The Reason For Genuine Ford Parts

Every car in course of time requires new parts to replace those worn down through long use or damaged through accident, and it is very important to the owner that such new parts should be exactly the same in every detail as the original part built into the car at the factory.

For this reason every authorized Ford Service Station carries a complete stock of genuine Ford parts. These parts are the standard Ford product, exact duplicates of the originals, made from the same materials, on the same machine, in the same factory.

Thus the Ford owner is protected against the menace of spurious parts which by their inferiority might damage his car and jeopardize the occupants.

Use only Genuine Ford Parts

A FEW QUESTIONS FOR SCHOOL TAX PAYERS

April 13, 1926.

Editor of The Kings County Record: Will you please allow me a little space in your valuable paper to ask the School Tax payers of the Town of Sussex a few questions?

Is our Public School Building to be classed as a Theatre? The first of the year the writer advocated the organizing of a Dramatic Club, since then the Sussex Amateur Dramatic Club has been formed, he is not interested in it but to a certain extent.

Posters have been placed in the store windows advertising a play to be presented in the school auditorium for the purpose of equipping the school stage for further attractions.

We would like to know who has the authority to give the so-called Sussex Amateur Dramatic Club leave to present this play in the school auditorium in direct opposition to an established Town Business?

The Imperial Theatre pays a Town License of $50, and a Provincial License of $50, for the purpose of staging entertainments in the Town of Sussex. Is the school auditorium to be had for this purpose of presenting plays without taking out the same licenses that we hold? If this is the case, Sussex will even be without an up-to-date theatre. We have several hundred dollars tied up in stage equipment, laying idle, and if the Dramatic Clubs do not care to take advantage of our excellent stage equipment, we can very quickly dispose of same by sale.

We do not think the person responsible for giving permission to have this play presented in the school auditorium or that the Sussex Amateur Dramatic Club realize that the School Board will have to take out a Town License and a Provincial License the same as we do, if they don't, then what do our licenses amount to?

We would like to emphasize the fact that the use of this building for this purpose is in direct violation of the theatre laws, in that it is seated only with loose chairs and has never passed a theatrical inspection.

The Imperial theatre management was interviewed regarding the staging of this play in the Imperial theatre for the purpose of equipping the school stage for further school attractions only. We did not ask a guarantee, but was willing to stage this play in the Imperial theatre for the above purpose on the following terms: One third of the gross receipts to go towards the equipping of the school stage (for school purposes), one third for the Dramatic Club and one third for the theatre. Could anything be fairer than these terms?

If the play is worth presenting at all isn't a theatre the proper place to stage it, with everything to work with? Everybody knows about the accoustical conditions of the school auditorium and of the loose seating arrangement.

We are always willing to help in any community affair in any way possible. As you no doubt know, the Imperial theatre was operated at a dead loss during the months of January, February and March of this year and the Sussex public have been enjoying some great attractions, according to their own statements.

We do not think we are being treated squarely in the presentation of "It Happened in June" in the school auditorium and ask what the school tax payers are going to do regarding this matter, or are we to state our case before the proper authorities and take action?

In fairness, we ask the Town to see that the school secures the necessary theatre license and in the meantime we will take the matter up with the provincial secretary and the Department of Education.

Does the School Board realize that in the advent of a catastrophe due to a fire or other causes, that they would be liable to the full responsibility, as they are acting in direct opposition to the law?

School Tax Payers! We stand at the foot, who will make the 100 mark and go to the head of the class by answering the above questions first? Or in other words, who will win out in this debating contest? Is a school building or an up-to-date theatre the proper place to stage plays?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space,

E. A. GIVAN,

Imperial Theatre

A (young) School Tax payer who like to continue the theatre business in Sussex, if given a little more encouragement.

PASSING IT ON.

A young girl, in a critical hour of her life, was aided by a Christian woman of tact. "How," she asked her benefactress, "can I ever repay you for this unmeasured kindness to me?" "Don't try," was the prompt reply. "Just 'pass it on' to some one else in need of help. If you pay me, the deal would be closed. 'Pass it on' with the understanding that the one you help shall do the same. Thus each helper becomes a link in an endless chain, whose good works only Eternity can reveal."

The woman who aided this homeless girl shall be known in this sketch as Anna Mary. It seems that the pathway of life that she trod must have been holy ground.

When the last of her possessions, including the fine furnishings of her home, had passed into other hands she smiled encouragingly upon her five dependent children, saying: "It is not so bad as it might be. Of course, it is convenient to live in this little cottage, and uncomfortable to be poor. But it is no disgrace. I still have my children, and you have your mother."

This tenderly reared woman, who at the time of her widowhood, had never earned a dollar, became through courageously, perseveringly, facing life's sterner realities, a competent breadwinner.

She assiduously implanted in her children's hearts the truth that "the soul that sinneth, it shall die"; that principle, honor, truth and perseverance are essential weapons in the warfare of life, that the humblest toil is honorable, that it is that which soils the soul, rather than the body, that contaminates. Unselfishness was the keynote of Anna Mary's life. The poor, the incompetent, the unfortunate girl or boy who had made a misstep, all found in her a wise counselor—a friend. She was ever a power for good in the community; always willing to watch at the bedside of the sick. No one ever was turned hungry from her door.

When unable to clothe her children suitably for Sunday School, she would gather them round her on Sunday while she read from the dear old Book its story of God's love, the poetry of the Psalms, the historical truths handed down from the beginning of time. From her the children learned how much great literature is founded on the Bible, and they early became familiar with its teachings. When they were tempted to hasty or selfish acts, her quiet "What does God's word say?" halted them.

Men of all classes lifted their hats in deference in passing Anna Mary. Little children smiled up into her face. Who can estimate her influence over those young people, now scattered in many parts of the world, even though her own sphere was limited to the little town where she lived—Youth's Companion.

"I never knew Jones had twins?" "My dear, he married a telephone girl, and of course she gave him the wrong number."

"Ar, sir," said Mrs. Higgins plaintively to the vicar, "since my 'usband 'ad two parallel strokes, we 'ave'n't been able to make both ends meet."
