be as faithful and progressive as they.

Space will only permit me to say that kindnesses were received in the homes of Messrs Davis, Vanwart and W. Slipp. I returned to my field on Wednesday, to work for the Master another year in this place.

J. E. GOSLINE.

Houlton, June 6th, '90.

C. T. A. Notes.

Henry Hanson, Regent St. thought he could sell rum. He discovered that it is a business attended with much risk and expense. He was before the Police Magistrate last week, who imposed a fine of $50.00 and costs.

It is reported from Parrsboro, N. S., that the C. T. Act is being so successfully enforced that all the liquor sellers have closed their bars and some have returned their stocks of liquor to St. John. About $400 has within a few days been collected in fines. Good. If they persist in violating the law send them to jail.

LeBlanc's Hotel, Moncton, was fined $50.00 for rumselling last week. A lot of fines had to be imposed about Moncton.

DIDN'T COME.—The Duke of Connaught did not visit St. John as was expected. A day or two before his expected arrival his secretary telegraphed Sir Leonard Tilley that his plans had to be changed.

MISS WILLARD, who is making a tour of the Maritime Provinces, will speak in St. John on Tuesday evening of next week, and in this city on Thursday, 19th.

NORMAL SCHOOL.—The final examinations, which determine the licenses, are now taking place in the Normal School. They began Tuesday. The public closing exercises of the term were held on Friday, and were quite interesting.

LEPROSY.—In Cape Colony leprosy has increased to such an extent that a hospital for lepers has been founded on Robber Island, near the African coast. Other hospitals will also be needed to deal with the evil. In India legislation is urgently demanded for the suppression of leprosy. Six lepers were lately arrested while begging in the markets at Bombay. They were tied to a tree near the court house, the magistrate hearing the case from the verandah. He sentenced them to one day's imprisonment.

SUCCESSFUL SALE.—As usual the West End P. C. Baptist fancy sale and tea meeting, last evening, was largely attended and conducted in a very enjoyable manner. The numerous articles on the fancy table sold well, and the refreshments were in much demand. The following ladies were in charge of the tables: Fancy table—Mrs Hartley, Mrs F. R. Connor, Mrs Joseph Wylie, Misses Hattie Ross, LIBEL.—Mr. S. Schofield, St. John, has begun an action for libel against the proprietor of Progress.

HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW.—The Queen of Denmark, mother-in-law of the Czar, has it appears, been writing him about affairs in Russia, and, doubtless, has counselled reform. In his reply the Czar promises a strict enquiry into Siberian scandals and says he will punish heavily excesses of severity on the part of officials. He also promises to instruct his ministers to draft measures of amelioration.

A SERIES OF VISITS.—The young Emperor of Germany likes to visit. He has arranged a starting trip for this summer. This month he intends to visit the courts of Italy and Spain; in July, he will go into Denmark and Norway; in August, to London and St. Petersburg; in September, into Austria, and in October he will probably make a tour to Greece to see his sister, after which he will go on to Egypt.

AN ABSURD SENTENCE.—"One month in jail," is the latest punishment for killing. That is the sentence passed by the Chief Justice upon Watt for killing Torrey in St. John. It is a most absurd sentence. The Sun says: It was remarked the other day by an observing journal across the border that murder or other offences against the person are crimes that may now be committed with the least danger of punishment. This theory is sustained by what seems to be a ridiculous sentence passed yesterday upon young Watt who got drunk and killed a man by sticking a knife in him. The jury found Watt guilty of manslaughter and the judge sentenced him to a month in jail, about the same penalty as the police magistrate might have inflicted if Watt had contented himself with throwing stones at the man's door. If the prisoner had taken Torrey's watch he would have gone to the penitentiary for several years, but as he only took his life he gets a month. Another young man (Morgan) for assaulting a girl gets a year's imprisonment and a flogging. This is probably not too severe a punishment for the offence, but Morgan, not being learned in the law, will probably wish that he had killed the young woman while he was about it, in order to reduce the penalty.

The Gazette says: There is something really grotesque in this sentence when contrasted with others pronounced upon offenders at the same court, and by the same judge. Albert Morgan for indecent assault, was sentenced to twelve months imprisonment and twelve lashes; Frederick Damen, who was convicted of wounding a sailor with a knife without intending to do grievous bodily harm, was sentenced to six months in the jail, while Watt who killed his man handsomely with a knife, got one month's imprisonment. As a well known barrister remarked after hearing this extraordinary sentence, "To make the farce complete the judge should have told Watt to go and apologize to him for the inconvenience he had been put to by his detention."

