DONATION

Royalton, N. B.

On Thursday evening, Dec. the 22nd, the members and friends of our Royalton Church to the number of thirty-six presented us with a donation to the valuation of twenty dollars, consisting of cash, flour, meat and other edibles. We expressed our thanks as best we could, knowing that some of these things represented sacrifice. The people of this section are feeling deeply the pinch of hard times. The people of Knoxford have faithfully shared in the support of this preacher. Our people are all farmers and some cannot get enough money to pay taxes, but they are bound to keep God's work going.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXERCISES

The Grey's Mills Sunday School held their annual Christmas treat and entertainment on the evening of Dec. 29th, which was very successfully carried out.

S. H. Bradley, superintendent of the school, presided. Opening hymn, "Joy to the World." Mr. Bradley read a portion of scripture, followed by prayer by Mr. Wesley Cosman. A program consisting of 24 numbers, including hymns, solos, recitations, readings, exercises, etc., which were beautifully rendered. Mrs. Charles Rodgers presided at the organ. Following the program the superintendent presented 5 prizes for good attendance. The first prizes won by the Misses Mary Cosman and Jessie Bostwick, each being present 48 Sundays. The second prizes won by Mr. Wesley Patterson, the oldest member of the school, and George Bostwick, who were present 47 Sundays.

The third prize won by Master Edmund Vanwart. The teachers were all remembered by their classes with suitable gifts. One selected, came on the scene and presented all the school and visitors with a treat. After the singing of "Blest be the Tie that Binds," the gathering was dismissed.

The success of the entertainment was an encouragement to all to enter prayerfully and heartily into the work of the New Year.

MARRIED

Alley-Alley

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alley, Jonesport, Me., was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their daughter, Beula, was given in marriage to Mr. Curtis Alley, of Jonesport. The ceremony was performed by the writer, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

We extend best wishes to the happy couple.

At Beals, Me., on Jan. 6th, by Rev. H. C. Archer, Franklin Merchant and Miss Pauline Seavey, both of Beals.

CORRESPONDENCE

212½ North St.,
Milltown, Me.

Dear Highway Readers:

Through the passing weeks since we last wrote the Lord surely has been gracious and merciful unto us. We praise Him for continued victory through the merits of His precious blood. We feel more than ever like pressing ahead and endeavoring to make the New Year one of triumph for Christ.

On Monday evening December 26th, our Sunday School held its annual Christmas concert. The children took part splendidly and rendered an enjoyable program of Christmas music and recitations. There were about fifty carefully chosen and well prepared selections which made up what we would term an appropriate concert for a holiness church. Those who planned the program spent much time to select only such articles as would point the listeners to Christ. The church was filled to the limit of its capacity.

At the close of the concert deacon McMillan presented us with a 'love letter' from the church which contained a substantial gift in money. We thank the good people who have stood by us so loyally through these stressing times of depression. Also we thank those who made personal gifts not included in the letter from the church. May the Lord reward you all.

On New Year's Eve many of our members and some visitors enjoyed an old fashioned watch-night service in the church. The meeting was not only alive with good prayers and notes of victory through testimony, but also those present enjoyed hearing some selected readings from clippings taken from The King's Highway, God's Revivalist, and other good tracts and holiness literature. The message of the evening was based on the words, "Blessed is that servant whom his Lord shall find watching". At about 11.45 p. m. we rallied at the Throne of Grace in a closing season of prayer. The meeting closed at 12.30 a. m., and several felt so blessed that they said they would like to linger longer.

In closing we again thank all those friends in our church, and also the many other friends who remembered us at the Christmas season, for their kind thoughts and greetings. The Lord bless you one and all.

Yours in His service,
LIC. E. R. AND MRS. BRADLEY
