William Byce, aged about 28 years, a fireman on the steamer Mounie, lying in the Sand point slip, St. John, was drowned shortly after 11 o'clock on Friday evening. Byce, accompanied by a shipmate named McCann, had been to the city, and were just boarding the boat when the accident occurred. The steamer was about ten feet from the wharf, and Byce had stepped on the ladder, when the end on the rail of the steamer slipped throwing him into the water. The watchman on the steamer heard the noise and in a few moments several of the crew were on the spot. Byce never rose to the surface. McCann said they had been drinking a little. The tide was low at the time of the accident, and it is possible Byce struck either the steamer or the ladder in the fall and was stunned. He was a native of Belfast, where his wife and two children reside.

Sturdy morning grappling parties dragged the slip for the body. A few minutes after 11 o'clock three men who were in a small boat grappling, found the body a few feet from the bow of the steamer. There were no bruises on the body, but the face was considerably swollen. The body was taken on board the steamer and D. J. Kenny held a inquest Saturday afternoon.

A sailor who was run over and killed by the Maritime express in the Big River bridge Friday afternoon had the name "B. Krennell" on the back of his coat. This was the only mark of any kind found on him. He had been in Bathurst two or three days trying to get a vessel. Failing in this he started on foot about six o'clock Friday morning for Newcastle. He was about forty years of age and belonged to Sweden.

The large catches of haddock being made by fishermen along the coast of Isle Madame, Cape Breton, is making good times. It is considered by many that Nova Scotia is too cold a place to grow peaches. Last winter the thermometer dropped from 20 to 25 degrees below zero, the lowest drop for over thirty years. Notwithstanding this, some five hundred peach trees were in bloom last week in the orchard of Ralph S. Eaton. So much for the proper selection of varieties and situation for planting. Out of 1,100 peach trees there was scarcely one injured by the winter-killing of the wood or fruit's buds. In the same orchard were 700 of the Japan plums, Burbank and Abundance, in the fullest of bloom, a large number of apricot, and about 1,000 cherry trees. So says the Acadia Observer.

The death occurred Saturday night of E. W. H. Greenwood, for many years city treasurer, at the age of 97 years and six months.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Thrown on the Subject of Home Dyeing.

There are dyes—the world-famed Diamond Dyes—that crown our labors and home dyeing work with perfect success, and there are imitations and worthless dyes that bring ruin and disaster wherever they are used.

There are dyes—the chemically pure and scientifically prepared Diamond Dyes—that have brought blessings to millions of homes for over twenty years, and there are the vile preparations and mixtures of imitations who, as far as style of package is concerned, get as near the "Diamond" as they dare go. But what shall be said of the contents—the ingredients—that the women of Canada are asked to dye with? Little more can be said to what has so often appeared in the press of the country. These imitation dyes are simply deceptions; they are adulterated and dangerous preparations, hurtful to the hands of the user, and destroyers of valuable garments and materials.

The manufacture of Diamond Dyes is reduced to a science, and to-day they are the only dyes that dare proclaim their work—that dare proclaim certain victory for every user who will follow the plain directions. Diamond Dyes have a wide-spread popularity; other brands of dyes are hardly known outside of the greedy, long-profit dealers who sell them to the unsuspecting public. Avoid all imitation package dyes as you would avoid spurious coins.

A new industry has been started in P. E. Island. Albert Williams, of Bideford, acting for New York parties, has shipped nearly a hundred bags of quahaugs. These shellfish are raked by the ordinary oyster tongs and are then placed in strong canvas bags. They are considered a great delicacy in New York.

It sounds queer, but it is the truth that money is scarce in Dawson City. Men are working at good rates of wages, but their pay, like that of the mine-owners, lies locked till spring. Money commands fifteen to twenty per cent. Bank-notes are at a premium. Gold dust passes current in the stores at $17 to the ounce. Its selling value is about $15 to $19. It is received in large amounts at only $15.50.

