PRESQUE ISLE ME.—Rev. J. E. Gosline, who has been for nearly three years pastor of the church in Houlton, has accepted the unanimous call of this church, and will enter upon his labors the first Sabbath in June. Bro. G. has been very successful at Houlton, having added to the membership fifty-seven during his pastorate. He enters this field under very encouraging circumstances, and it is safe to predict continued prosperity under his labors. —Morning Star.

CHURCH ORGANIZED.—On Thursday evening last a Free Baptist Church was organized at Gibson by Rev. J. T. Parsons, assisted by Revs. G. A. Hartley, F. C. Hartley and the editor of the INTELLIGENCER. Thirty-two members composed the new organization; twenty-one others have signified their intention to become members, but they were unable to be present at the organization. The ten baptized during recent weeks by Bro. Parsons became members of the new church; the others had been members of churches in other places. Bro. Parsons has had regular preaching Sabbath evening and a week-night prayer meeting since last fall, and his labors have been blessed. The new church enters upon its career under favorable circumstances, and we trust will have much prosperity and be a blessing to the community.

Bro. Parsons has promised to make a full report of the recent special meetings held there, and the steps leading to organization.

CHEGGOGIN, YAR. CO. N. S.—Rev. A. G. Jones commenced his labors on this pastorate in the latter part of January. As he has a very large field he is able to preach here only once in a fortnight. His earnest and faithful labors are much appreciated and have been blessed to the encouragement and upbuilding of the church. Special meetings were held for five weeks and were well attended throughout. The power of God was felt in our midst. Backsliders were reclaimed, quite a number professed conversion, and eleven were baptized and added to the church.

Special meetings were also held at Sanford, another section of this pastorate, with good results.

Bro. Jones has been laid aside from his work for a short time by an attack of pleurisy, but is now sufficiently recovered to attend his regular appointments.

EXCHANGE.—Revs. G. A. Hartley and F. C. Hartley exchanged pulpits last Sabbath.

St. Martin's Seminary.

The closing exercises of the school will be held on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, June 5th, 6th and 7th. The sermon before the graduating class will be preached on Sunday morning, June 5th, and the sermon before the Missionary Society on the evening of the same day. Public examinations will be held on Monday morning, and the annual Rhetorical Contest on Monday evening. The graduating exercises will commence at 11 o'clock on Tuesday morning. In the evening there will be a grand closing Concert. It is expected that a large number of visitors will be present.

Special arrangements have been made with the Intercolonial and Central Railway Companies, by which visitors from St. John and Hampton and Sussex will be returned FREE on payment of full first-class fare one way. This arrangement only holds good on the Intercolonial, however, in case there is a party of ten or more. A cordial welcome will be extended to all who come.

AUSTEN K. DEBLOIS.

FAMINES.—The time ought to have nearly passed away when a great famine could occur anywhere in the world. We suppose it now has passed in India, thanks to the good English government and the network of railroads. Great inundations may cause a local famine in China; but the two countries which are now in chief danger of a famine are Russia and Turkey, and in both cases it is the fault of the government. It is a shame and an outrage that the world should be compelled to help Russia out of the injury done by its government. But we cannot leave it to fry in its own fat. Guilty as that government is, it would not be right not to relieve its victims.

ECLIPSES.—Every year there must be two eclipses of the sun, and there may be five. These are partial eclipses, however, except in the comparatively rare case in which the moon passes nearly centrally over the sun's disk, and produces a total obscuration of his light. Since the invention of the spectroscopic, in 1869, there have been barely a score of total eclipses, and a number of these could not be observed because the belt of totality fell at the earth's polar regions or upon the oceans. The belt of totality is a narrow strip—never more than one hundred and seventy miles wide—where the point of the moon's shadow falls upon the earth. Total eclipses rarely recur, therefore, at the same point of the earth. At London, for example, there has been no total eclipse since the year 1140 except that of 1715, and there will be none during the next century.

