Crew of "Lone Trail" Sealer Learn to "Rub Away" Their Colds

Acting Doctor of the "Viking" tells how Simple Vaporizing Salve Rubbed on Outside, Kept Newfoundland Seal-Hunters fit on Hard Cruise.

Hardy men are they who go "down to the sea in ships" for the annual seal-hunt. And yet, exposed as they are to the elements, they are bound to develop some cold troubles.

While the other vessels of the Newfoundland sealing fleet head northward, the "Viking" sails alone to the West. She must depend upon her own resources for the health and safety of her crew. J. Kavanagh, of St. John's, who acted as Medical Officer on last spring's cruise, tells an interesting story of how they checked their colds.

"In all my experience," he declares, "I never found anything for cold troubles to equal Vicks VapoRub. I had a good many occasions to use it on the Viking this spring, as the men would often catch cold from getting overheated and allowing their clothes to dry on them.

"Among those who had bad colds and bronchial troubles were George Richards of Bareneed, Robert Morgan of Clark's Beach, Augustus Ralph of Port de Grave, and William Delaney of Spaniard's Bay. In every case, we just rubbed on Vicks and it brought quick relief, enabling the men to continue their work."

Applied on the throat and chest, Vicks not only acts through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, but like a modern vapor-lamp as well, because its ingredients are vaporized by the body-heat and breathed right into the air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the breathing.

On the same cruise, Bosun Hall, of St. John's, also found Vicks most effective for a badly gathered foot, which he cured after a few applications of this modern ointment. In surface inflammations such as this, it is the healing, antiseptic properties of Vicks that makes it so helpful.

CARD OF THANKS

George R. Smith and family wish to thank their many friends of Lower Millstream, Searsville and Belleisle for their kindness shown them in their sad bereavement.

GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Scott hereby gratefully acknowledge their appreciation of the esteem and goodwill of their many friends in Apohaqui, as expressed on the 8th inst, in the form of a generous cash donation.

We feel sure that the "Giver of all Good Gifts" has prompted this kind act of Christian Charity on the part of so many. We have been greatly blessed, and while we cannot repay, we rely upon Him who has said "It is more blessed to give than to receive," to verify that promise to each one. May the cup of blessing be filled to overflowing.

Sydney Briggs desires through the columns of the Record to express his sincere thanks, to his many friends, for kindness and sympathy extended in his recent sad bereavement. He particularly wishes to note his appreciation of the extreme thoughtfulness of Dr. D. H. McAlister and Mrs. McAlister.

Plans have been prepared by the Provincial Department of Public Works for the construction of the Crooked Creek bridge, in the Parish of Hopewell, Albert county, and the Five Point bridge, over Little River, in the Parish of Coverdale, Albert county. The Crooked Creek bridge is located on the main trunk road between Albert and Alma, while the latter is located on the Coverdale road.

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, which arrived at New York, Friday, two days late, from Cherbourg and Southampton, suffering wave estimated at [illegible] Sunday smashed the liner head-on during Atlantic storm. The baggage aboard was damaged to the extent of $20,000, it was stated, but nobody was injured by the terrific impact which threw persons from their berths or chairs. "I've been at sea for thirty-five years," said Captain E. Griffith, "but this is the worst I've ever experienced. It was seven kinds of hell." When the wave struck the vessel, persons who were in bed started to dress, it was stated by passengers and members of the crew, others in public rooms reached for life-preservers. They believed that an iceberg or another boat had been struck. A few seconds later water literally poured through the ship. Then it became apparent a giant wave had smashed the big liner headon.

Premier Mussolini's speech in the Chamber of Deputies in which he warned Germany against the anti-Italian campaign carried on in the Reich was characterized frequently in political circles, Sunday, as almost equivalent to the declaration of war against Germany. All day long Mussolini's words of warning were discussed and his speech was declared to be one of the best, certainly the most significant of his international statements, since the Corfu incident.

Believed to have been brutally slain by moonshiners in a liquor raid, the bodies of Constable Omar Rockett, 48, and John Balke, 24, his assistant, were found Saturday buried in a grave on a farm three miles east of Granite City, Ill. They had been missing a week. Both men had been shot and Rockett's skull was crushed. Their bodies had been buried together in a grave four feet deep, about 1,000 yards from an abandoned farm house in which was found a huge whiskey distillery and fifty thousand gallons of mash. Each body bore the mark of one bullet would in the head.

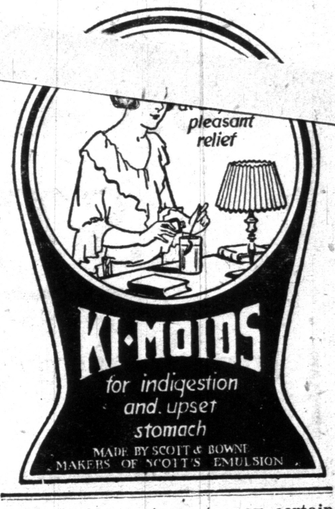

Years of poverty ended in a measure of happiness Monday for Mrs. W. Hutton, of Comfrey, Mass., 75 years old and blind, when a cedar chest containing $20,000 in currency, bonds and other papers of which she had no knowledge, was found in her home. The death of Mrs. Hutton's husband last Sunday resulted in the uncovering of the small fortune which he apparently had hoarded for years without telling his wife.

On the night of Feb. 4th the entire crew of 8 men was rescued from the schooner Kenwood, Halifax for Boston, which went ashore on Rocky Cedar Point in a blinding snowstorm.
