At Acadia Mines, Wednesday night an attempt was made to blow up the cause of constable Totten with dynamite. Totten, in company with two other constables, took two women and a man and lodged them in Truro all on Saturday last, under warrants or violating the liquor license act. A good many threats were made against the constables at the time, and against Totten in particular. The dynamite was placed under the corner of Totten's kitchen and set off. It made a terrific report which could be heard all over the town. One window was badly broken up, the clap-boards were started from the corner of the building, and the door steps blown a good distance. Totten was in Truro at the time, but his wife and several children were in the house.

One of those painfully sudden and shocking accidents which occasionally startle the community occurred about half-past two on Wednesday afternoon of last week, when William Ross, second mate of the schooner Galenia, was instantly killed by a fall from the foremast head of the vessel. The unfortunate man was at the head, engaged in unshackling the maintopmast spring stay, when the cap of the foremast came off. The foretopmast having been sent down, Ross, clinging to the cap still attached to the stay, was swung against the main rigging, breaking his hold on the cap, and dashing him to the deck, near the after hatch, a hundred feet or more from the foremast head killing him instantly. In his fall Ross struck against Jas. Farnham, who was engaged caking the deck, knocking him senseless, but not injuring him seriously. An inquest was held shortly afterwards by Dr. Reed, coroner, and with the above recorded facts, Ross was a quiet, sober man, about twenty-six years of age; he was unmarried, and a native of Noel.

Last week, and this week so far as we have heard, the people of Digby Neck and St. Mary's Bay have been getting a perfect bonanza in the shape of mackerel. Mrs. Crozier, of Digby was poisoned, on Tuesday of last week. She had been in poor health; the doctor gave her a prescription; the druggist gave her strychnine instead of the medicine ordered, and she died in a few minutes. The verdict of the Coroner's jury was that Mrs. Crozier came to her death by a dose of strychnine sulph., and that said drug was dispensed by mistake for sulfonal, and that the bottles containing said drugs had been changed unknown to the dispensing chemist, and that the death was purely accidental.

The steamer "Taurus" arrived in France, Wednesday, with marines and soldiers from Dahomey. The men are in a pitiable condition, their health having been completely shattered by the hardships they have endured. The "Taurus" brings the details of the defeat of Egbas by the Dahomeyans. The victors, it appears, destroyed 30 villages and took 3,000 prisoners. The Dahomeyans showed no mercy, and were guilty of the most inhuman acts of cruelty. All infants that were captured in the villages were killed, many of them being burned alive. Egbas and 20,000 of his followers fled to the Catholic mission at Abbeokuta. King Behanzin afterward advanced into the interior and captured 2,000 more prisoners. One thousand women who were made prisoners were put to death.

A Prague despatch says,—The undermined houses have been propped up, but the military are still compelled to deliver free bread to the poor. The hospitals are rapidly filling with the sick, who are suffering from disorders produced by the abnormal condition of things that has lately prevailed here. Permits for 50 funerals have been applied for to-day, among them those of four women who died in childbirth in sections of the city cut off by the flood, no midwives or physicians being obtainable. From all sections of the country come the same story of tottering dwellings, destroyed gardens and large tracts of land lost to agriculture for years to come. The harvest throughout Bohemia, which has been plentiful, has been largely washed away, after being stored in granaries. In many districts the beet root is a staple crop, and its loss will prove a cause of unspeakable misery in the denizens of hundreds of towns and villages. In Prague it is estimated that out of over 200,000, 45,000 have been more or less reduced in circumstances, many of the poorer classes being utterly ruined by the events of the past week.

DYING WITH HUMORS

Which Three Doctors Could not Cure, Cured in Four Weeks by CUTICURA Remedies.

I wrote you about four years ago of the wonderful cure I made with your CUTICURA REMEDIES of a bad humor on my face which twelve doctors failed to understand or cure. Three years last fall my son went to Sacramento, Cal., and after two or three months he broke out with a humor on his stomach and back, suffering very much. He employed three different doctors, and at last told him to go back to Maine, as his disease was caused by change of climate, and he could not live in California. He wrote me that he was coming home, for he was dying with a humor that the doctors could not cure. I wrote him to get some CUTICURA REMEDIES and take according to directions, and bathes freely with the CUTICURA SOAP, and in four weeks after he got my letter he wrote me he was entirely cured. He came home a few weeks ago on a visit, and is at home now. His health is good. I have recommended these remedies to a great many people with bad cases that would not yield to doctors' medicines, and in no case have I known them to fail to make a cure. If you wish to refer any one to me, I will answer, with pleasure.

SICK.—The illness of the Duke of Clarence, Prince Albert of Wales, is more serious than is publicly admitted by his physicians. It is now announced that he is so much out of sorts that he will be unable to take up his autumn engagements. He has the harrassed look which comes of nervous depression and nothing seems to do him any good. His sister, the Duchess of Fife, is gradually recovering in the bracing air of Scotland, but the prince seems to lack any recuperative power. It is said that he did too much work in India and is now suffering the consequences, but it looks very much as though some constitutional weakness were developing itself, the existence of which has hitherto been suspected.

CZAR ALEXANDER III., unlike his predecessors, does not reside in the famous Winter Palace when in St. Petersburg, but in the much smaller and modest Anitschkow Palace, which he for many years occupied as Crown Prince. This palace, which is on the Newsky-Prospect, the largest and most beautiful street of the metropolis, stands directly opposite the Anitschkow bridge. During the winter months, which the imperial family regularly spend in St. Petersburg, the heavy gates of the palace entrance are opened every day at a certain hour, and a sleigh, drawn by two fiery horses, appears, in it sits the Empress, accompanied by one of her ladies in waiting. She drives out daily, no matter how severe the weather. The sleigh itself is in no way a remarkable vehicle, and the Empress is always dressed plainly. The Empress is exceedingly popular throughout Russia. Like all the Danish princes and princesses, she has received an education which has taught her to understand sympathetically the common people; although married for three and twenty years, she is still a great favorite of her husband, and has great influence over him. She is not exactly a beauty, but is very graceful and attractive. By nature she is of a lively and pleasant disposition, but the still unexplained railroad catastrophe of Boriki had a depressing influence upon her which she apparently cannot chrow off.

Racing With Wolves.

Many a thrilling tale has been told by travelers of a race with wolves across the frozen steppes of Russia. Sometimes only the picked bones of the hapless traveler are found to tell the tale. In our country thousands are engaged in a life-and-death race against the wolf Consumption. The best weapon with which to fight the foe, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This renowned remedy has cured myriads of cases when all other medicines and doctors had failed. It is the greatest blood-purifier and restorer of strength known to the world. For all forms of scrofulous affections (and consumption is one of them), it is unequalled as a remedy.

THE SUPERIORITY of the "Royal Flavoring Extracts" is purity and strength.
