

DER 7, 1892

A gospel wagon, the "Glad Tidings," is made use of in the lower parts of Chicago. In the front part of the vehicle is an organ, and the lady organist can play to suit the taste of any audience that may gather. A good choir, an excellent cornet player, and a tract distributor, occupy seats in the gospel wagon. It stops from five to ten minutes on the principal corners to allow the occupants to sing a few songs of praise, to speak a few earnest exhortations from the Word of God, to distribute some tracts, and to invite the spectators to attend the service in the two havens of refuge.

The French Government has done a most commendable thing in recognizing the evangelistic work done through the agency of the McAll Mission in Paris and the outlying branches. Mr. McAll has been decorated with the Legion of Honor. This recognition of Protestant work by the Government of a Roman Catholic nation cannot fail to help and encourage the mission. True, the kingdom of God does not depend upon the alliance with earthly power but this is an honest recognition of work done by individual effort, unaided except by voluntary contributions. There are now over one hundred McAll missions in France, and in these the primitive Gospel is preached in its purity and simplicity. This act of justice and recognition of Christian work has been done by a Government which French clericalism paints in dark colors. It shows that the ruling powers of France are not so dark as they are painted.

Words of Cheer.

The following is doubly helpful—encouraging to the INTELLIGENCER, and a lesson of trust to the many who have sore struggle:

Dear Bro. McLeod:—The dear INTELLIGENCER reaches so many people who are pressed down by life's burdens; and carries such words of comfort that seem just fitted to everyone's needs, that I send you the following facts. And if this simple story should by the blessing of God, help to strengthen someone's faith the writer will be very glad.

I should like to add that at the time this poor woman was passing through this dark time, an article in your paper entitled, "Nothing comes by chance," was her greatest solace. She cannot help feeling that God directed the writing of it. And that particular sentence, "Bread, corn is bruised, but he will not ever be threshing it," was her meat day and night. May the Lord bless you and the dear INTELLIGENCER. You may have no idea how many times God has brought his message of love to weary hearts through your paper.

The story is this:—Sometime not very long ago a poor woman subscribed so much a month for the support of the gospel. For a time all went well, and she was able to meet the payments. But by-and-by, all means of support were unexpectedly cut off, and when the month came round she had just enough money to pay her subscription. She began to question whether she ought to give it or not. There were so many needs to be met; debt was accumulating on every hand. Sunday night came, and the little ones clustered round her knee, as was their habit, for a little story. Well, what shall it be? asked the mother. "Tell us about Elijah," said one little bright-eyed fellow. And so the mother began to tell the story. When she came to the place where the prophet came to the gate of the city, and met the poor widow, her thoughts began to go out in this way, and she talked them out to her children. The poor widow might have said, O no sir! I cannot spare you a cake. I have only enough meal to make a little cake for myself and boy. If I give it to you we shall starve. But when the "Man of God" said to her, "Fear not, but make me first a little cake," she did not question but simply obeyed him; and she was fed all through the famine.

By the time she finished the story her mind was made up. She said the Lord shall have his portion and I will trust him for the rest. She paid the Lord's money. And soon after the clouds began to break away. Nothing miraculous happened; but neighbours did little deeds of kindness; soon employment came; and in about six months she was able to pay up the debts that had accumulated in that dark time, and to live very comfortably. And she would say to all who may read these simple facts, "Fear not," but trust in the Lord.

ANON.

CANADA'S RAILWAYS. According to the statistical year book of Canada for 1891, which has just been issued, Canada has now 14,009 miles of railway in operation an increase of 853 miles over the previous year. The train mileage for the year was 43,399,178, the number of passengers carried was 13,222,568 the tons of freight carried were 21,753,021. The gross earnings were $48,192,099 and the working expenses $34,960,449. All these figures were considerably larger than the previous year, there being an increase of 401,306 in the number of passengers and of 965,562 tons in the freight. Our railroad mileage is now double what it was in 1881, and is 3,146 miles in excess of that of all the Australian colonies combined, including New Zealand.

Scott Act Notes.

The Scott Act case against Scribner of Hampton, was concluded on Thursday, after occupying the attention of the court for several days. It resulted in a conviction of the defendant, who was fined $50 and costs, and the liquor, which had been seized, was ordered to be destroyed. The case was tried before Justices Piers and McLaughlin.

