LIMITLESS LIBERALITY

I am sure that people's pocketbooks have bottoms, but sometimes I wonder if their hearts do. How often we hear, "I'd give if I had it to give." The conflict is between a big heart and a little purse. Dr. Whitehead, a personal friend of John Wesley's said that Wesley's liberality "knew no bounds but an empty pocket."

Fortunately, Christian liberality still clothes itself in flesh. Such has been my reaction to recent contributions to our school needs. In some cases gifts received represent extra-budget giving.

We have been pleased to receive donations for the Bethany library fund from a few young peoples societies, a local church, and interested friends. Gifts for this fund have totaled one hundred and twenty dollars, seventy dollars of which was raised in one church in one offering. Such giving is not according to law but according to grace. (Our objective is 5,000 volumes; we lack 4,000 even now.)

Other gifts have been in the form of pot holders, quilts, bedding, dish towels, and money to be expended for such articles. To those who are interested in making donations the Dean of Women would suggest that money is often a better gift because it can be applied to the most urgent needs.

The recent sponsoring of "The Bethany Hour" by listening friends has been another form of giving worthy of appreciation.

We take this medium to express our gratitude to those who have been mindful of our needs.

NO NEED OF SUN

By Ruth Strahm Hoiem

You will not be "let down" when you read this book. Written by the associate pastor of a Wesleyan Methodist Church, it is true to the ideals and doctrines of the people called the "holiness people."

"No Need of Sun" is the story of a young woman called "Betty" who attended Bible School four years in preparation for missionary work in Africa, then had her application rejected by the missionary board. Through her "valley" experience, Betty found a closer walk with God "where there was 'glory' even when the sun did not shine." Then the God-given plan unfolded.

So much doctrine is unobtrusively woven into the story that it is not an ordinary fiction book.

Note some excerpts sent to the author by readers.

Rev. Randolph Nicholson, pastor at Doaktown, N. B. says that he would "highly recommend" the book to young and old "and would earnestly desire that our young people be given the opportunity to read it."

Dr. J. R. Swauger: "I feel you have made an unusual and very valuable contribution to Holiness literature."

This 350-page book with durable cloth binding sells for $3.00 in Canada and United States.

As this book is on the shelves of the Bethany Bookroom, it may be in your home in two or three days.