AUSTRALIA, says the Forum, is as far advanced in civilization as any country in the world. The roads are better than any on this continent; the daily and weekly papers and the development of literature and art are far in advance of the age of the colonies or the population. The new commonwealth has all Europe and America as a field in which to seek the improvements of the time and the means to secure them. Its present wealth is almost beyond belief, and its resources are almost incalculable. It produces more than one-fourth of the wool of the world—twice as much as the United States. It produces one-half of the tin of the world, and there is no precious metal that has not been found within its domain. Its coal field on the coast, convenient for export to all countries, are inexhaustible. The inward and outward shipping of one port alone exceeds 2,500,000 tons per annum, and the value of its commerce with Great Britain alone exceeds £100,000,000 sterling. Last year's estimate of the annual industrial productions of the population, including both agriculture and mineral wealth, was no less than £95,042,000. Its cities also are among the finest of modern times. The public buildings, shops, and parks compare favorably with any in Europe or America, while the floating palaces of the Peninsula and Oriental Steamship Company and the Orient Steamship Company give weekly communication with the Old World.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—Yesterday was the seventy-second birthday of Queen Victoria. The changes she has seen, as Queen, in England and elsewhere in the world, have been wonderful. Every throne in Europe has changed occupants; some of them, as in France, Denmark, Prussia and Bavaria, several times. When Victoria became Queen, Wellington was not beyond his prime; Peel was at his zenith; Brougham and Lyndhurst were still the great forensic gladiators in the House of Lords, and O'Connell, Hume, Stanley, Macaulay and Palmerston were leaders in the Commons; Woodworth, Southey, Moore, Campbell, Rogers, Sydney Smith, Hood, Christopher North, were the literary celebrities of the day; Bulwer, Dickens and Disraeli were just dawning, and Thackeray and Tennyson were utterly unknown; General Jackson has just retired from the White House to the Hermitage, and Martin Van Buren was President of the United States.

PERSONAL.—Judge Steadman is expected back from California, early in June. He is much improved in health. Dr. T. H. Rand, for many years the efficient Chief Superintendent of Education in New Brunswick, has been elected Chancellor of McMaster University, Toronto. This is a well-deserved recognition of commanding abilities and skill as an educationist. McMaster is to be congratulated on having secured Dr. Rand as his head. The educational work of this country has no man his superior, if any is his equal.

BUSINESS COLLEGE.—The young man who intends to devote himself to business pursuits needs a thorough training. And any one is better for having the knowledge of how to do business. The Business College is one of the institutions of the day. The St. John Business College is said to be as good as any in Canada, and the largest, most practical, and most thoroughly equipped institution of its class in the Eastern Provinces. It gives a thorough course in book-keeping, shorthand, business and ornamental penmanship, and does it at small cost. Graduates of the institution speak well of it. Special attention is now being given to penmanship, and, judging from the specimens of Mr. Pringle's work which we have before us, he is certainly master of the art. Those who are contemplating a business course will do well to read the advertisement of the College in another column, and write the Principal.

IMMORALITY EXCUSED.—The open immorality of Roman Catholics, in Roman Catholic and especially South American countries, is not only admitted, but is excused, by one of their representative writers, Mr. Merwin Marie Snell, in the Catholic Review. He says: As Catholics believe the Church to be for sinners even more than for saints; as the Catholic Church has no membership from which persons are liable to be expelled for immorality; there is always in Catholic countries an openness in wrong-doing which to the superficial observer makes them appear to a disadvantage compared with those lands whose vice is concealed. The words need no comment. Romanism is, admittedly, not a power left to be exerting itself against immorality. Men of spotless lives have been excommunicated and burned, but immorality involves no one in any danger of expulsion.

JUDGES' SALARIES.—It is reported that the government will not this session press the measure for the proposed increase of the salaries of the judges. It ought to be abandoned entirely. They are now about the best paid officials in the country.

LORD SALISBURY has created a sensation, and provoked much criticism, by a speech the other day in which he said that a danger to England's commercial welfare is growing up under the existing free trade system. "Foreign nations," he said "are adopting protection; they are excluding us from their markets and trying to kill our trade. Free trade doctrine may be noble, but is not business like. We live in an age of war of tariffs. An important point is that while other nations are negotiating to obtain each other's commercial favor, there is none anxious about the favor of Great Britain. Why? Because Great Britain has stripped herself of the armor and weapons with which the battle is to be fought."

C. T. A. NOTES.—A Fairville woman was fined last week for rum-selling. The new city council of Moncton is making a push against Soot Act offenders. Since their election about two months ago, nineteen cases have been brought, resulting in seventeen convictions. Keep it up, gentlemen.

GAMBLING.—Where can be found a more just characterization of gambling and its effects upon a community than in these words uttered by Chancey M. Depew to a reporter of the N. Y. Tribune:

A considerable proportion of failures in business and 90 per cent. of the defalcations and thefts and ruin of youth among people who are employed in places of trust are due directly to gambling. It is the one vice which seems to destroy immediately the moral sense and to obliterate that absolutely essential quality in employer and employee, in the custodian and his cash, in the son and his mother's or his sister's property, fidelity to the trust, the violation of which destroys the violator and ruins the people who confide in him. I have seen in my vast employment so much misery from the head of the family neglecting its support and squandering his earnings in the lottery or the policy-shop, and promising young men led astray in a small way and finally becoming fugitives or landing in the criminal dock, that I have come to believe that the community which licenses and tolerates public gambling can not have prosperity in business, religion in its churches, or morality among its people.

