CANADA'S ICE HARVEST THIS YEAR

Canada has an opportunity at present to harvest a crop at comparatively trifling cost that will repay the owner many times over before the coming summer is past, says The Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

During a hot spell, when at work in the field or about the mill or even around the home, what is more welcome or more refreshing than a cool drink?

What are more enticing than the many table delicacies that can be made during the heated period and which are dependent upon an ice supply?

What is more necessary to the successful dairyman than a sufficient supply of ice for cooling purposes?

If we would have these advantages during the coming summer, now is the time for action. There are a few places in Canada where it is not easy to obtain all the ice one could use simply for the cutting and storing. A A little co-operative effort by groups of farmers will make easy the harvesting of an ice supply, and each will be well repaid in pleasure, comfort and in reducing cost of living, the result of being able to keep fresh meats, milks, butter, etc.

The ice supply, so freely provided by nature, is but another of Canada's wonderful natural resources, the development of which means so much to those on the farms and in the swol- len municipalities where a community ice supply is not available.

The equipment for securing ice in a small way is not expensive while almost any kind of a building will answer for storage purposes provided there is sufficient insulation of sawdust, fine shavings or similar material and that drainage is ample to carry off the water from the melting ice.

Every farmer owes it to his family to provide them with an ice supply for the hot weather, and, with the very low cost of such supply, not many should be without ice next summer.

103 YEARS OLD

Belcher's Almanac Enters its 103rd Year With an Abundance of Information in Compact Readable Form.

For over a century, Belchers' Farmers' Almanac has been hailed almost as an institution by a host of readers in Eastern Canada and Newfoundland, who looked eagerly forward to its annual appearance.

This year, the Almanac is somewhat smaller in size than in the past, due to a more condensed form of compiliation. Though condensel in size no important information has been omitted. Readers will find this useful little volume as brimful of interest as ever.

A newly added feature is the section devoted to information of a legal nature which covers valuable information in relation to wills, appointment of executors, descent of property and other matters of a similar kind.

A fairly successful effort to secure information covering the three Maritime Provinces, resulted in the obtaining of considerable information regarding New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Much of this information is included in Belcher's Almanac for the first time. Belcher's Almanac is now on sale at all newsdealers and is well worth the price asked—35c.

It was the day of the school concert, and the audience consisted mainly of mothers, proud or envious according to the parts that their children were playing.

One small boy came on to the platform. Striking a bold attitude, he began: "Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears!"

Whereupon one of the mothers turned to her companion. "There, that's the Joneses' boy," she said tartly. "He wouldn't be his mother's son if he weren't trying to borrow something."

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK

Mrs. Horn Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Hamilton Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and would not be without it now. I had a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk and I was all rundown and could hardly get around to do my housework. I would be in bed three or four days at a time. I was told by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound. I did, and by the time I took two bottles I was beginning to get around again. I took ten bottles in all, and now I am all right again and doing my own work. I have six grown-ups to work for, so I have plenty to do. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I think it is good. But I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was used women would be better off. I would not be without it if it cost much more."—Mrs. NELLIE HORN, 28 St. Matthews Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario.

Do you feel broken down, nervous and weak sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition. C

WOMEN STAND COLD BETTER THAN MEN

That women can stand the cold better than men has been proved by leading French men and women swimmers. Choosing the present unusually cold spell with snow on the streets of Paris, they have made several tests there and in the Atlantic on the coast of Brittany. Women won all the tests.

Not being organized in connection with any sporting event they have won little attention, but have proved that women can go into colder water and stay longer than men. This, it is found, is due to the fine texture of their muscles, to a delicate layer of fat protecting the body and to a better heart action and supply of blood because of arteries being relatively larger in women than in men.

Mlle. Rose Nougaret, without applying any protecting grease, went into the Atlantic swimming comfortably for fifteen minutes in water at the freezing point, whereas none of the men was able to stand more than a few minutes. The men came back blue with cold and wtih their teeth chattering while she was fresh, pink and exhilerated.

The swimmer Bonnet capitulated before his wife in the Seine. He had just won the Christmas swimming cup, but swimming beside his wife on an untimed course he gave up while she was still unaffected. A slight layer of fat was responsible. It was found that he had been unable to throw off body waste in breathing and from the muscles through the circulation.

The tests were arranged because it had been noted during the mid-Summer across-Paris swimming match that sixty youths were exhausted by the cold, while none of the women contestants were affected.

BANK DEPOSIT OF $15.00 GROWS TO LARGE SUM

Father Time, wishing to give a lesson in thrift, today told the following story:—

A little more than 106 years ago, August 16, 1819, a young man strode into the office of the newly opened bank for savings, then a tenant in the building of the New York Institute (formerly the Alma House) in Chambers Street, to open account number 738 with a deposit of $10. A year later he brought in $5 more.

He had been attracted by the announcement of the bank which said it intended "to furnish a secure place of deposit for the savings of mechanics, manufacturers, manual workers, caremen, seamen, laborers; in short, of all who wish to lay up a fund for sickness, for the wants of a family or for old age."

The original depositor presumably provided for old age by other resources, for he never added to or drew against the account, which is today the oldest savings account in the city of New York. He did, however, provide for his family. Should his great grandchildren desire to draw against the original $15 of today, they could do so to the extent of $2,377.45, while is the capital and interest compounded at rates carying from 3½ to 7 per cent. The account now totals 15,849 per cent. of the original investment.

Lewis B. Gawtry, first vice-president of the bank, now at 280 Madison Avenue, withheld the name of the original depositor and heirs, but said the latter were wealthy and kept the account open for sentiment.

A man on his deathbed made a will giving all his property to his wife on condition that she married again. Someone asked him why he made so strange a will.

Said he: "I want to be sure that there will be one man who will be sorry that I am dead."
