HAS PROHIBITION JUSTIFIED ITSELF?

The Opinions of the Business Leaders of the United States.

Among other striking statements in regard to the value of Prohibition to the people of the United States, and the necessity of enforcing all laws, are the following:

From economic standpoint Prohibition is the greatest asset of America—impossible to return to old ways of saloon days—Arthur R. Baxter, president of the Keyless Lock Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

Drunkenness, instability and great economic loss caused by old-time liquor traffic has entirely disappeared. I am in favor of protecting the workers of the nation, their woman-kind and their children, even if the cost is to be the deliberate and willing suicide of the few.—Geo. M. Verity, president of the American Rolling Mill Co., Middletown, Ohio.

Genuine Prohibition sentiment is stronger today than it was at the time of the passage of the Prohibition Amendment to the Constitution.—J. J. Phoenix, president of the Bradley Knitting Co., Delavan, Wis.

There is no earthly use for the manufacture and sale of liquor as a beverage, Kresge, Kresge's 5c and 10c Stores, New York City.

From the standpoint of railroad operation the Eighteenth Amendment has been very helpful to us, as it has reduced greatly drinking among our rank and file in spite of the bootlegging which is going on.—W. B. Storey, president of The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway System, Chicago, Illinois.

It may take a hundred years to adjust any country to total abstinence, but any country or any individual who cannot dual, and a cure of this sickness by flourish in health and happiness without alcohol is a sick country or a sick individual.—Eugene Lyman Fisk, M. D., medical director, Life Extension Institute, Inc., New York City.

Our experience in this locality is that, under Prohibition, conditions are much better at the present time than they were previous to three years ago, notwithstanding the apparent lawlessness in some localities.—H. L. Paddeck, president of the Oswego Falls Corporation, Fulton, N. Y.

The return of public drinking places would make the motorcar a menace on the highways and would stop the sale, to a large extent, of the cheaper cars, as the money would be spent over the bar as in the old days and the family would go without a car.—R. H. Scott, president of the Reo Motor Car Co., Lansing, Mich.

It seems to be no longer a question of Prohibition, but one as to whether a law of the nation is to be enforced or openly defied. The most discouraging feature of the situation, to my mind, is that the "white-collar group" is in the main responsible for present conditions.—Geo. G. Williams, Farmington, Conn.

While our annual admitted bill for liquors used to be $2,500,000,000, even the most optimistic promoters of violation of the law do not claim that 20 per cent. of the liquor which was thus bought and used is now consumed by our people. The economic and health returns, in terms of lives and self-support, appear to me to justify fully the great social experiment to which the country by unmistakable majorities has committed itself.—Haven Emerson, M. D., Department of Public Health Administration, College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, New York.