SUNDRIES.—The directors of the World's Fair have spent $20,000 already in postage. The English eat more butter per head than any other people. Only one American in 264 is over six feet in height. The government of Nicaragua offers 240 acres of coffee land to every married immigrant and 120 to every single one. A church in Lancaster, Pa., offered a medal to every person who did not miss a church or Sunday-school service during the year. One medal was awarded and the sexton got it. A cocoon of a well-fad silk worm, it is said, will often yield a thread 1,000 yards long, and one has been produced which contained 1,295 yards. The population of Great Britain is 335 to the square mile. Every workman in Japan wears on his cap and on his back an inscription giving his business and his employer's name. Twenty-four trunk lines enter Chicago and run on or across its streets. It is said that as a result 500 persons are killed at crossings there every year and three times as many injured. In 1866 the estimated population of the earth was 1,350,000,000. In 1880 a more accurate enumeration put it at 1,456,000,000. In 1882 it was announced as 1,434,000,000, an apparent loss of 22,000,000, in two years, the showing being due to the greater accuracy in the statistics. The figures for 1891 are 1,479,730,000, which show an average annual increase since 1882 of 5,750,000.

COLUMBUS.—The proposal to celebrate the fourth century of the discovery of the new world by Columbus has been made the occasion by the always present and active critics of saying many things about the great discoverer not at all complimentary. Some of them may be true, and some may be very far from the truth. So fierce a light has been turned upon him, says Zion's Herald, that he stands revealed a monster rather than a hero. He was a pirate, they tell us, and a slave-trader. He was fierce, false, fanatical. His lust of gold was intense. He was cruel, brutal—lacking in every moral trait. The misfortunes of his later years were well-deserved judgments. All this, and more. But surely it is not fair to bring a fifteenth-century man to the bar of the nineteenth. If piracy, and man-stealing, and cruelty, and avarice, were so universal in his day that they were hardly regarded as criminal, if in his age the standard of morals was set by such ruffians as the Barbary co: sailors it is hardly just to single him out for special obloquy, and relegate to the background those shining qualities—the elevation of spirit, the tenacity of mind—which kept him steadily to a purpose which the scientists of his day decided as either impious or insane. It is a pity that our historians should deem it necessary, at a time when the whole world remembers gratefully the virtues of the great discoverer, to uncover and parade his faults. Columbus was no saint, but he was without doubt a hero, and a man of lofty genius.

HEAVY BELLS.—The Buckeye Bell Foundry has lately supplied some of the finest building in the country with their magnificent bells. The Cincinnati City Hall has lately secured one of 4,500 lbs., the Carew Building, of same city, received two aggregating 4,000 lbs., and the handsome new Court House at Mobile, Ala., a duplicate of those of Carew Building. The Court House at Dallas, Tex., a duplicate of the Cincinnati City Hall bell. The High School, Mansfield, Ohio, received a 4,000 lbs. bell. These are only a few instances, as many more might be cited to show the diversity of sections to which they go, among which we name but a few. A 2,200 lbs. bell to Nova Scotia; 2,500 lbs. bell to Maine; several of lesser weight to Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York; a 3,500 lbs. bell to Pt. Townsend, Wash.; a 2,100 lbs. bell to same place, besides a number of fine peals of bells to Hamilton, Ohio, Cedarburg, Wis., Wayne, Wis., Fairmount, Ohio, and so the list might be extended. These are sufficient to show that the Vandusen & Tift Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, are making and supplying many of the finest bells in the country, and giving full satisfaction to every purchaser. They have also completed their New Bell Foundry and equipped it with every modern appliance necessary to turn out the finest and best class of work, thus evidencing that they are abreast of the times. Their bells are of superior quality and workmanship, and our people will always secure good work and faithful service at their hands. The firm have now one of the largest bell foundries in the country, and rank the very highest in the business.

The Lapplander's Bible.

