ACKNOWLEDGMENT

We wish to acknowledge another kind remembrance of the church at Beals, Me. Mrs. Archer and I having a birthday last month, were taken by surprise, when at the close of the weekly prayer-meeting we were presented with a number of gifts. The Young People's Society presented Mrs. Archer with a lovely box of fruit. May the Lord richly reward these kind people.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

"God does not expect you to live His life without first giving you His nature." These were the words that startled a godless and mocking young soldier in Egypt. "Why, that explains it," he cried. "Again and again I have been told to be good; again and again I have tried, but I can't. But all is different if God does not expect me to live His life without first giving me His nature." Then he knelt and received his re-birth. "Ye must be born again."—Heart and Life Bulletin.

LITTLE THINGS

The other day there was a tragic accident in Chicago. An automobile dashed into a passing train and a mother and father and two of their three children were killed, leaving a dear little four-year-old boy alone.

The accident happened because the man who was supposed to bring down the gates when the train passed, was busy arguing with two auto-ists whose fenders had tangled—a small matter compared with the passing of the great train. The result was tragedy and sorrow.

How often we quibble and argue about some little, insignificant slight, or some position which we think we ought to occupy, or should not occupy, and thus we miss our real calling in life which is to serve God in such a way that other men shall be saved, from the onslaught of sin, and led into the safe harbor of Jesus' love.

Let us begin while in the days of youth, to put right values upon the things of life, and to see the importance of things spiritual and the frailty of things material. The Christian Witness.

PREPARATION

There is a preparation that should be made in connection with our camp meetings, that they be a success under God, and a great source of blessing to many souls. "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy." Ps. 126-5. We have the privilege, in the weeks intervening, to wait before God in intercessory prayer, waiting on him day and night, for a mighty outpouring of the Spirit upon the Evangelist, workers and people. This must be had if definite results are to be obtained. It is well to have a day of fasting and prayer, but more will be accomplished if we all humble ourselves before God, and day after day make our supplication to him until those bottled tears and prayers will overflow and a great blessing upon the camps will be the result. The responsibility is ours. The Lord says, "If we seek, we shall find," etc. He has it to bestow, let us go after it.

JUDGE NOT!

The truth has been given to us to feed our souls and enlarge our hearts and build up our brethren; some people use it as a foot-rule with which to measure them.

One of the surest signs of self-satisfaction and spiritual pride and decline is the judging of others.

It is generally those who have grown the least that spend the most time measuring others, like the Corinthians who set about to measure Paul. How ludicrous and yet how pathetic the sight of those spiritual dwarfs attempting to measure that giant.

We had better leave all the measuring of others to the Lord. He will do it without partiality or prejudice. We are always biased in our own favor or that of our particular circle.

It is astonishing how big and important we feel when we are measuring and judging others; it is equally astonishing how small we feel when we are conscious of being measured by the Lord.

Happy we shall be if we heed the Lord's words and take the beam out of our own eyes before we begin to take the mote out of the eyes of others.

If we judge ourselves, esteem our brethren better than ourselves and pray for them, we shall please the Lord.—Scripture Truth.