PRECEDENCE.—The Montreal Methodist Conference, in session last week, adopted the following resolution: "Whereas, the constitution of the Dominion of Canada knows nothing of union of church and state, recognizing all sections of the church as standing on the ground of equality; "Whereas, in the table of precedence we have the following order: Governor-generals, Lieutenant-governors, archbishops and bishops, members of the cabinet, etc., thus ignoring the existence of the great Protestant church, which represents the majority of the dominion; "Whereas, in the aforesaid order of precedence, pre-eminence is given to an archbishop who is the appointee of the primate of Rome to the official degradation of the clergy of all Protestant churches; "Resolved, that we hereby utter our decided protest against the aforesaid order, and declare our purpose to employ all legitimate means to secure its abrogation as creative of invidious distinctions between religious bodies to the disadvantage of the Protestant minority.

"Resolved, that we memorialize the general conference to take such means as it deems best to secure such abrogation."

There is no need of such a table of precedence in this country. If the Governor General, Governor's and the like wish to lay down rules about where they shall walk, and sit, and stand, and who shall be first, and how far apart they must be, and when they shall bow and to whom and with what degree of deference, &c., &c., let them do it. But they have no right to make rules regulating the standing of the ministers of the different denominations. There is no state church in this country, though one would sometimes think there is—at least, that some people think so.

SUCCESSFUL SALE.—As usual the West End P. C. Baptist fancy sale and tea meeting, last evening, was largely attended and conducted in a very enjoyable manner. The numerous articles on the fancy table sold well, and the refreshments were in much demand. The following ladies were in charge of the tables: Fancy table—Mrs Hartley, Mrs F. R. Connor, Mrs Joseph Wylie, Misses Hattie Ross,

CAREFUL OF THE POPE.—The Pope's resident physician follows His Holiness about almost like his shadow, and is forever going to and fro with a thermometer in his hand, looking out for the slightest breath of an intrusive draught that might venture to blow rudely near the head of the church. Sometimes these precautions are carried to an absurd pitch. When Leo XIII. was to officiate during the winter at the Sistine Chapel, the doctor had huge braziers of charcoal set burning there all night beforehand, and when the morning arrived the atmosphere was so oppressive that half the ladies had to leave the chapel fainting while Mass was being read, and the Pope himself got such a violent headache that he could scarcely get through the service, and was quite ill all the rest of the day from it.

SUNDRIES.—A hotel has been opened at the foot of the Great Pyramid in Egypt. . . . An English M. P. asserts that, as a result of the drink habit of the parents, 55,000 children in London go to school each morning unfed. . . . On account of overwork, Archdeacon Farrar has gone to the Continent for rest. . . . The French government labor bill fixes 10 hours daily as the limit for man's work. . . . Quill toothpicks, as a rule, are imported from France. The largest factory in the world is near Paris, where twenty millions are annually produced. . . . It is now said to be settled that Princess Mary of Teck and Prince Albert Victor will be married. . . . It is said that 30,000 strangers remain over in New York every night, furnishing plenty of business for the 125 hotels in the city. . . . Information gathered in London is said to show that cats catch diphtheria from human patients and carry the disease to healthy persons.

Temperance Notes.

—A boy, five years old, was treated in a private hospital in Berlin for delirium tremens.

—Ballots are what the liquor men fear. They spend thousands of dollars for votes, and would not give a nickel for a barrel of resolutions.

—The Duke of Edinburgh, presiding over the annual meeting of the Missions to Seamen, said he rejoiced to learn that in eleven years 85,000 Temperance pledges had been taken by seamen, fishermen and bargemen at the hands of the chaplains and readers of the mission.

—To the prohibitionists who are deceived by the high license folly: When the devil proposes to do something good, you may be sure it is for his own interest.

—Two hundred progressive young women of New Zealand are banded together in a Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union, two years old, that has already met with signal success in connection with various philanthropic undertakings. It does flower-mission work, hospital visiting, work among children, sailors and cabinmen, holds singing, sewing and Bible classes, and has exercised a decided social influence in many communities.

In the following vein a contemporary serves up one of the greatest social "institutions" of the era: "Have you a boy to spare? The saloon must have boys or it must shut up shop. Can't you furnish it one? It is a great factory; and unless it can get 2,000,000 boys from each generation for raw material, some of these factories must close out, and its operatives must be thrown on a cold world, and the public revenue will dwindle. 'Wanted—2,000,000 boys,' is the notice. One family out of every five must contribute a boy to keep up the supply. Will you help? Which of your boys will it be? Have you given your share to keep up the supply for this great public institution that is helping to pay your taxes and kindly electing public officials for you? Have you contributed a boy? If not, some other family has had to give more than its share. Are you satisfied, voting to keep the saloon open to grind up boys, and then doing nothing to keep up the supply?"

—A Zanzibar despatch dated April 15th, says: "Rev. Alexander Mackay, the famous missionary in the Uganda country, has died from fever. Mr. Mackay was the man whose name Stanley linked with Livingstone and Moffat as among the most eminent missionaries who have labored in Central Africa. He had remained thirteen years continuously in Africa, and had done a great and good religious work, besides which he found time to pursue scientific labors on the shore and among the islands of the Victoria Nyanza, the results of which made him known to all the geographers."