The Lapps have the Bible in their own tongue, and few stories are more interesting than the account of its translation. Over thirty years ago a series of religious riots took place in a number of villages in Lapland, and among the rioters was one Lars Haetta. During the riots several homicides occurred, and Lars and some other of his companions were committed to prison on a charge of murder. They were found guilty, and several were hanged, but in consideration of his youth, Haetta was condemned to life-long imprisonment. Commiserating his condition, his keepers and the prison chaplain extended to him such favors as could safely be granted to a life-long prisoner, and finding them rewarded by good conduct, took especial pains to teach him to read and write. Lars became interested in the Bible, grew day by day more fond of reading it, and finally formed the bold project of translating it into his native tongue. Through many weary years the labor went on, for Lars was no great scholar, and the Lapp language, as may be readily supposed, is not a fluent literary medium of thought. But finally the work was done, the Bible translated and printed in the language of Lapland, and the remainder of Haetta's sentence was commuted. He was living as late as 1870, and though an old man, was still active, and often served parties of travellers as a guide.

Literary Notes.

There are several papers in the Homiletic Review for June which are especially strong and full of interest. Dr. Hugh Macmillan, of Scotland, opens with a suggestive paper on the Mystery of Healing, wherein he antagonizes the so-called Faith-Cure school, and magnifies the miraculous power of the Great Physician. Professor Morris writes on "Tyre; a Lesson in Prophecy." The Sermonic Section has its usual proportion of well-known names. In the Sociological Section there is an earnest "Vindication of Reform," which the enemies of Prohibition will do well to read and ponder. In the Miscellaneous Section we are told what are the essentials of "Effective Preaching." The current number brings to a close the 23rd volume of The Homiletic. "The Missionary Review of the World" for June, devotes a large portion of its space to a timely consideration of the work in Africa. In the department of Literature of Mission are three papers on this subject—"The Scourge of Africa;" "African Theology;" or, the Zulu's Creed, as Seen in the Folk-Lore;" and "News from the South African Mission Field." The Monthly Concert of Missions is also devoted chiefly to Africa. Especially notable is Part II of a series of papers on "William Carey, the Missionary Organ, Preacher and Teacher." The series will be continued in subsequent issues. The score or more other articles cover a broad field and present an excellent summary of Mission work in all parts of the globe. Published by the Funk & Wagnall Company, 18 and 20 Astor Place, New York. $2 per copy; 25 cents for single numbers. In clubs of ten $1.50.

Deaths.

WEBB.—At Bangor, Me., May 10th, of bronchitis, Yexxa Webb, infant son of Annie and the late Stillman Webb, aged 4 months.—W. H. P.
MCPHERSON.—Deacon Edward McPherson, was drowned while attending his lobster traps near Spectacle Island, N. S., where he resided as Light-keeper. He leaves a widow and four children and many relatives and friends, who deeply mourn his death. His body is not yet found.
J. W. S.
GUNTER.—At Lower Queensbury, York Co., on the 19th inst., Deacon Andrew Gunter, aged 76 years, a widow, two sons and five daughters deeply mourn his death. Bro. Gunter was the youngest brother of the late Rev. Jacob Gunter. He was a kindly man, of great strength of character, firm in his religion, and a humble disciple of Christ. He died, as he had lived, in faith and hope of the Gospel. His funeral was on Saturday, the burial being in the Bear Island cemetery. Revs. Dr. McLeod and A. G. Downey conducted the service, the first named preaching in the Bear Island church. The attendance was large.
CALDER.—On the 13th inst., near Portmouth, Captain George Calder, of the C. B. Payne, drowned, aged 33 years. He belonged to Fairhaven, Deer Island, and was the son of Capt. Alonzo Calder. The details of the accident are yet unreported to us, but his body was recovered, brought home and buried in their own burial ground on the 15th inst., when upwards of 400 people were present. The obsequies were conducted by Rev. A. H. McLeod. Universal sympathy is shown the friends of the deceased who was widely and favorably known. In honor of the careful and judicious seaman the flag here was put at half mast on the 14th and 15th inst. Parents, three sisters and four brothers, one of which is Rev. Alonzo Calder (Metodi t) are left to deeply mourn; no sorrow for a loved one gone. But Jesus is their friend.
A. H. McL.
FOUNTAIN.—Flora Fountain, eldest child of Frank and Maria Fountain, died of brain fever at Chocolate Cove, Deer Island. Peacefully she went away from her parents. She was only a little past three years old, but what a place she filled in that home. Hearts ache because she is not. But God knows best, and his will be done. "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth," was the text when attending the little one's funeral. How solemn, solemn to attend the funeral of the spotless pure, and yet how full of hope.
A. H. McL.

IT has always been my determination to conduct the best Business College in Canada. In order the more effectively to do this, I have for some years been looking for the RIGHT MAN to assist me. As evidence that I have succeeded it is only necessary to announce that I have secured as partner Mr. Wm. PRINGLE, the well-known Business College specialist. Mr. Pringle is not only the best penman in Canada, but also one of the ablest and finest educators of the day. We intend to win success by doing it.
