THE ALLIANCE MEETING.

The 31st annual meeting of the Reformed Baptist Alliance met at Beulah Tabernacle on the 25th of June as announced. The officers elected were: Rev. H. C. Mullen, president; Rev. S. H. Clark, vice-president; Rev. W. B. Wiggins, B.A., secretary; Rev. H. C. Archer, assistant secretary; Deason E. Cosman, treasurer; Rev. L. T. Sabine, auditor.

After the nominating committee reported, the following committees were appointed for 1920:

Alliance Executive—S. A. Baker, C. S. Hilyard, H. C. Mullen, P. J. Trafton, W. B. Wiggins.

Tabernacle and Grounds—E. W. Lester, C. S. Hilyard, A. E. Whelpley, (substitute, L. T. Sabine), L. J. Alley, with J. F. Bullock as adviser.

Hotel—G. B. Trafton, Thos. Mitchell, H. C. Mullen, M. B. Cox.

Rooms—P. J. Trafton, Riverview; I. F. Keirstead, Cedardale; L. J. Alley, hotel.

Highway—S. A. Baker, H. C. Archer, H. S. Dow, P. J. Trafton, W. B. Wiggins, B. N. Goodspeed.

Quarterly Meetings—C. S. Hilyard, S. A. Baker, L. J. Alley, L. T. Sabine.

The reports of the year's work of the churches and Sunday Schools and Missionary Societies showed a strong healthy growth in every department of the denominational work. The work of the Alliance was done expeditiously and harmoniously.

BEULAH CAMP MEETING.

The 26th Annual Camp Meeting, which closed on the 6th inst. at Beulah Camp Ground, was one of the best, if not the best ever held there. Everything seemed to combine to make it most enjoyable and profitable in spiritual and temporal blessing. Never was Beulah more beautiful; the weather was perfect from beginning to end, just enough rain to add to the beauty of everything with refreshing showers. The attendance throughout was large, about all the rooms in all the buildings and cottages being filled all the time, and all the available places in and out of the grounds were crowded to the fullest limit over the week ends. The order about the grounds was all that could be desired, even when the overflow crowds were present on Sundays. The attendance at the services was large, and on Sundays the Tabernacle was packed and hundreds stood in the large doorways.

No evangelist in the twenty-six years at Beulah stood more faithfully by the great fundamentals of Scriptural truth than Brother Owen, in his preaching and work, and what he possessed that was attractive and what he lacked or avoided that is some times distractive, gave the services a continued effectiveness in holding the people's minds and hearts in uninterrupted attention to the word of life, and under the influence of the Holy Spirit, and it seemed that all who attended the Camp Meeting carried home impressions that must stay with them and bring forth great blessings in their lives and, we trust, the fruitage of life eternal.

Besides the great general effect produced, there were many who heard from heaven definitely in conversions, entire sanctification, reclamations, and much refreshing of the people of God, and this blessing swept over all denominational lines and blessed all who would be blessed, and we heard the annual comment of the people in reference to the evangelist. "The best yet," "The best we ever had," "Can't we have him again next year?" (to this last we say yes, at Riverside, 1920, if he accepts the invitation of the committee.)

Among the striking events of the meeting occurred the last Sunday afternoon, when Evangelist Owen was making the altar call. He asked how many young people were willing to place themselves in the will of God to be used of Him where and in whatsoever way He would in His service, when nearly fifty immediately responded and came to the altar, thus saying, "Where He leads me I will follow."

Several altar services extended far into the night, as many seekers wrestled, like Jacob, until victory came to their hearts.

Brother J. F. Bullock and Sister F. E. Clark were faithfully at their post at the organ and piano.

Rev. P. J. Trafton, Rev. E. W. Lester and Mr. Hedley Colpitts led in the song services. Special selections were sung by Miss A. Allen, of Oxford, N. S., and Rev. P. J. Trafton. Misses Grace and Nellie Good sang a duet. Quartettes composed of Rev. E. W. Lester, Hedley Colpitts, Mrs. F. D. Foley and Miss Clara Boyer, and Rev. P. J. Trafton, E. W. Lester, Miss Murilla Colpitts and Mrs. Howard London rendered excellent selections. Miss M. Ella Slipp led the young people's meetings, and Mrs. I. F. Keirstead conducted the children's meetings.

The Reformed Baptist ministers and their wives present were: Revs. A. H. Trafton and wife; W. B. Wiggins and wife; G. Bennett Trafton and wife; S. A. Baker and wife; H. C. Archer and wife; S. H. Clark and wife; L. T. Sabine and wife; P. W. Briggs and wife; I. F. Keirstead and wife; H. S. Dow and wife; and Rev. P. J. Trafton, Rev. C. S. Hilyard, H. C. Mullen, Henry Smith, L. J. Alley and T. W. Moses.
