THINK IT OVER

People Make Homes

The reason that people live in the slums is that the slums live in the people. If this statement seems too severe to be universally true, it is nevertheless a principle which is at work everywhere. Slovenliness on the exterior is a reflection of a slovenly nature within. Slum-clearance and home-betterment should be encouraged, but unless slums can be taken out of people, there isn't much use of taking the people out of the slums.

What we are trying to say is that it is the people and not the circumstances that make the homes. It does not require wealth to make a happy home. Modern conveniences are not necessary for building good character. Whoever you are, or wherever you live, you can do your part to help make your home a happy and a wholesome one.