Conductor Greenleaf, a resident of Detroit, Mich., Brown and Remond, of Newington, Ont., and Chrysler, of Chrysler, all train hands, were killed in a wreck on the Ottawa and New York Railway at Ennabun, Friday night. A construction train of 22 cars was derailed at a switch, the engine ploughed into a ditch, followed by the cars, which smashed the tender. The four named men were crushed beneath the wreck. The engineer jumped and saved his life.

A sad tragedy took place in this city Saturday night. Malame Desjardins, living with her son-in-law, Elmer Morin, on Ontario and Poupard streets, was shot dead by her son-in-law. Morin was jealous of his wife and also that when he went home shortly after 10 Saturday night, there was a strange man in the house with her, which story she denies. Morin, in a half crazed condition pulled a revolver and attempted to shoot his wife, but her mother jumped between and received the bullet in her head being killed instantly. Morin then shot his wife in the groin and she is in a dangerous condition. Morin was arrested. He is a stevedore by trade. It is expected his wife will recover.

News comes from Blaine, Me., of a fearful murder, the victim being Daniel Murphy. His son Daniel is about sixteen or seventeen years old. It appears that a family row occurred, and that young Murphy killed his father with an axe, and frightfully mutilated the body afterwards. Young Murphy was arrested in Woodstock Wednesday, and taken to Houlton.

The New York Court of Appeals has affirmed the conviction of murder in the first degree in the case of Martin Thorne, found guilty of the killing of William Goldensuppe, in July last. Mrs. Augusta Mack, Thorne's confederate in the murder, and who turned State's evidence, is serving a sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment.

At Houlton, P. E., Thursday, A. S. Van Wyckle, millionaire and philanthropist, was accidentally killed while participating in a clay pigeon shoot. He leaned over his gun with the barrel pointing to his body. In some manner the trigger was touched, and the full charge entered his body.

Prince Alexandrovitch Galitzin, a Russian, was taken from Bellevue hospital, New York, Thursday, and lodged in a padded cell at Bloomingdale asylum. After running the entire social gamut, from the most exclusive houses to the coteries of Bohemia, he passed into the land of lost minds. He is suffering from acute mania. The cause is poverty and want.

The preliminary examination of Daniel Murphy, jr., charged with murdering his father Daniel Murphy at Mare Hill, Me., was held in Houlton Friday afternoon. The principal evidence was that of Mrs. Murphy, who said she saw Dan strike his father with the axe of accused's uncle, and a neighbor named Jocelyn, who said that Dan came for them and said he had cut his father badly. Jocelyn was with Murphy until he died and the latter told him, and repeated several times, "Danny did the cutting." He did not say what caused the row.

On Saturday a torpedo exploded while being tested at St. John's Bluff Friday, instantly killing J. J. O'Rourke and Edward Houston, of Jacksonville, Fla., seriously injuring Bert Hart, of the engineer corps; painfully wounding a stenographer named Abraham and a negro laborer. For several weeks Lieut. Hart has been engaged in laying mines in the river at St. John's Bluff. He has been assisted in this work by O'Rourke, who for a number of years has been line foreman of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Friday O'Rourke and Houston were near the cable house on the bluff testing a torpedo. Lieut. Hart was about 15 feet away and the stenographer and negro were a few yards distant. O'Rourke had the testing wires in his hands and Houston was bending over the deadly explosive. In some unaccountable way O'Rourke connected the battery wire with the firing plug instead of the testing plug and a terrific explosion took place. Houston was blown to atoms. O'Rourke was instantly killed, but was not very badly mutilated. Lieut. Hart was struck in the small of the back and in the head by pieces of shell. Barnham and the negro was also struck by pieces of the torpedo.

YEARS OF AGONY AND SUFFERING.

Result of Kidney and Female Complaints.

PAINE'S CELYERY COMPOUND GIVES MRS. STONE A NEW LIFE.

She strongly Recommends the Medicine that Banished Her Troubles.

