CAMP MEETING MUSIC.

Singing, and instrumental music is a very important part in a camp meeting. It had a large place in the worship of God's ancient people.

The heart has no more natural way of expressing its praise to God than through song.

Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord.

If the burdens are lifted from the heart the voice will break forth into singing.

Oh, that God would give the church of the present day such great grace that it would break forth into spontaneous songs from the heart.

This great source of expressing our joys and sorrows is so restricted and frozen up, and distorted by present day ideals and notions, that it is a real delight to get to a camp meeting out in the woods, away from the stereotyped singing, and the notions of professional restrictions, where the heart can have free expression of its God-given joy without mechanical and theatrical substitutes for one of God's greatest gifts. There is something so wearisome in the artificial things of the present day. It is little wonder that those who enjoyed the country school house worship of long ago, have so great a feeling of relief that before they realize it they join in the glad songs of the camp meeting.

We are glad to give our readers who are scattered abroad, a look into the faces of these brethren and sisters who will lead us in our songs of thanksgiving, praise and worship this summer.

"The robe of righteousness is work-a-day clothes."

Many people expect to attend Beulah Camp Meeting for the first time this season.

If the food regulations are enforced, and restrictions are as outlined, dinner bells will not be as musical as in the past. They will no longer say, Come eat, come eat, but will ring out, No meat! No meat!! No Meat!!!
