QUARTERLY MEETING REPORT, DISTRICT NO. 5

The fall Quarterly of District No. 5 convened with the church at Fort Fairfield, Me., Sept. 2-5. From the first service throughout the presence of the Lord was very real. This fact, of course, made the Quarterly a great blessing to all who attended and attendance was very good.

Rev. J. A. Blinn of Crystal, Me., preached Thursday evening and members of his church brought special numbers in song. Friday evening Rev. A. L. Stairs preached and members of his congregation brought special numbers in song. There were many matters discussed at the business meeting Saturday afternoon and we feel that progress is being made in the affairs of the district. Rev. H. M. Kimball preached Saturday evening from the theme "The Highway of Holiness."

Lic. J. A. McArthur led the love feast, and Rev. W. L. Fernley brought the morning message. Rev. M. W. Bagley preached in the afternoon, and Rev. A. L. Stairs brought the closing message of the Quarterly. The closing service was crowned with great victory with several being saved and others being sanctified.

Practically all the messages were on the theme of Holiness, and we are happy that this doctrine is still being preached, but more than this, we are happy that people are finding it as a personal experience which works daily.

We are happy that God has given us another Quarterly with rich blessing, and souls being delivered from the bondage of sin.

M. W. Bagley,
Secretary.

QUARTERLY MEETING REPORT, DISTRICT NO. 1

Greetings to the Highway readers from the Quarterly Meeting of District No. 1, held at Millville in the Name of our blessed Lord. We wish to again report of the blessing of God in our midst. Although storms, sickness and death played a part in keeping the attendance down, it didn't prevent the presence of the Holy Spirit in our services.

Bro. Kenneth Jewett brought the Thursday evening message speaking from Matt. 16:24. On Friday evening, Bro. Symonds spoke on Sanctification. The business meeting was held on Saturday afternoon and the evening message was given by Bro. Rice, speaking from Matt. 18:35-43.

The Love Feast was led by Mrs. Owens, talking on Psalm 116:1, followed in the morning service by a message from Bro. Symonds on 1 Thes. 4:3. In the afternoon, Bro. Hicks spoke from John 3:16, and Bro. Jewett in the evening from Joshua 24:15.

We, as a Quarterly, were very sorry that Bro. Wilson was unable to attend due to his illness, and Bro. Cochrane, as this was their first Quarterly on this District.

We praise God for victory as two knelt at the altar of forgiveness and two for cleansing through the precious blood.

In Christian service,
Alice M. Owens, (Sec'y.)

Further announcements from the rooms committee will appear in "The King's Highway."
Chairman,
Rooms Committee.

Let prayer be the key of the morning and the bolt of the evening.—Matthew Henry.

Courtesy

The fact that politeness is a commodity of great value in the world of business is being demonstrated by a young woman who has created a new profession and who is known from coast to coast as "the doctor of courtesy." According to a press report, she is engaged in building up good will for two big corporations with plans and offices scattered over the United States and Canada.

Five years ago this young woman decided that the telephone service in some places was far from being what it should be. She was aware that discourtesy was more common than courtesy. After giving the matter practical study, she worked out her "speed-with-politeness" telephone system.

"Courtesy is the cheapest commodity on the market today and brings the biggest returns," the smiling doctor of courtesy declared. "There is altogether too much discourtesy practised in the business world." A cheery "Good morning" and a "Thank you" go a long way toward building up good will for any business.

How politeness paves the way for good will in the commercial sphere is illustrated by the following incident: "I prefer an upper berth on a Pullman," said a veteran salesman. "But on one trip I could get into the sleeping car only because a man who had reserved a lower berth cancelled his reservation at the last minute.

"I had begun to get ready for my night's rest, when I saw a man six feet tall, wearing heavy boots and heavy clothes, start to climb to that upper shelf. I halted him halfway up and offered to trade. He was gruffly grateful, and we traded.

"In the next town I had to call on a dealer of means and influence who was regarded as very unapproachable by salesmen. When I was shown into his office, he was the man whom I had met in the Pullman. There he was, boots, heavy clothes, and all, but with a heart as big as a buffalo. He gave me a large order, thanked me again for my civility, and took my protestation that I liked an upper berth as merely an additional courtesy.

"I have heard that civility and self-sacrifice pay. I cannot say this was either, but courtesy paid. However, the incident did show that if a man has any courtesy to display, he might as well show it to the first man he meets instead of trying to pick some special object."

Courtesy is the oil that makes the machinery of life run with a minimum of friction, heat, and loss of energy. That is why business men and women are making it an important factor in commercial affairs. Like service, courtesy is being put on the market as a valuable commodity.—Champlain Conference Challenger.

TWO KEYS NEEDED

Every safe deposit box in a bank has two keys and two locks—one held by the box-renter and the other by the bank. It needs both keys to open the box.

Before the treasures of a successful church can be utilized two keys must be used—the one in the possession of the individual member, the other held by the pastor and the organization. Cooperation of both is essential.

Sometimes church members forget their key—and then wonder why they got nothing from the service. The key of expectation, of spiritual-mindedness, of prayer and worship, can cooperate with the Church's key in opening the treasures of Scripture, of worship and fellowship.—William Ellis.
