PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Another Beulah camp meeting is history. Many souls have found victory; some saved, some sanctified. Praise God for these additions to His Kingdom. However we trust that these are not the only ones who have received help. We ourselves, feel that we have received a great blessing during this Camp. Our souls have been stirred, our vision extended, our hearts moved, melted and greatly burdened for lost and dying souls. Truly, it has been a time of great refreshing! We trust that all our young people who have been privileged to attend this camp have been stirred to the same extent we have—yes, even to a greater extent.

This camp meeting has had its blessings but we must remember that there are also obligations connected with it. Many of us find ourselves holding new offices. We thank those who have put their confidence in us. We feel unworthy of this confidence, but, God being our helper, may we through this coming year, be found worthy of the same. Not only are our officers obligated, but every young person who has attended this camp is under obligation to carry home some of the spirit of the camp and bear some of the blessing back to his own society. May the fire spread to those who have not been privileged as we have.

This new church year, whose threshold we are now crossing, holds for us many great opportunities. God has a great work for us, as young people, to do. May we not fail Him, but may we clasp the nail-scarred hand of our Saviour and march forward with Him, who alone can give us the victory.

IN THE QUIET HOUR OF PRAYER

Here in this quiet hour of prayer I come to Thee oh Lord as a little child to it's loving father. Only now as I feel Thy loving peace stealing over me, only now as I feel Thy precious love flooding my soul with joy do I realize how much I have hungered and thirsted for Thee.

Thy comforting presence fills my mind and my heart and I am at peace. New strength flows into my body and new courage into my heart.

God has given me such an abundance of his spirit that I no longer pray the prayers I used to pray, I no longer have to pray for anything because He has supplied my every need. My soul is contented I am complete.

Here in the quiet hour of prayer, the problems of the world seem remote, I am one with my God. His love is real and abiding: it is as a depthless pool over-flowing with joy.

Here in the quiet hour of prayer, God's power and beauty increases until my heart holds Heaven and my soul knows a new peace. In the quiet hour of prayer all is well within my soul.

Another year of Beulah has passed, but God didn't forget us. The entire camp was one of gracious victory with many precious hearts finding God. Our young people's services each afternoon have been times of great blessing. The sermons each day have been such that would inspire us, as young people to serve our Master better.

The yearly convention of our Reformed Baptist Young People's Association was held at Beulah on Saturday afternoon, July 13th.

Rev. A. D. Cann, pastor of our church at Hartland, N. B., was the speaker, bringing a message entitled, "Some Perils to Christian Living". This message was both uplifting and soul-stirring. It was especially helpful to young people in meeting life's problems.

The special singing by a young ladies' quartet and Deverne Mullen proved a great blessing, also some group chorus singing led by Millard Mitchell proved a great blessing to all.

This year our young people again proved the interest in the cause of God by pledging $1000 for our Self-denial Fund. This generous financial response reveals the vital interest which our young people have in the advancement of the denominational work.

Our convention was a success and we go forward into our new church year with eager enthusiasm and broadened vision.

RUTH HARDING, Secretary.

JAMES FLINT BOUGHTON

A person gets everything by giving everything in the Christian life. He gets God in place of the vain nothingness that makes up the human selfishness and pride. Pride is generally the camouflage a person uses to hide his poverties. A person gives up an unprofitable, bankrupt business for the most profitable and enriching way of life in time and eternity. A young person gives up everything that imperils his happiness to receive from God everything that insures his happiness. If you have tried this, you will believe it. If you have not tried it, test it for yourself and see what happens.

A Christian is a person who has given up the burden of sin and guilt, and assumed the burden of prayer and Christian concern. A Christian is a burden-bearer. In reality every person is a burden-bearer. The difference is that the burden that a sinful person carries is crushing him to death, while the burden of love and Christian concern that the follower of Christ assumes is a burden of blessing and enrichment of life. The person who shares the burden of Jesus should find the secret of true happiness.

The selfish life is the life of emptiness and poverty. The law of spiritual things says, "The increase of happiness in heart, mind and soul is made by sharing things with others." The mind that shares its thoughts enhances them and gets others. The heart that gives itself in love, goodwill, forgiveness, and Christian tolerance gets an increase of those things in his own nature. One's capacity for love shrinks and grows poor if he does not send out his love in sincere sympathy and Christian good-will. The one who is giving most is actually getting most. It is the law of the Kingdom Life.

A Christian can live in two worlds at the same time. Jesus did; and he made it possible for us to do it too. He was not of the world but it was for the world that he gave his life. The more of God's world that gets into our souls, and into our conduct, the more blessed and successful this life becomes. Heaven begins here. And if it doesn't begin for us here it will not continue for us anywhere else. The reason this world is so cold and confused is because men deliberately refuse to let the beauty and power of God's world shine upon it.

These things can be tested by experience. The final judgment of truth is not in the mind alone but in God's way of life and experience.

Believe it! Test it for yourself!

ONE WITH GOD

During the time Noah was building the ark, he was very much in the minority—but he won. When Joseph was sold into Egypt by his brothers, he was a decided minority—but he won. When David, ridiculed by his brothers, went out to meet Goliath, in size he was in a decided minority—but he won. When Jesus Christ was crucified by the Roman soldiers, he was a conspicuous minority—but He won.—Christian Witness.
