If your district has an active organization, get in touch with your president. If not, let Society leaders and members in general begin to agitate for district rallies and lay definite plans for the same. Without doubt there are many churches in each district that would be glad to entertain such a meeting. There are some fine speakers obtainable within our own denominational ranks that would readily respond to an invitation to be guest speaker at such rallies. There is nothing lacking, unless it be workers. If we have vision and zeal, are willing to undertake the task in a spirit of faith, we can enjoy a general refreshing during these spring months.

It is not too early to plan. The more time you have, the more advantage in developing a good programme. The better the programme of service, the more effective the influence of the Convention on the entire district.

The Young People's Page is open to advertising your Conventions, If you will prepare your notices and get them in early we would gladly run them two issues so that the young folks of your District will have good time to make plans for attending their rally. We would suggest that you publish something more than a mere notice of the time and place of the meeting. Give the name of your special speaker or speakers and a writeup that will make people want to attend your convention.

Let us arise and build!

CORRESPONDENCE

Dear Young People:

My testimony is that I am saved, sanctified, and satisfied; and my desire is to go on and become more separated to Christ.

When we are sanctified we are separated from the spirit of the world, and begin to walk on the Highway of Holiness. Then we grow in this experience by feeding on the Word, and those who advance in maturity enter into fellowship with Christ in soul travail, partaking of His suffering. Phil. 3:10.

The greatest impetus I gained during the past year, was the bursting into flame on the altar of my heart, of a zeal for our denominational work. Preceding generations have wrought for God and are fallen asleep, and there remaineth yet very much land to be possessed.

The membership of the Mission Station in Africa has virtually doubled during the past ten years, and this makes me long that the same great increase might be realized in our home work. It doesn't seem we can contribute much

The work is so great, but it is the work that makes for victory. Lost in the ocean, but it is the work that fills its place, exerts its influence, and makes the ocean what it is. The work is so great, and high aspirations of the person, is an altar prepared for the Holy Spirit—a sacrifice of the flame of faith that will regenerate the person that is damned back by the work and lack of vision.

OPINIONS

Hubbard, the great physiologist said, "Tobacco is a stupid habit to get into. I have fettered myself with no better excuse than the desire for the rapid slavery from which I wish to break away."

The greatest industrialist of the youth whose brain is hopelessly handicapped is accepted only as a

Hubbard, master of literature and publisher, said, "Never advance the pay of a cigarette smoker; never promote him; never trust him."

Luther Burbank, plant wizard, said, "These men (smokers), while able to do the rough work of farming, call budding and other delicate work 'puttering,' and have to give it up, owing to an inability to concentrate their nerve force. Men who smoke even one cigar a day cannot be trusted with some of my most delicate work."

Those who visit Greenfield Village may read on the wall of one of the shops a framed letter from Thomas A. Edison, greatest inventor in the history of the world, to Henry Ford, in which he declares that there is in the cigarette a poison so injurious to the intellect that he would employ no smoker for work in his laboratories.

Let the young people decide for themselves whether to believe such testimonies or instead of them follow the ads of tobacco companies which make millions by an increase in the number of smokers and the testimonials of movie stars and others which are paid for at $100.00 to $1,000.00 each. The wise man said, "Surely in vain the net is spread in the sight of any bird." But of course young people are not birds.—Free Methodist.

"Delight thyself also in the Lord, and He shall give thee the desires of thine heart." Psalm 37:4.

KINDNESS

You have done a kindness, another has received it. Why be as the foolish and hanker after something more—the credit for the kindness or the recompense?—Marcus Aurelius.

The great law of culture is, Let each become all that he was created capable of being; expand, if possible to his full growth.—Carlyle.
