Banish The Blues

By Observing
Nature's Basic Rule

Those who suffer from despondency, listlessness and headaches can usually trace the cause of these conditions to constipation.

They are frequently brought about by overwork, nervous strain, lack of outdoor exercise or sleep, or improper food, but more frequently by the non-observance of nature's basic rule—regular thorough bowel elimination.

Poisons from waste matter left behind are picked up by the blood and absorbed by the system, weakening the nerves and lowering the vitality.

Nujol, the scientific internal lubricant, corrects constipation in nature's own way by augmenting the supply of nature's lubricant.

Nujol by softening the waste matter thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. It is gentle, safe and natural in its action, and can be taken for any length of time without any ill effect.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and remember—look for the name "Nujol" in red on both bottle, label and package.

schooner is being loaded at Point Wolfe now, with M. Garfield White's lumber. J. Cleveland is superintending the work.

Miss Charlotte Dow is quite ill with flu.

While away, she worked for nine months in the Sias Laboratories (Brooks Hospital, Brookline, Mass.). After leaving there she took a post graduate course at the Eye and Ear Infirmary of the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

Before leaving, she spent a week with her brother, in Whitinsville, Mass., and on the way, two days in Moncton with friends.

Miss Ellen Bogle, of Bathurst, came home yesterday to spend a few days with her mother, who is so ill with pneumonia.

SILK NINETEEN CENTURIES OLD.

Some of the most interesting pieces of silk in the world, material approximately 1,900 years old, are now on view at the British Museum, and modern women are entranced by the specimens which were collected by Sir Aurel Stein in eastern Turkestan, westernmost China and northeastern Persia.

Stein, who places their manufacture at a century before or after the beginning of the Christian era, discovered some of the silks in an ancient cemetery at Lou-lan, which is in the track of an ancient trade route from China to central Asia.

Fragments of clothes of Chinese soldiers, traders and travelers of long forgotten ages form the majority of the exhibits, but there is a little hand-bag which might well be carried to the theatre with credit by a woman of fashion of our day.

It is composed of little diamond shaped pieces of faded rose red silk, of the color with which old workboxes were lined, and of maize and blue silk. A fair sized piece of the silk of the same period shows a delicate running pattern of soft blues and chestnuts, in which drooping flowers which resemble snowdrops figure.

A small piece of sprigged silk, showing birds in flowery trees, dates from the seventh or eighth century. Blurred green and yellow designs suggest that the popular "shadow" cretonnes of late years are in direct descent from these ancient Chinese fabrics.

A little bag of silk, buried with some wanderer from China in the Lou-lan cemetery somewhere about the beginning of the Christian era, is not much more than an inch long, but it has little draw strings from which the remainder of tassels dangle.—Boston Globe.

A VIOLENT PROTEST

Why do fat people who want to reduce always take such a round-about way of attaining this end? If increased physical exercise will bring satisfactory results as it is said it will, why don't these over-sized persons find some sensible and useful kind of work in which such exercise may be found? They seem to go to a good deal of trouble to get themselves into shape, so that a smaller suit of clothes will fit them; but it is not the kind of work which appeals to reasonable persons. Rolling around in one's pyjamas on the floor for a half hour every morning may be an effective way of getting rid of superfluous flesh; but neither to the persons in the next room, nor to those in the room immediately below does this process of weight reduction appeal as a rational form of exercise.

Fat men are urged now to play croquet. The fact that they are to use only a mallet with a very short handle will make it necessary for them to stoop over and thus exercise regions most affected by adipose tissue. The sport is said to be becoming more popular from day to day, and the results in decreased weight are unusually gratifying.

But why not take to something useful? If exercise will do the business, why not a couple of washtubs with a week's washing done to a state of immaculate whiteness? Repeat this exercise every day for a month or two, and the results will be just as satisfying as they will be from rolling insanely around the bedroom floor for a half hour in the morning. Probably more so.

What shall be said of an individual who finds that at all hazards he must reduce, and then hires someone to remove the dandelions from the front yard, and for himself takes to playing croquet.

The haughtiest man I know is the fellow who always hung his head down because he was too proud to look up to anybody.

Two Women Owe Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Adolphe, Manitoba.—"I was very weak and had great pains during my periods so that I could not sweep the floor. The pains were in the right side and extended to the left and then downwards. It seemed as if the body was heavy and upside down. It is for these troubles I took the Vegetable Compound. I saw about it in a paper and one woman prevailed on me to take it. It has helped me in every way, the pains are less, and I have more appetite. It is a pleasure to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to other women."—LEA DELOREME, St. Adolphe, Manitoba.

Found Great Relief

Toronto, Ont.—"I am at the Change of Life with hot flashes, dizziness, weakness and nervousness. I had head noises and was short of breath. I was this way about six months when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers. I have taken eight bottles so far and found great relief."—Mrs. R. J. SALMON, 112 Lawlor Ave., Toronto, Ont.