Mr. C. R. Casey, Scott Act Inspector for Cumberland, makes the statement that in the past three years he has driven 85 persons out of the liquor traffic and has collected over $6,000 in fines.

Literary Notes.

CANADA FOR JULY AND AUGUST.

The July-August issue of Canada comes to hand with a very interesting table of contents. "A Tale of '47," "A Trip to Manitoba in 1891," the conclusion of Sidonie Zilla's charming story, "Tantamar," poems by the Editor, with captivating papers by Pastor Felix B. A. S., and Theodore Roberts, contribute a remarkable ten cents' worth of summer reading. This most thoroughly Canadian of monthlies is now published at Hampton, New Brunswick, and with the view of largely extending its circulation the publisher offers to send it to new subscribers three months for 12 cents in stamps.

The Methodist Magazine for September, 1892. Price $2 a year; $1 for six months; 20 cents per number. Toronto: William Briggs.

The Editor gives in this number, with numerous illustrations, an account of his visit to Karnak, Luxor, and Thebes, the most stupendous ruins in the world. Rev. J. W. Dawson has a charming illustrated account of "Mountain, Loch and Fjord" in Norway. Mr. Cairne, M. P., continues his graphic pictures in pen and pencil of British India, its Palaces and People. Rev. J. S. Ross, M. A. begins his series of invaluable papers on "The First Hundred Years of Modern Missions" the result of much labor, giving latest results of mission work in all lands. An article of extraordinary interest describes the remarkable character of "Lawrence Oliphant," once an attaché of Lord Elgin in Canada, then a favorite of London society, then peddling berries at Chautauqua under the domination of a vulgar Spiritualist tyrant, Harris; then dying the odor of sanctity in Palestine. A clever Colloquy on Preaching, by Canon Twells; a touching "Shut-in" story of hospital life, by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps; a graphic Scottish sketch, by Mrs. Barr; a paper on Society and Society Women, by Frances Willard; and an article on Rain-making, by Professor Newcomb, with other interesting papers, make up a readable number.

KENT.—At the residence of her mother, 323 Hamilton street, on Wednesday afternoon, at 5.30 o'clock, Sadie H. Kent, daughter of Mrs. John W. Kent, formerly of Charlotte county, N. B., aged 21 years and 7 months.

The deceased was daughter of Capt. John W. Kent of North Head, Grand Manan. From a local paper in the Western city (in Washington State, we think) the following account of the sad and fatal accident is clipped:—

Yesterday afternoon at about 4 o'clock a party consisting of Miss Kent, Miss C. Kent and Messrs. J. A. Flett and Jas. McLeod, started from the City for a drive round the Park in a carriage drawn by a pair of horses. Miss Kent, and Mr. Flett, who was driving, occupied the front seat, while the other two sat behind. All went well until they were going down the hill just by Brockton Point, when the horses became frightened, as the wheels ran against them, owing to the harness not being fastened tight enough. Miss Kent became frightened and wanted to jump out, although her companions assured her there was no danger, and in fact tried to hold her in. She, however, jumped out and fell on the ground, a stone striking her head just behind the ear. The horses started to run up the hill, and through excitement and fear lost Miss Kent should have been hurt. Miss Chase and Mr. McLeod also jumped out. Mr. Flett soon had the horses held in, and returned to where Miss Kent had jumped out. She was lying in an unconscious condition, and was conveyed to the City as soon as possible, but about five minutes after arriving at her home on Hamilton street she breathed her last, never having regained consciousness.

Miss Chase out her head slightly, but fortunately was not seriously injured, and Mr. McLeod was not hurt. Had she remained in the carriage she would have suffered no harm, as Mr. Flett soon held in the horses. The deceased lady was about 21 years old. Great sympathy is felt for her mother and brother, as although they have not been residents in this City for very long, they have made many friends.

The Royal Templars, of which the deceased young lady was a valued member, attended the funeral in a body.

MORGAN.—Deacon Alexander Morgan died at his residence Upper Hayesville, York Co. 29th ult. aged 75 years, leaving a widow, five sons and five daughters to mourn their sad loss. Brother Morgan died as he lived with a triumphant faith in a glorious inheritance with the sanctified in heart. His funeral was attended by a large concourse of people.
