

MINISTERS AND CHURCHES

Lic. Eugene Kierstead, who has been compelled to give up for the present his college course, on account of eye trouble, has received and accepted a call to be pastor of the Church at Seal Cove, N. B.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D., who was to have begun a meeting with Rev. I. F. Kierstead at Fredericton, the first of February, will not be able to reach them before the first of March.

Howard Robertson is supplying for the church at Salem, Kings Co. This church has decided to raise one hundred dollars a year to the support of Grace Sanders in Africa.

At the first meeting for the year 1928 held by the W.C.T.U. of Fredericton, N. B., recently, Miss Faith Sanders gave a Bible reading and address on prayer, which was greatly enjoyed by the 32 members present.

Rev. F. A. Dunlop was with Bro. Dow till Sunday, January 22nd. He will go to Westchester, N.S., for his next meeting. There was quite a break the last Sunday night at Victoria. Brother Dow is continuing the services, being assisted by Miss Hazel Mullen.

Rev. S. A. Mullen, of Marysville, was not able to be out Sunday, January 22nd. Brother Norman Cochrane took the service on that evening. Brother Mullen had a severe cold.

The work at Gordonsville is very encouraging. Brother Dow is expecting several additions to the membership in the near future.

The pastor at Marysville expects to engage in special services the last of February. Rev. F. A. Dunlop will be the evangelist.

NOTES

There will be need of more bedding for Beulah and Riverside, especially Beulah, to furnish the new dormitory. Quilts, pillows, sheets and pillow cases.

Let there be a general response in renewals.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXERCISES

AT NORTH HEAD, N. B.

The annual Christmas exercises in connection with the Sunday School were held on the evening of December 26th and were well attended. At the close of the service the organist of the church, Mrs. Thomas Naves, was presented with a sum of money in appreciation of her faithful services rendered. The pastor and wife were remembered in the same manner, for which we are truly thankful for this as well as all past kindness shown us by these dear people. May the Lord richly reward them.

Yours in the work,

H. C. AND MRS. ARCHER.

THE CURE FOR CLOUDY THINKING.

A clean heart, a clear head and a clear sky. These go together. This is the doctrine of Jesus in John 7:17. "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine." It is very hard to understand Christ so long as one is opposed to the things for which he stood and the way which he prescribed for men. Disobedience of heart and confusion of head are companion complaints. While it is true that some men are cloudy in their thinking, simply because they are dull and incompetent, much of the cloudy thinking is due to the fact that men are at cross purposes with God. Some of the greatest mistakes in history regarding the subjects most vital to man's temporal and eternal welfare have been made by men of large intellectuality. On the other hand, some of the humblest men, whose opportunities have been extremely limited, stand out for sound and healthy truth and can not be led astray by the shrewdest of error because they live in daily fellowship with God and make his love their highest object who is the source of all truth.

SELF DENIAL CLASS HELD

SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING

The semi-annual meeting of the Self-Denial Sunday School class of the Reformed Baptist Church was held at the parsonage recently, and a pleasant time was enjoyed. The meeting opened with song, scripture reading and prayer, after which a program was carried out.

The president, Mrs. Robert Barr, after some pleasant remarks reported that the class had raised $162.49. They contributed to the support of a native evangelist in Africa, they gave generously to support a native teacher, and also gave to Home Missions. This work was all done from free-will offerings. Twelve baskets were sent to needy and shut-ins in this city at Christmas. They also presented a new curtain for the choir railing. The teacher, Mrs. I. M. Kierstead, expressed appreciation of the splendid class of ladies, but regretted that one of the members, Mrs. James Rogers, is soon to leave the city. Mrs. Kierstead then presented Mrs. Rogers with a book "Daily Food," on behalf of the class. Mrs. Rogers expressed her surprise and grateful thanks. The Lend a Hand Class served refreshments.—Mail, Fredericton.

THE MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER

In one of the fashionable squares of New York City, the young and beautiful daughter of one of America's merchant princes lay dying. She had been brought up for the world, educated to move in the highest circles of society, and nothing that money could buy or give was spared upon her.

Talented and lovable, she was the idol of her parents and the charm of the circle in which she moved. But wealth and greatness do not always give happiness, nor can they for one hour ward off the stroke of death or postpone that moment of moments in a human life, when the soul, separated from the body, passes out into eternity and there to await the judgment of the Great White Throne, where, before a thrice holy God, eternal sentence shall be passed. See John 5: 28-29; Rev. 20:10-15.

Living on the confines of the eternal world, surrounded by skilled but baffled physicians, the dying girl turned to her mother, and, in a voice quivering with intense agony, said: "Mother, dear, I am dying. I know it: I feel it. Very soon I shall be gone from this gay world, with all its hollow pleasures, into which you led me, and in which you taught me to shine. But you never told me of an eternity beyond. Now my feet are on the brink, and to me it is dark and all unknown. I was never told about it, or allowed to go where I might hear how to be prepared to enter upon it. Mother, take my jewels and bury them with me; let my name and memory be forgotten, for I have lived only for this world, and I know my soul is lost."

Then, fixing her dying eyes upon both her parents, who stood weeping by her side, she cried in anguish:

"Yes, I am going, going into a never-ending eternity, and you have been the means of my damnation!"

And thus she died. Terrible end of a wasted life! Awful foretaste of the remorse and agony of hell.
