PARENTAL GOVERNMENT

Oh sanctified children of God, wake up to this deplorable situation. Bestir yourselves at once for your children's sake, who are steadily declining in moral worth before your very eyes. Do it for the sake of the honor of the holy Bride of Christ, whose glory is tarnished, and whose good name is blasphemed and reproached, just as the tabernacle of Israel was by the sins of the ungoverned sons of dear old Eli. Do it, dear brother ministers, and holy fathers and mothers, for your own sakes, lest ye be covered with confusion and shame as you face the sad victims of your lax government at the bar of God, where awful wrongs never can be made right.

Above all, ye young parents, who love the Lord and the cause of holiness, watch with prayerful diligence the first stirrings of carnality in your high chairs and cradles, and see to it that your children learn to submit to parental authority. If the child will not obey the earthly father, the chances are a thousand to one that he will not honor and obey the Father in heaven.

And, O men who minister before the Lord in the sanctuary, plead for grace, and have your children in subjection and rule your house. If ye cannot, you have abundant reason to doubt your call to the ministry. By the grace of God, succeed! succeed! or later you will be driven from it in shame, with a broken heart.

He leaves besides his mother, his sorrowing wife, two sons and two daughters, all at home. Also one sister, and two brothers. The floral tributes were many and beautiful testifying of the high esteem in which the community held Mr. Clair as a good citizen, beloved neighbor and friend. Our prayers follow the bereaved family.

The graces of the Spirit ought to be richly revealed in our lives; the power of the Spirit ought to be mightily manifested in our work. It is the privilege of every believer to be a man of power in service. Grace and power are both at our disposal; grace for living like Christ; power in working for him.
