OBJECTIONS. How to Meet Them.

BY REV. DR. PENNEY.

Among the readers of a religious paper there are always some--and especially at this season of the year, when so many revivals are abroadenemy, and who find, as they grow earnest in this matter, how wonderfully fertile in objections their minds have grown. Let me select one such

You never thought yourself before so rich in point of invention. But now. no sooner does the subject come up then a perpetual stream of evasions, excuses, apologies for delaying repentance, pours into your mind. What is the meaning of it all? It is, believe me, no fruit of your own mind alone. Other intellects, more fertile than yours, are busy with you. These new thoughts are the arrows from the outworks of hell, which Bunyan describes as you travel toward the wicket gate.

"Religion is mysterious," says the temper. "You don't know what to do. You may make some mistakes, and had spent with Rev. Jos. Noble on his better not try." What is your only pastorate, which embraces Lower safe answer? Go straight to Christ. Brighton, Hartland and Upper Brigh-

--- NEW MEMBERS are being received into the churches. To build them up in the faith of the gospel and to lead them to faithful christian service is now the important duty of pastors and older christians.

-" IF A MAN has not an interest in the spread of his religious convictions, they will soon cease to have any vital influence on his own belief and life."

-RELIGION is not something apart from every-day life. If it does not enter into and control the whole lifeat home, in business, and in all its relations to all men, it is "a sounding brass."

-THE LAST annual report of the Metropolitan Tabernacle (Spurgeon's), states that during the year there has been a decrease in the weekly offerings, and that the number of members paying for sittings considerably decreased. Nobody, however, makes Mr. Spurgeon responsible for these fallings-off. The church officers have both the sense and the honesty to rightly account for them.

-THE "Christian Inquirer," referring to the lack of funds in the Baptist Foreign Mission treasury, remarks :

"One of two things is evident about our foreign missions. Churches had Does his successive journeys run, better give more money or cease their His kingdom stretch from shore to prayers.'

We incline to the opinion that if there were more real praying there would be a corresponding increase of money flowing into the treasury.
