Strong drink is not only the devil's way into a man, but man's way to the devil.—Adam Clarke, D.D.

NOTICE

The Reformed Baptist Church of Saint John has a chance to buy the "Songs of Joy and Gladness Combined," the words without music. We are sending for the same, but we are unable to buy them with the music. So if there should be a few of our people who have one of these books with music which you will denote to our church, we will be grateful.

Sincerely yours,

I. F. KIERSTEAD

STANDING BETWEEN

A Christian worker in the mountains of Kentucky was visiting the penitentiary. There he found a man imprisoned on the charge of murder. He tried to reach his heart with the Gospel story, but seemingly without avail. On one visit the man spoke of his little boy. The evangelist saw his opportunity. "My brother," said he, "what would you be willing to do for that child of yours?" The rugged mountaineer's eyes flashed. With tremendous intensity, he answered "Mister, I'd stand between that boy and hell!" "Well, my brother," quietly replied the other, "that is exactly what Jesus has done for you." Do you want to know what salvation means—the mystery of Christ's substitution? There you have it.—Exchange.

"ANYBODY THAT LIKES"

An old woman lay dying. She knew she had but a brief time to live, and by her bedside sat a little girl reading the Scripture to her. She was reading the third chapter of John and had reached verse 16, when the old woman's attention was arrested by the word "whosoever."

She stopped the child and asked her what "whosoever" meant. She did not know. Then said the woman.

"Run as quickly as you can and ask the first person you meet."

The girl put down the Book and ran to inquire the meaning of the word "whosoever." She stopped the first person she met and said.

"If you please, sir, can you tell me the meaning of the word 'whosoever'?"

"Oh, yes, my little girl," replied the gentleman. "It just means 'anybody that likes.'" She thanked him and ran back to the old woman.

As soon as she reached the bedside, the poor dying creature raised her eyes and said, "Oh, have you found out yet?"

"Yes," replied the child, "I met a gentleman who said it just meant 'anybody that likes.'"

"Thank God," she replied, as she put her tired hands together and looked up to heaven.

"Thank God. Then I like, I like."

Soon after this she breathed her last, and without doubt passed away to be with Him who had been set before her as the Object of faith.

What a simple thing is faith. It just takes God at His Word without question or quibble. It is this simple belief of what He tells us of His Son having died in our room and stead that honors God and saves the soul.

May the reader thus believe God, and reap in richest blessing the fruit of that mighty work of Calvary. Remember, it is unto all—yes, "anybody that likes" may take to himself and enjoy its unspeakable benefits now and for ever.

"God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16).—Unknown.

The judgment is just ahead. Are you ready for it?

Have you taken back the monkey wrench that you stole?

Have you done what you could to restore the reputation of the person whom you lied about?

Have you asked forgiveness of your wife for your treatment of her?

Have you restored the confidence of the children in your integrity?

Have you been "transformed," or are you still "conformed to this world"?

Have you begun to pay your tithe, and have you kept it up?

Have you made your will, disposing of your property on the basis of "blood," or does it bear the stamp of your professed love for the Kingdom of God?

Have you made a will at all?

Have you joined yourself to the forces of God who carry on against the devil, or are you a non-combatant in this fight?

Have you the blood of Christ applied just now to your heart?