PAINE'S CELYERY COMPOUND THE ONLY TRUE CURE FOR KIDNEY DISEASE.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

GENTLEMEN:—For more than twenty years I was afflicted with kidney, female and stomach troubles, and had been attended by five doctors, and tried medicine after medicine, without any good results. My sufferings a year ago from the kidneys and stomach were dreadful. I was in such a state that I could not live, and concluded there was no use trying other medicines. However, I was advised to try Paine's Celery Compound. Before I had finished the first bottle I had improved very much, and after the use of a few more bottles I had not been so well for many years, and am now altogether a different person. The use of Paine's Celery Compound also banished my nervousness. I can therefore recommend Paine's Celery Compound to any one suffering from kidney, female and stomach troubles.

Yours truly,
MRS. GEORGE STONE,
Eganville, Ont.

Literary Notes.

The long-established weekly eclectic magazine, The Living Age, never deserved its title better than now: for its presentation of English and Continental opinion on the various aspects of the war between the United States and Spain is fresh, full and widely representative; yet it does not trench at all on the other features of the magazine.

The Navy has had its heroes in peace as well as in war; men who have faced death in the sea as bravely as they have faced it under the enemy's fire. The crew of the United States ship Vandalia, driving fast to death on the reefs at Apia in the great hurricane of March 15, 1889, cheered the sailors of the British ship Calliope as she escaped into the open sea. One of the handful of men that survived the wreck will relate in The Youth's Companion for the week of June 23rd some hitherto unpublished incidents of that disaster.

The last finished literary work of William E. Gladstone was his eloquent and tender tribute to the memory of Arthur Henry Hallam, the friend of his school-days, and thereafter until his untimely death. The article was the last of five which Mr. Gladstone had at different times written expressly for The Youth's Companion, and appeared recently. The final revision of the article, in the venerable statesman's own handwriting, was concluded in November, 1897. Such a tribute from a man of eighty-eight, whose statesmanship has made a profound and enduring impression upon the civil history of the world, to a youth of twenty-two who had been sixty-four years in his grave, is probably unexampled in literature. The entire manuscript of this article is perhaps the most precious of the many rare autographs possessed by the publishers of The Youth's Companion.

The June number of The Hemilete Review completes Vol. XXXV. The full index with which the volume closes, shows how wide has been the range of its discussions during the past six months, and how many of the ablest men in all branches of the Church have been laid under contribution by its editors.

In the Review Section are usual valuable papers. The War with Spain is of course recognized. A sermon on 'The National Crisis, or God's Purpose Work Out Through International Relations,' is a vindication of the War from a Biblical point of view. The views of leading preachers are also given in brief form. Sir John William Dawson, the great geologist, who is also a great Bible student, furnishes the first of two expository papers on 'The Ser of Patmos and the Twentieth Century.' The editorial Section is full taking in such themes as 'Paul's Model Sermon'; 'Pulpit Manicures'; 'A Needed Object Lesson'; 'The

The Law of Blockade.

There are complexities in the law of blockade, but its essentials are simple enough.

1. A blockade must be proclaimed so that ships of all nationalities may be notified of its existence.

2. Ships already at sea when proclamation is made must upon arrest be notified and permitted to depart for some other than the blockaded port. Until such notice the ship is not liable to capture.

3. Ships so notified, and all ships sailing after proclamation of blockade has been made, are liable to capture upon attempt to pass the blockade.

4. In case of capture they and their cargoes are confiscated, but neither their officers nor seamen, if the ship carries a neutral flag, are subject to any other penalty. They are guilty of no crime.

5. No neutral nation is bound to respect any blockade till it has been made effective. If it is not so, neutrals resent and resist the seizure of their ships attempting to trade with "paper" blockaded ports.

6. Ships of the enemy are subject to capture anywhere at sea without reference to the ports from or to which they are going. Neutral ships are subject to capture only when trying to break the blockade.—New York World.

A COUNTERFEIT.—A new $2.00 Dominion counterfeit has made its appearance, and is being extensively "shoved" through out a sum of the province. To the unpractised eye it is perfect in every detail, but when the expert examines it it is found wanting in several particulars. The green on the back is not quite dark enough, and the imprint "British American Bank Note Co., Montreal," is in letters larger than ordinarily, and the "is" are not dotted.
