

HIS MOTHER'S TEACHINGS.— It is said that Taylor, the negro who has won a great notoriety as a cyclist, that he recently refused an offer of $7,000 for a professional engagement, because it involved racing on Sunday. His reason, in his own words: "It's against my mother's teachings up, and I will not go back on my mother's teachings of my mother." Pity the mothers' sons were not as reverent of the teachings of their mothers as Taylor.

DAGGETT—In Somerville, Mass., the 8th of Feb., Simeon Daggett, while crossing a double track, looking for danger in one direction only, as it is supposed, was struck by a shaft of an approaching train and instantly killed. The morning of the accident he started out in his usual good natured way, and within sight of home was suddenly ushered into eternity. He was a resident of Seal Cove, Grand Manan until about 8 months ago, when he went to Mass. He was known as a skillful mechanic, a faithful christian, and was
