BETHANY IN PERSPECTIVE

Perspective means to see things in their proper relationship. Sometimes this is a difficult thing to do. For instance, it is hard for some to see that God is still good and kind, even when reverses come and high hopes are dashed to the ground. For others, it is hard to keep working and sacrificing when it would appear that little progress is being made and when some are offering opposition and criticism. Perspective, in times like these, requires real effort.

It may be that our focus on Bethany, at just this time, needs to be adjusted—to be put in perspective. It's all too easy to get an inverted picture of Bethany and its program of Christian education. For some, few we believe, all that Bethany means is a high budget that the local church can never pay, or frantic appeals for faculty salaries and necessary repairs on buildings. Others get a distorted view because of certain students who need to be sent home when they refuse to obey the rules. Still others get a false picture because they receive only a portion of the facts mixed with a large amount of hearsay.

The real picture, the picture of Bethany in perspective, is a thrilling one. No portion of Reformed Baptist money pays larger dividends. The product of the years—ministers, missionaries, and consecrated laymen in all walks of life—is one of which we may be proud. If we did not have a school just like Bethany, we ought to have one!

The story of Christian education at work in the lives of young men and young women at Bethany is an amazing one, and one which in some instances is nothing short of miraculous. Shattered lives have been rebuilt. Lives with no purpose, have found direction. Jesus Christ has become the personal Savior of a small army of young lives. Here, through the dedicated service of a trained faculty, the Great Commission is being carried out.

We salute Bethany Bible College for another successful year and for an outstanding conclusion to its seventeenth year of operation.

WELCOME HOME TO ERIC AND NINA HAYWOOD

On behalf of the entire Church we wish to extend a heartfelt "welcome home" to Rev. and Mrs. Eric Haywood and to their little daughter, Debbie. Brother and Sister Haywood stepped on Canadian soil again on Saturday evening, June 9, at the Yarmouth Airport.

A large welcoming committee was on hand to greet them. Members of both families were there, as well as neighbours and friends and most of the faculty and students of Bethany Bible College.

On being asked later what she felt about being home again, Nina replied, "It's unexplainable. There are no words." To the question, "What did he most look forward to in coming home?" Eric replied, "To see my father, who, since I went to Africa, has found the Lord."

As a Church, we look forward with anticipation to the ministry of the Haywoods among us during the coming year.

HIGHLIGHTS OF A YARMOUTH WEEKEND

—As Seen By The Editor

A dramatic and pulse-quickenning moment at exactly 5:55 p.m., Saturday, June 9, when Rev. and Mrs. Eric Haywood stepped from a TCA plane upon Canadian soil again — after eleven years in Africa for Nina and eight years for Eric. Loved ones embraced mid tears of rejoicing. Moments to remember. Something akin to what Heaven must be!

A delightful occasion at the Grand Hotel on Saturday evening when Bethany graduates, parents, and faculty feasted on turkey and strawberry short-cake. If all prophecies occur, as seen by the Class prophet of the evening, the year 1975 will be a good one to see!

An impressive Baccalaureate service on Sunday afternoon when Rev. S. E. Cameron asked the graduates, "What is Your Life?" David Bishop's solo, "Some Golden Day-break" was given beautifully and effectively. God's spirit possessed the service. Our hearts were blessed.

The atmosphere was heavenly on Monday afternoon at the Bethany Chapel as an hour of sacred readings and songs came to an end with the singing, by the choir, of "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross." Miss Pocock was choir director.

On Monday evening, at Zion United Baptist Church, thirty-three graduates were granted diplomas at the Annual Graduation Exercises of Bethany Bible College. To the parents and to the graduates this was indeed an hour of happy climax. To make a perfect day, a fellowship tea was served, following the graduation, to the graduates, parents, faculty, and guests.
