Dear Brother Trafton

I thought perhaps you would be glad to hear from me about our very gracious revival. We certainly had a glorious time in and with the Lord. It seemed sometimes as if the very windows of heaven opened upon our souls. We had with us Brother Wachtel from New York, a man filled with the Holy Spirit, fearless in preaching God's word in all its purity and holiness unto the Lord, without which no man shall see him. My own heart was richly blessed by the messages, one Sunday afternoon in particular. What a message! I did wish every minister of the gospel could have heard, for he said so many are standing behind the sacred desk preaching anything but God. Oh, some messages would surely melt hearts of stone. I am so very glad to say that quite a few sought the Lord, some backsliders reclaimed, but, oh, the glory to me of the revival was that the young people accepted Jesus as their Saviour and personal friend. The services are so good now, with their bright shining faces in prayer meeting and class meeting. We as a church are rejoicing that God has been so gracious in giving us these dear young folks. Oh, glory to God, he still reigns supreme on High.

In speaking for myself, I can only say that Jesus grows nearer and more precious to me as the days go by. The Holy Spirit abides in my heart.

Your sister in Jesus,
S. R. DOYLE

IDEAS FOR WORKERS

A man is no bigger than his ideals.

Only small minded men are hard to get along with.

Don't expect coddling—a job is work and not a petting party.

Carrying a chip on the shoulder is a confession of inferiority.

Base your hope for advancement on brains and not on bluff.

The man who has to be watched will never be set to watch others.

Learn to think for yourself; don't be a mere echo of other men's thoughts.

Good nature is the oil that makes the day's work go without squeaking.

If you want more pay, do more work; it's the job that pays and not the boss.

If the machine can't be improved, see if the way of handling the material can't be.

The workman who never saw the dirt on the floor never made a good inspector.

Every man is foreman of his own brains—see to it they don't loaf on the job.

The world owes no man a living, but every man owes the world his best efforts.

That man is lucky who works for an outfit that provides high grade management.

Cultivate good manners; a man doesn't have to be hardboiled because he works in overalls.

Capitalism wants every man to live in a mansion; bolshevism wants every man to live in a shanty.—The Open Shop Review.

THE MENACE OF THE MISTAKEN

Who is it that does the most harm in the world? There is plenty of harm done to be sure; but who is responsible for it? He was a very shrewd observer who answered: "It is not the mischievous that do the most harm; it is the mistaken."

The mischievous know they are wrong. They violate their own consciences. They are lacking in high spirit. They are on the wrong track and they know it. Others know it as well and may or may not make due allowance. At any rate, there is always the possibility of adjustment and reform.

But the mistaken think they are on the right track when they are wrong. Therefore, they put heart and conscience into what they are doing. Their general character and known goodness serve only to give momentum and power to the evil they unwittingly do. Their very amiability may thus add to their animus. Their very geniality may accentuate the gall of their bitterness. They are sadly mistaken and terribly so.

We think of Saul the Sanhedrist who laid waste the church at Jerusalem and persecuted the saints even unto distant cities. Years after with penitent pen and still aching heart he wrote that he did it ignorantly and in unbelief. Yet he did it with cruelty and havoc.

Much harm may be done by the mischievous, but even more can be done by the mistaken.—Hight C. More.

Did you ever think of the reason why the Psalms of David have come, like winged angels, down across all the realms and ages—why they make the key-note of grateful piety in every Christian's soul, wherever he lives? Why? Because they are so full of gratitude! "Oh, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men!"—A. A. Willets.
