

THE GIFT OF A NEW DESK.

A meeting of the Adult Bible Class on the 24th inst at the parsonage (where the class frequently meets), after a very enjoyable programme, consisting of singing, scripture reading and prayer, and readings by Mrs. S. N. Grass, Mrs. S. A. Baker and Cecil Good, solo by Miss Emma Mitton, addresses by Messrs. Jeremiah Fillmore, S. N. Grass and the pastor, and a duet by Misses Grace and Nellie Good, the editor was suddenly awakened to the fact that discoveries had been made, 1st, that he was using an old fashioned desk in his study, 2nd, that he was born on April 24th, 3rd, that this very important event (to him) had taken place considerably over a half century ago, and possibly it might have occurred to the younger portion of his church and congregation that the gift of a nice roll topped desk might suggest some ideas to the editor and pastor, that would cause him to be more modern in his pastoral and editorial work. So it came with a considerable of a shock when a sister stepped forward and said: "Dear Brother Baker," and her husband and another brother got up and went out the front door, and the pastor's wife looked puzzled, as the sister began reading the following address, and as she read, "Please accept this," the door opened and she said "desk" and there it came, and she finished reading the address. Then it was discovered that a tell-tale birthday book was responsible for this surprise. So much so that we cannot recall how we expressed our thanks.

If any "new thought" is found in the Highway, please attribute it to that fine new desk.

ADDRESS.

Rev. S. A. Baker, Moncton, N. B.

Dear Sir: As we have gathered here this evening to wish you many happy returns of your Birthday, and every blessing that Heaven may send your way.

Although a surprise we feel sure you will be delighted to welcome us to the cheerful atmosphere of your home, and that you will look back on this evening as one of the happiest in your remembrance.

Please accept this desk, not for its intrinsic value, but for the kind thoughts and good wishes that we may give with it, and for all the joys we hope you will know as you journey up the years.

Again wishing you all happiness for years to come, we are your friends.

Signed on behalf of the R. B. Church, MRS. W. D. BLAKNEY.
