AIDING EMIGRATION

Many quips and jokes are passed about Scotsmen being penurious, but such is not always the case, as is indicated in a letter by the Glasgow correspondent to the Montreal Star, who says:

"An Aberdeenshire Scot has taken a very practical way of showing his faith in emigration as a cure for some of the industrial ills to which this country is heir. He is a certain Mr. Lybourn Davidson, who, although settled down on about 7,000 acres and in a fine mansion house in the Garley District of Aberdeen, spent most of his life in the East, where he was a pioneer in the rubber industry. He has been in every part of the British Empire, and has seen Scotsmen working under all sorts of conditions.

As a result of his own experience, he believes that he can do no better service to his homeland than that of helping Scottish people to enjoy happy lives in Overseas Dominions under the British flag. In these Dominions, he says, the conditions of life are immensely superior to anything he knows of in Scotland. So he has given 30,000 pounds for the promotion of schemes of emigration, and there are appeals to others to go and do likewise. The money will not be spent in sending single individuals anywhere, but in the development of general schemes, and it is suggested that some of it might be used for promoting a system of training which would make young emigrants capable of taking their places at once in the agricultural or general industrial life of any Dominion to which they might go. But 30,000 pounds, though a decent sum, will not go very far in big emigration and training schemes. That is why more is called for. If more is forthcoming, and if Government action in the same direction is continued there will be no end of people going to Canada. Instead of having to pay fares, emigrants will be getting free passages and will be paid, and humbly thanked for so kindly obliging by going out. This is what it seems to be coming to."

PREPARING FOR WAR

While the world would much prefer to accept the belief which is said to be entertained "in responsible quarters in Rome" that Mussolini's ambitions will not carry him so far as to drive Italy into a war of aggression, some explanation is required to reconcile this optimistic view with other reports which are coming from Italy. Opposed to this belief is the evidence of the correspondent of the London Daily Herald, who declares that Italy is busily engaged in military preparations and that the Italian army staff has received urgent instructions "to have everything in readiness for mobilization by June. There is also to be taken into consideration Mussolini's own recent declaration: "Europe must peacefully grant us some colonies or we will, sooner or later, take them by force. Fascism must cross the frontiers of Italy, or perish like an unfilled promise."

EXPECTANT
MOTHERS

Read Mrs. Menard's Letter. Her Experience May Help

Chatham, Ontario.—"I want to tell you how much good your medicine has done me. Before my baby came I felt so weak and run-down that I could hardly do my work. My head ached continually and I was so discouraged that I could cry from morning till night. I had another baby just one year and a half old and it gave me a lot to do. So I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I had read so much about it in the little books. I found a difference right away as my head was relieved and my tired feelings gone. My sister had been doing my washing and she might set me back if I started to do it again. It sure did help me and I had taken just two bottles when my baby came. He is a fine big boy, now nearly five months old. I am taking your medicine again and I am able to do my work all by myself now. I always recommend the Vegetable Compound to women, and especially to expectant mothers, as I believe they need help at those times."

Hemorrhoids

That Shockingly Painful Affliction

There are few of us who have not suffered from this trouble, but little do we realize that in most cases it is due to our own neglect.

Medical authorities agree that Hemorrhoids (piles) could be largely avoided were one to assist nature by observing nature's laws.

Hemorrhoids are most frequently brought about as a result of constipation. Therefore, assist nature by assuring an easy passage of the waste matter, and this can best be done by the use of Nujol.

Nujol simply softens the waste matter, and thus permits regular, easy elimination, without any overtaxing of the intestinal muscles.

Nujol, the scientific internal lubricant, replaces the lack of nature's lubricant, and obviates the possibility of constipation.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and remember—look for the name "Nujol" in red on both bottle, label, and package.

