A Good Camp Meeting has Passed Into History

The testimony of a great many who attended Beulah camp-meeting this year was that in many respects it was above the average. We had good congregations from the beginning and the last few days brought crowds. The rooms committee were unable to find accommodations in our dormitories for all, and they used all the available rooms in the cottages, which brought forcibly to our attention that we would have to build larger to accommodate this growing camp-meeting.

Rev. F. A. Dunlop was elected president of our Alliance and filled the office acceptably and all our business meetings were conducted in a spirit of harmony and good fellowship. The preaching by our evangelist, Rev. C. W. Butler, was excellent. It was always along full salvation lines without any side issues. It was clear, convincing, and forceful, and carried conviction to the hearts of all who were not in harmony with God, and resulted in the conversion of sinners, the reclamation of wanderers, and the entire sanctification of believers. The people of God were built up on their most holy faith.

Our own ministers who preached at many of the afternoon services, preached well and the people enjoyed their messages. On the last Saturday night of the meeting three young men were ordained to the regular gospel ministry, viz., H. S. Wilson, H. J. S. Blaney and Fred Anderson, and Errol Watson, of St. John, was recommended for a license to preach the gospel.

All the services were marked by the presence of the Holy Spirit, who at times came down on the worshippers, and like a great master musician, played on their various emotions, so that the shouters shouted, the jumpers jumped, the laughers laughed, and the weepers wept. The E. N. C. quartet was present over the first Sunday, and their singing was great enjoyed by all. Rev. Mr. Gardner, president of E. N. C., was with us a few days and preached at one service. And altogether the camp-meeting was "a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord."

THE PRICE OF REPEAL

By W. G. Calderwood

Mr. Joseph H. Choate, Jr., director of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, has discovered with evident surprise and disillusionment that the repeal of Prohibition did not repeal the liquor problem. In commenting on his recent report, the Washington STAR observes: "With plain words and blunt facts Mr. Choate rudely shatters some of the pleasant illusions regarding conditions under repeal. Drinking is increasing and the amount of consumption is enormous. Bootlegging, which always represents other criminal alliances and ramifications of the underworld shows no signs of decrease . . . The administration is, of course, morally bound to meet the situation. The Democratic party helped to 'sell' repeal to the people with the pledge that it would urge the enactment of such measures as will actually promote temperance and effectively prevent the return of the saloon."

All of these promises have turned to ashes. The people were emphatically assured that drinking and drunkenness would be greatly reduced by repeal. Mr. Choate freely admits opposite results.

Solemn promises were made and repeated that bootlegging would be promptly suppressed. Mr. Choate asserts that bootleg trade has reached huge proportions under repeal, and that "facts indicate that the illegal capacity exceeds the legal."

With specialunction were the voters assured that the saloon and its evils should never be permitted to return. But the saloon is here. It is more evil and vicious and under less restrictions and control than before Prohibition. The old saloon for men. The new saloon openly allures and debauches youths, women and school girls and boys.

Mr. Choate's somewhat lengthy report, or article, evidences no concern over the moral debacle of repeal. The only reason suggested for enforcement is the elimination of the bootlegger and the collection of revenue. His summary demands (1) larger appropriations for enforcement; (2) dries and repealists should campaign for more drastic action by state and federal forces; (3) immediate means to cheapen the cost of liquor; (4) reduction of liquor taxes, and (5) relaxation of restrictions that make it hard to get liquor.—Wesleyan Methodist.

WORLD'S W. C. T. U. CONVEVNTION

Miss Z. I. Davis

The coming event in Dry circles is the great gathering of the White Ribbon clans in Stockholm, the capital city of Sweden, July 19th to 26th, 1934. This is the fifteenth triennial convention of the World's Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Great preparations are being made by the Dry forces in that nation for this coming assembly. Crown Prince Gustav Adolf is sponsoring the convention and the fine program will include "A Northern European Evening." The Parliament buildings will be open for the business sessions of the organization, but larger space will be required for the evening meetings. A great outdoor peace meeting will be one feature. Frances Willard organized the movement and there are now 54 countries affiliated.

Itineraries following the splendid affair will permit delegates to visit Copenhagen, Amsterdam, Hamburg, also Germany, Austria, Oberammergau, Switzerland and Paris. Friends who are going to Europe this summer, would do well to include the World's Convention in their journey.

Mr. Charles Roberts, of England, will address the Peace Meeting and Mrs. Elizabeth Waern-Bugge, of Sweden, also will speak. English, Swedish and German will be the official languages of the convention, but the business will be transacted in English. The hymns to be used for the occasion are already translated into two languages and some of them into three or four. Honors, favors and courtesies will be showered upon the delegates and officers attending.

It is interesting to know that Sweden enjoys more daylight than many other civilized sections of the globe, having longer days, and bright sunshine even until eight o'clock.

One place of interest is the famous Archipelago, containing 1,000 islands of all sizes, shapes and colors. The British Total Abstinence Union will entertain American delegates as they pass through England.—Wesleyan Methodist.

Dear Brother Dow:

I am sending one dollar and fifty cents, ($1.50) to pay for the Kings Highway. I enjoy reading it very much. It is both helpful and inspiring.

Yours in Christian love.

SADA A. WALKER, Marysville.

My great desire to live as Jesus lived.

To walk as He walked in the lonely paths of humanity.

To seek to relieve the sad of heart and speak soul cheering words of comfort to the unfortunate.

To think so much about others I shall forget my own trials.

To do all I can to relieve human suffering in any way I can.

To be filled with grace and love greater and greaer as the days go by.

To be ready to meet Jesus should He come at any moment.

To sacrifice continually To spend for that only which is spiritually up-lifting and physically nourishing. To be drawn nearer each day to things of the Spirit.

To be able to rise above slights and gossips of any kind.

To walk with Jesus more humbly.

To love Him more truly.

And to trust Him more completely.
