

NEWS of the Crusade

Our report for the "Crusade News" column this time, is of a little different nature. We wish to speak of "follow up" work now being done, and needed. And in particular of the new projects at Sussex and Grand Harbour. At Grand Harbour work has already begun on a new church. A small, but zealous band of people have launched out in faith to build a church in that community which will be dedicated to the preaching of full salvation. The financial demands of such an undertaking are very heavy. Some of our readers or churches which may be in a position to do so, would do well to give, in addition to supporting our general Home Mission effort, a special gift to this new work. $100, $500, $1,000 gifts could be wisely and profitably invested in support of such a worthy cause.

Then there is Sussex. Here the people have been holding services in the Orange Hall. It is a fine building and we have been fortunate to have the use of it, but it is not a church, and our people there suffer disadvantages in not having a church building. There had been some hope that a church building in the town, little used, might be bought or rented, but there now seems no hope of such an arrangement. And so, a new church building is needed at Sussex. Here again, generous donations could be used to great advantage in getting a building started. These are projects we should pray about, unitedly and fervently. God is able to supply the need in these communities as He has in others mentioned elsewhere in this Highway.

A special week-end meeting is being planned for Nov. 13-15. It will be held in the Centreville Regional High School with Rev. B. C. Cochrane, Deverne Mullen and others as special workers. Please pray for this meeting.

"Christ's call is to feed the hungry, not the full; to save the lost, not the stiff-necked; not to call the scoffers, but sinners, to repentance."

THE CHURCH AND MISSIONS

black, with stars of hope, and gilds the storm clouds with silver.

Missionary activity is essential to the Church's spiritual vitality. In the lands where once the Church was empire there is now dearth, false religion and oppression. Mighty churches, with spiritual stalwarts for pastors, once influenced all the lands now held by the Turk. Why? Those churches, like Jeshurun, waxed fat, slothful, disobedient to the missionary command. They refused to carry the light to others. This selfishness produced jealousies, theological wrangles until their light died. Then came the fierce Saracens with fire and sword, and swept them all away.

A comfortable faith is a dangerous deception.

A feeling of freedom from world evangelism is a sure sign of loss of love.

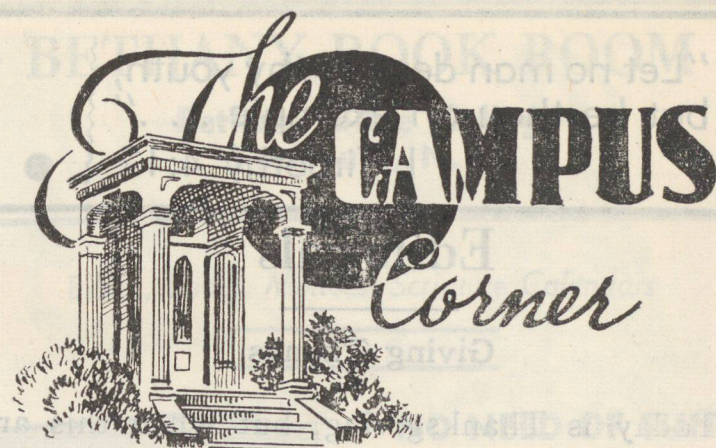

In the decadent periods of church history the importance of externals have been magnified—beautiful buildings, impressive rituals, skilled staffs, patronage of political power—but the missionary spirit faded into nothing, and soon the power to influence men was lost utterly.

Obedience to the missionary command is the only antidote to littleness, self-righteousness and smug complacency. What does it mean to join the Church? A little less worldly in dress? A little improvement in keeping the Sabbath? A little more careful of the language used? A little more secure when thinking of eternity? Attending prayer meeting? Paying tithe? Is this all that it means to join the Church? NO! A thousand times no! To join the Church is to put your hand in the nail-scarred hand of the Christ and go out to a life of sacrificial service. It is to become a part of a great world fellowship, joined in a great effort to make Christ known to men everywhere—in shops, on street cars, on buses, in factories, in offices, in the remotest corners of this planet. It is to witness for Christ, live like Christ, and work with Christ in evangelizing our generation.

If we would live in obedience to Christ's commands we must be missionary in spirit.

If we would save the Church from dead Laodiceanism we must be missionary in spirit and in deed.

If we would save our souls missions must consume us with a living flame.—Wesleyan Methodist.

CAMPUS REFLECTIONS

Looking back over the school year this far, there is a satisfying assurance that the hand of God has been upon our activities.

During the summer, work on the administration building was begun and now wears a new coat of grey and white with distinction. Much credit is due the Messrs. George and Melvin Perry for their excellent workmanship in repairing the building and their helpfulness in every phase of the work.

Special mention should be made of the many hours of labor donated by the pastor and members of the Port Maitland and Sanford congregations. Bethany is blessed with many friends in the area sincerely concerned with the welfare of the School. A few days ago, the annual donation arrived from the people of Port Maitland and Sanford which we received with deep appreciation. Throughout each year kitchen supplies, bedding and other essentials are sent from different sections of our denomination. One of the outstanding gifts was a washing machine given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White, of Marysville. To all who share an interest in our various deeds, we pray God's richest blessing upon you.

The daily routine of campus life has been marked by the presence of God's Spirit. The relationship of Faculty and students has been carried on in a fine spirit of fellowship and enjoyment.

Above all, the spiritual emphasis is kept predominant. We began the year with a convention, Rev. F. A. Watson, our incoming pastor as the special speaker. Brother Watson has found a large place in the hearts of the people, and already his ministry has borne fruit in needy souls finding spiritual help.

A weekly broadcast, "Chapel Echoes," is presented over CJLS Yarmouth, each Tuesday evening from 7.30 to 8.00 p. m.

Besides the regular student prayer meetings, the Evangelistic Assoc. is active in seeking opportunities of service. They conduct a street meeting each Saturday evening in Yarmouth and supervise the spiritual activities of school life.

The untiring efforts of our teachers, our cook and student helpers plays a great part in the efficient operation of our school.

You can help us by remembering to pray for Bethany, and don't forget the Budget!

THE UNCLEANSSED HEART

Many a man of great natural gifts and unusual knowledge is trying to do work for God and meeting with little or no success. People wonder why it is that their work is devoid of results, but if we knew their secret life as God knows it, we would understand their failure. There is sin before God. It has been often and well said that "God does not demand a beautiful vessel for His work, but He does demand a clean one."—R. A. Torrey.
