MARRIED

Chipman-Clark

A very quiet wedding took place in the Reformed Baptist Church at Port Maitland on September 19th, when William Cedric Chipman, of New York, and Bessie Lee Clark, of New Jersey, were united in marriage by the writer. We wish them a long and happy wedded life.

H. E. MULLEN

"What you are to men depends on what God is to you."

As a boy was leaving the house, his father said to him with considerable earnestness, "Do not do anything questionable."

His father might have said, "Do not dance, do not play cards, do not gamble." But he did not specify the pleasures that were to be taboo. He left that for his son to decide. The warning made the boy think. The more he thought, the more he was convinced that if any pleasure which suggested itself to him was doubtful, if there was any question about the propriety of indulging in it, the only safe course to take was to steer clear of it.

That was the best concerning the problems of pleasure that the young man ever received. The advice worked. It saved him from many a moral tumble.

participate in the love feast. Sunday morning and evening services were also well attended by an attentive and sympathetic audience who came for that phase of communion with the Deity that can only be experienced through the united worship of God's children being gathered together in one place.

Last but not least in our spiritual program was the Sunday School which had a very important place in our curriculum and in the moulding of Christian character in the lives, not only of the children, but of the older generation. A consideration which is forgotten altogether too much in our home churches. Too often the Sunday School is thought of as a place only for routine study and a place to send the children out of the way.

Our Sunday School (with an average attendance of 60 or over) was carried on with the able help of our Brother John Bullock, who did much in making the hour one both interesting and profitable. Sister Clark must also share in our gratitude for providing the music in the Sunday School. Brother Bullock, assisted by Sister Clark, being the organist and pianist in the regular services.

Near the close of the season the children were given their annual treat by Brother Bullock, ably assisted by our good allies, the ladies, who provided their share of the refreshments. The afternoon was spent in games and contests followed by a sumptuous lunch.

The remarkable and unique feature of our summer together being that all United Baptists, United Churchmen, Presbyterians, Reformed Baptists, etc., were able to worship together with one accord in one place. A united faith makes for a united creed. If nothing else than this had been the outcome of our fellowship together our summer would not have been mis-spent.

In the general oversight of the grounds and buildings we are indebted to Brother Clark, who gave us, just for the asking, "helps" out of his store of experience. Not only to him but to those of the cottagers and roomers who were interested in making Beulah a goodly place to live in, and who by their healthy support and co-operation helped to bear much of the responsibility which might have fallen to me if Beulah had been a resort.

The last week in August found us wending our rested and satisfied selves to our several homes with the hope of returning next year with a broader vision of service and a greater determination to work for the common weal of Beulah-on-the-St. John.

EUGENE KEIRSTEAD

Everett, Mass.

Dear Brother Trafton:

I have enjoyed the Highway very, very much during the past year and especially the last three papers have held some wonderful soul meat and inspiration. What a precious journey we are travelling from earth to heaven. I feel like saying to those who might read this short letter, in the words of one of the old Moody and Sanky hymns: "Pull for the Shore." What a wonderful landing we will make through the name and the precious blood of Jesus.

Your sister in Christ,

MRS. ELMER RAMSAY