These different parts of the puzzle do not seem to fit into the same picture. Why should a Mussolini who who not planning a war of aggression—and there is no suggestion of any need for a defensive war—be preparing for the mobilization of the army? What object is to be gained by talking of taking colonies by force, unless he is prepared to go to war to make good his threats? Mussolini conquered his native land and established himself as dictator without bloodshed, but he hardly expects to be able to force his will upon the other nations without meeting resistance.

The need for colonies, as a source of supply for raw materials and as an outlet for her manufactures and her surplus population, is a problem which Italy is facing. Germany was confronted with the same problem before the Great War. Mussolini, knowing how Germany attempted to solve her difficulty and remembering the result, surely would not be tempted to seek the same way out. But if he has no such intentions, he stands convicted of being a colossal bluffer, and there appears to be something more substantial than bluff to Mussolini's aspirations and declarations.

What it all means, and whether it will lead to a puzzle which is keeping the European chancelleries in a ferment. The correct answer is a matter of tremendous importance to them, and they cannot afford to guess at it, and guess incorrectly.

MISGUIDED FERVORS.

Rev. Dr. Charles Fiske, Episcopal Bishop of Central New York, contributes to the current issue of Harper's Magazine a vigorous rebuke to those religious organizations which are busily engaged in attempting the reform of human nature by legislation rather than by Christian teaching. It is the business of the church, he says, to teach rather than to lobby. There is much truth in his article, says an exchange. Many churchmen are wandering far astray in their fervid efforts to cure the ills of the world. It is not only in the mixing of politics and religion, however, that grievous mistakes are being made. In the conduct of their own business—the work of inducing men and women to attend church regularly—they are frequently guilty of great errors in judgment. Comment has been made lately upon the wretchedly bad taste of certain churchmen in Kansas City, Mo., in resorting to the use of slangy advertisements ("Try getting a thrill out of going to church," and that sort of thing to draw young people into the empty pews).

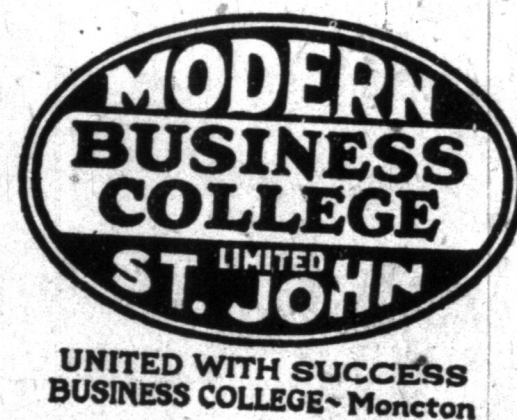

Scott's Emulsion
During Aftermath of
Grippe—Builds Up Strength

FOR AGED BRITISH MEN AND WOMEN

The activities of the various Chapters throughout the world cover many phases of patriotic endeavor. A touching instance of the value of this organization was noted in a report of a recent meeting of the National Executive of Canadian Chapters in Toronto. During the proceedings an interesting letter, says a correspondent, was received from the President of the Daughters of the British Empire in the State of Illinois, in which were gratifying accounts of the success of the Home for Aged British Men and Women in the United States, established by the Daughters of the British Empire, now resident in the United States. It is a beautiful accomplishment and will go a long way in abolishing the loneliness that in old age overtakes those far from the homes of their fathers and in a strange land. It may have been a kindly and a friendly land, but with years comes the inevitable longing for the scenes of one's youth, and it is impossible not to think upon the early surroundings, the familiar sights and sounds of childhood. This Home, prepared and maintained for them exclusively by their own countrywomen, cannot fail to be a very haven of rest and happiness. The letter of the President, Mrs. Cooke Adams, tells also that early in March of the present year the Home was visited by the British Ambassador to the United States, Sir Esme Howard, and his wife, Lady Howard, who were "immensely impressed with the magnitude of the undertaking sponsored by the Daughters of the Empire, and charmed with the beauty of this spacious retreat for aged British men and women." In these days, when the effort is generally on behalf of the young, and when, apparently, the whole disposition is to bring about a happy childhood, this practical and old and lonely is especially worthy of commendation.
