"This is to state that I have used a Cumberland Furnace to heat my house for about twenty-six (26) years, and that it is still 'going strong.' During all that time the repairs account has been practically nil." S. C. Bruce, Shelburne.

Do you want a furnace that will last till at least 1951 (like Mr. Bruce's—26 years), with practically no expense for repairs? Then send for the booklet "Remember When." It tells what's important in furnace buying, whether pipe or pipeless, coal or wood burning.

On leaving work eno day not long ago, two miners in England found a newly-born baby lying in a sheltered pit. One of the men took the baby home to his wife. On removing the child's wrapping the woman found bank-notes to the amount of $6,000, together with a letter asking that the child be baptized Victor and be well cared for.

At the banquet at the meeting of Freemasons of the United Grand Lodge of Ireland in London, there were 8,000 guests, seated at five miles of tables. Two thousand waitresses served the dinner, and these were directed in their work by a man, sitting high up in the roof of the building who flashed his orders with an electrical mechanism.

TOO MANY AUTOMOBILES

Detroit was not such a prominent city until the automobile came, but, just as too much prosperity frequently proves an expensive thing, so do many officials at Detroit suggest that too many automobiles may spoil the municipal broth.

Almost everyone in Detroit, it seems, drives. Everyone with as little as $5 for a first payment is a potential purchaser. Detroit makes more automobiles than any other city; two hundred thousand of its population are employed in automobile factories. They make motor cars, and they ride in them.

So Detroit's thoroughfares are choked with machines—flivvers by the ten thousands—trucks, passenger cars of every description, jitnies and motor busses. The automobile industry has "made" Detroit. It has also created serious problems. Detroit today is hard pressed to keep pace with its motorized citizenry.

Subways, elevated, wider streets, tringent parking regulations—all have been suggested as panaceas. In the meantime the situation becomes more acute. Where to put a car is more of a problem to many than raising the revenue to buy it. Garage shortages in many sections, coupled with the native thrift or penuriousness of owners, have worked to increase all night parking at curbs. Big and shiny ones stand with their lowlier brethren. Thereby is added another perplexing traffic problem.

There have been evolved what is known as the "Master Plan," entailing an expenditure within the next 15 years of $100,000,000 for new thoroughfares and the widening of many existing arteries.

For two years past, street widening has been in progress, but it has not kept up with traffic increase. A super-highway to bisect the city, providing a direct east side-west side thoroughfare, has been approved by the voters. Yet, today, before the approved plan begun to take shape, it has been found that the proposed 80-foot street will be inadequate, and the plans are being revised for a 120-foot paved way.

The traffic problem is by no means confined to down-town Detroit. It extends even beyond the city limits. Several of the street widening projects now under construction, are eight miles from the business district. Some of these streets are to be widened to 204. One super-highway, connecting Detroit and Pontiac—cities 25 miles apart — provides room for four machines moving in each direction at the same time. Yet, even this roadway already has experienced serious traffic tie-ups.

PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

Ended by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fusilier, Sask.—"For two or three days every so often I would have such pains in my back and sides that I could not do anything—could not even lie quietly in bed, and my head ached, too. I was this way about three years, but was worse after I was married. I was on a farm with not a house nearer than five miles and there was not a person to advise me, as my folks live in Manitoba. My sister-in-law told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took her advice and have been thankful for it ever since. After taking the medicine for three months I can say it has helped me a lot and I am doing fine. I am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to others and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. HELEN BALANOFF, Fusilier, Saskatchewan.

Often some slight trouble will cause a general upset of the system. Such symptoms as nervousness, painful times, irregularity, backache and headache indicate some form of female weakness.

Women so bothered should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. This dependable medicine has helped thousands of women and it is reasonable to expect that it will help you. Try it today. Your druggist sells this medicine. C

A TENANT LOSES

A legal decision recently reported in England is a warning that tenants or intending tenants, shocld scrutinize carefully the clauses of all agreements in a lease to a furnished house, and shows that an arranfiement at the expiration of the tenancy to deliver up the property in as good state as at the date of the agreement, allowing for reasonable wear and tear, and damage by fire or storm, may have consequences not contemplated by the tenant.

In the recent case of Phillimore against Lane, there was such a covenant to make good all damages to the premises and replace all articles of furniture and other effects which might be broken, lost, damaged or destroyed by others during such tenancy. In this case, burglars entered the house and stole valcable property, and it was admitted that the tenant had not been negligent.

Justice Rowiatt, who decided the case, held that the tenant was liable under the lease. It was pointed out in the opinion that persons renting furnished houses or flats should insure against burglary, because by the ruling in another case, Darrell against Tibbits, it is not advisable to rely on such insurance by the landlord.

MESSAGES FOR WAR MEMORIALS

(Toronto Glabe)

Recent discussion over the suitability of the inscription on the cenotaph now being completed in front of the City Hall calls attention to the wording of such messages generally adopted since the Great War. The words, "To All Who Served," have been carved on the Toronto stone, and are held to be all-embracing and simple.

A phrase which has been adopted in scores of cases is, "Their name liveth for evermore." The origin of this is the Book of Ecclesiastes, in the Apocrypha, the full verse being;

Their bodies are buried in peace; but their name liveth for evermore.

A small book of inscriptions was issued in 1919 by the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, containing much of the noblest material for the purpose taken from English literature. One of the most impressive verses was this from Laurence Binyon:

They shall not grow old, as we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn;
And the going down of the sun, and in the morning,
We will remember them.

From Shakespeare was this quotation:

In peace and honor rest you here, my sons;
Here are no storms,
No noise, but silence, and eternal sleep.

From Wordsworth was this:

This is the Happy Warrior; this is he
That every man in arms should wish to be.

Then there was the message written by Simonides the Greek to commemorate the bravery of the Spartans at Thermopylae, which Ruskin declared "the noblest group of words ever uttered":

Wayfarer, tiding to the Spartans bring
That here we lie, their words remembering.

The fount of literature gushes with living waters of inspired speech suitable for remembrance of the valiant dead, and there is no excuse for dullness or stupidity, great as is the message to be written.

The fattest man who ever lived was probably Daniel Lambert, who died at Stamford, England, in 1809. His weight was 739 pounds. He was nine feet four inches round the waist and the calf of his leg was 37 inches in circumference. A group of 11 young men once stood within a buttoned vest that had belonged to Lambert.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. M. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.
