

MINISTERS AND CHURCHES.

What promises to develop into an old time revival has broken out in the Fort Fairfield church. Rev. C. S. Hilyard says: "We wish to report victory here. We are in the midst of a big revival, it began in the Friday night meeting when the worst snow storm of the season was on, and only a few out. Since then some one has gone 'over the top' in every meeting, and the saints are asking for the privilege to lead some of the meetings. Forty were out to the prayer meeting. During the meeting Mr. R—— came into the meeting and said he didn't know how to get there but a force brought him in spite of himself, and broke down and gave himself to God. Another brother said God awoke him in the night and revealed to him the great danger he was in. Last Sunday night (2nd inst.) was a great time."

BOYS, AIM HIGH.

All honest labor is honorable and needful, but you have as good right to the more lucrative positions if you fit yourself for them as any other boy.

A letter from a young man to a lady recently said: "I am now employed by one of the leading firms in this line of business in the United States. I have a good salary and a fine position for which I am indebted to you, because of your good advice at the point of my choosing a life vocation."

He was a good moral boy, brought up in a country Christian home, just starting out to make his way in life, and told this lady and her husband his plan, of learning a trade in which salaries are small, never up to four figures per year, and the work confining.

The advice given was a course in business college, fit yourself for a good position, you have the money (earned and saved by himself); you have the ability, brace up like a man and do it.

He took the advice and won out, and his salary for one year would go a long way toward buying a farm.

Good Christian or moral habits, economy, gumption, determination, and diligence will win.

Boys, don't expect something for nothing. If you want good positions fit yourself for them, don't spend your time drinking beer, frequenting billiard rooms, and picture shows, and chasing a cigarette up and down the street, and expect good positions. You won't get them. Brace up, be men. Avoid these things and you will win.

"Rejection of truth leads to the acceptance of error."
