THE CHALLENGE OF RETIREMENT YEARS

those who are past middle age. To me there is nothing more beautiful than a gray-haired person with a tender heart and compassion and love for God's kingdom and people.

For many these retired years can be years of more liberal giving than ever before. Though the years they have been faithful in their tithes and offerings, but have always been confronted with the responsibilities of family expenses, etc. Now both their wants and their needs are greatly reduced. Whatever income they might have—retirement salary, investments, property income, savings, etc.—can be more liberally shared with God's kingdom.

If the above suggestions are impossible or do not apply, I have one final suggestion. If there is any measure of health and strength, these years of retirement could be spent in earnest prayer for God's kingdom. Who better than our sanctified senior citizens would pray the "effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man"? They know both the pitfalls of sin and the possibilities of grace. They could say with the Psalmist, "I give myself unto prayer." Untold blessing would result if hundreds of our retired people would send volumes of prayer to God's throne of grace in behalf of His work and workmen. Nothing encourages me more than to have one of these people say to me on Sunday morning, "Pastor, we are praying for you."

The Bible declares, "With long life will I satisfy him, and show him my salvation." An increased number of our people are experiencing the reality of this scriptural statement, and it is our desire to help them to see the reality of

E'en down to old age all My people shall prove
My sov'reign, eternal, unchangeable love.

LOVE TESTED

"I do love God," said a girl to her father one day when he had been conversing with her about loving God.

"Suppose, my child," he said, "that you should come to me and say, 'I love you, dear father,' and then go away and disobey and dishonor me. Could I believe you?"

"No, father," she replied.

"Well, dear child," was the reply, how can I believe you love God when I see you daily doing things which He forbids?"—Sel.

IN APPRECIATION

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my deep appreciation for the many kindnesses shown me during my recent illness. The many cards, flowers, etc. were cheering. The many assurances of prayer were a real comfort and blessing.

To the Fredericton church and our home church go special thanks. May God bless every kind friend.

Mrs. W. E. Morgan, Sr.
Millville, N. B.

It is said that Richard Baxter, in reviewing his life, related that in his early years the miraculous evidences for Christianity influenced him most; in his middle life the prophetic and historical; but in his later years, the fitness of Christianity to meet all the needs of his being was to him the most convincing evidence.

Evan H. Hopkins.
