Dear Readers:

We have just received notice from the Moncton Publishing Co., who print the King's Highway, that on account of the rise in the price of newsprint, that they have raised the price of printing our paper, $25.00 per month which means $300.00 more a year, which will make the publishing of our paper well nigh impossible without your help. We are very thankful for the good response on the part of so many of our readers to our previous appeals for renewals, but this new increase in the cost of printing of $25.00 per month, and whereas there are very many subscribers yet, in arrears, we are kindly asking them to pay up at once, and thus help us to bear this burden. We are sending out statements as fast as we can, so in case you say that you cannot tell by the figures on your paper how much you owe, you will be able to tell by a glance at the statement. Please friends, let us hear from you at once. "As you would therefore that men should do to you, do ye even so unto them." I am sure if you were in my place friends and I was the one who owed the bill, you would expect me to pay up. Thank you, and the Lord bless you.

Sincerely, your servant,

EDITOR H. S. D.

The following cable was received by our Superintendent from Misses Uta Chase and Nina Smith, our new missionaries: "Arrived at Capetown March 3rd. Good trip."

Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Parks left Capetown Feb. 24th, aboard the "Thorshall." They are due at Saint John about March 15th.

Rev. and Mrs. B. C. Cochrane will be at Lower Brighton, N. B., March 13th—25th, assisting Rev. F. A. Anderson and our Brighton church in a revival campaign.

Rev. E. W. Tokley has received an unanimous call from the church at Moncton, where he is pastor, to remain with them for another year.

Dear Brother:

Please announce in The Highway, our resignation from the Church in Presque Isle, as we plan to go in special work for the coming year. We received a unanimous call but have felt to try and open some new fields of service.

Remember us in prayer, in his most powerful name.

H. McGEORGE

THE CLASH OF SPIRITS

Rev. E. E. Shelhamer

"The words of his mouth were smoother than butter, but war was in his heart; his words were softer than oil, yet were they drawn swords." Ps. 55:21.

The great need of the day is heart and home piety. There are but few homes where there is never a harsh word spoken, where there is no clash of spirits. A person can behave well outwardly and yet have war in his heart. If we could see with angelic vision, we might behold at conferences and camp meetings, a pitched battle of spirits around the pulpit and front seats. Perhaps not a wrong word spoken, yet the atmosphere was full of "drawn swords."

We must get away from the false notion that swearing, drinking and gambling make one wicked. No, but because he is already wicked at heart, he is capable of doing wicked things. It is impossible to stab or wound another until there has first been a break in spirit. Long before one shocks another with unkind words, he has prepared the way by nursing a distant feeling. Satan looks on with fiendish delight as he hears the distant rumbling of war way down on the inside. Finally, like a hidden cancer it breaks out on the surface to the surprise of all.

No doubt some people are tortured and murdered by slow degrees. A sullen, silent venom harbored within, withers the other party and makes him suffer more than had he been beaten with a club. Yes, many a companion dies prematurely for want of a congenial atmosphere. On the other hand, a kind look, a word of appreciation, or a tender tap of the hand, often relieves strain and gives new inspiration to life.

Many a person appears happy on the street, but is crushed at home. It is said that Bob Ingersol became an infidel because his father —a Methodist preacher—affected a lovely disposition while in the church, then went home to change his tone of voice as he ruled the house in a domineering manner. The patient wife bore it all amid tears while young Robert looked on in disgust. He reasoned that the whole thing was a piece of hypocrisy.

It is not a new hat, or a box of chocolates that smoothes the pathway of life, but real love manifested in little acts of kindness. Say, friend, if you do not quite measure up to an ideal Christian, resolve that if necessary, you will apologize and then through much waiting upon God, you will henceforth create a new atmosphere, so that others will enjoy being in your presence.—The Holiness Worker.

TWO GREAT MEN ASK—

"Is this the hour of our nation's twilight, the last fading hour of light before an endless night shall envelop us and all the western world? That is a question which we still have in our power to answer. If we delay longer, we can expect nothing but darkness and defeat and desolation."

—Lyndon Johnson, Senator.

"If we respond with all our strength, with all our hearts and courage, I do not know what it will cost in toil and tears and courage, I do not know what it will cost in toil and tears and treasure. But I do know we will save our souls . . ."

—Thomas E. Dewey, Governor.

OBITUARY

The community of Wood Harbour was plunged into sadness on Friday p. m., March 2nd, when death suddenly came to claim Miss Jean Olive Matheson, aged 16, only child of James and Helen Matheson, of Upper Wood Harbor. Jean had been taken to the Yarmouth Hospital for an operation for appendicitis. She passed away while under the anaesthetic before the operation had begun. Up until Wednesday she had been in her usual health, but that day was seized by pains and a doctor was seen, but her case was not considered too serious and she was advised to wait a day or two, but on Friday she was taken worse and the doctor then rushed her to the hospital, but the result was as stated.

Jean was a good and faithful member of our Wood Harbour Church and was always in her place at prayer-meeting and other church services.

The entire church were mourners. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents, the mother being a bed-ridden invalid. For two years or more Jean had been the devoted nurse for her mother and the light of the home for her father. Naturally they are both heart-broken.

The funeral took place Monday p. m. with the pastor officiating, being assisted at the graveside by Rev. Daniel McComisky. The funeral was largely attended and was very sad. Interment was made in the family lot at Upper Wood Harbor, where the body of a beautiful young woman was laid to rest to await the summons from on high.

Christians who know the value of prayer, pray for this stricken father and mother and other relatives that the hand of God may be revealed even in our day, and this sad bereavement may be overruled to the glory of God.
