"We regret that we cannot, after deliberation, justify the conduct of Captain Mackenzie. A naval command on the high seas, we admit, embraces greater powers and more prompt decision than a command on shore, but it must have been an extreme case indeed which would justify a process so summary, and when within a few days sail of the United States. We can readily point out such a case. Had there been an actual mutiny—had part of the crew risen in arms, and attempted to take command of the ship, and had been overcome in the struggle, then the ringleaders might have been promptly executed, to strike terror into the rest of the crew. But here was a plot concocted by a mere boy!—a bad boy it is true—the mere details or outlines sketched, and a few persons seduced by him to unite in the project—no blood had been shed—the guilty parties had been secured—there were sufficient good men and true on board the brig to have brought her into port and handed the parties over to the justice of their country. There was no Court Marshal held, because the law requires five officers to constitute a Court Marshal—it was the mere opinion that they merited death, and they were promptly executed. —New York Union:

IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.—We are informed by a private letter from Washington, that an express has arrived there from the Pacific, bringing intelligence that the British government has sent a large fleet into the Pacific. The object has not as yet transpired, whether the destination be Calefornia, the Gregon, or the Society Islands. It will be recollected that we published a letter about a year ago, (written to us from London by Gen. Duff Green,) in which it was predicted that Lord Ashburton would refuse to settle the Western boundary. We shall refer to this letter again—perhaps republish it.

In the Globe of Thursday last, we find the following extract from a letter, dated

"United States Ship Dale,
Bay of Panama, Sept. 23, 1842.

Sir:—The United States Ship Dale, Thomas A. Dornin, Esq., commander, arrived in this Bay on the 21st inst. from Callao, (the port of Lima) in Peru. Lieuts Wm. Green, Burritt Shepard, and Alberto Griffiths, are passengers on board, on their way to the United States—the former as bearer of despatches, and the two latter on account of ill health.

We sailed from Callao 7th instant, in company with the frigate United States, (Com. Jones's flag ship) and sloop of [...]ne; but we separated from them, [...] up for this port on the 7th day [...]st previously to our departure two ships of war (the razee Dublin, [...] of war Champion) sailed thenee [...] service! Of course, this mis[...]movement of Admiral Thomas [...] a thousand conjectures as to his [...]on; the most probable, of which [...]o be, that he was bound for the [...]st coast of Mexico, where, it is [...]l, a British station is to be loca[...] accordance with a secret convention between the Mexican and English Governments! And it is among the on-dits in the squadron, that the frigate, the Cyane, and the Dale, are to rendezvous as soon as practicable at Monterey, to keep an eye on John Bull's movements in that quarter.

The establishment of a British post at that point would be so hazardous to the peace and security of our frontier, and so manifestly detrimental to the interests of the whole Union, that Com. Jones doubtless conceives he would be derelict in the discharge of the responsible powers vested in him by the government, were he not to use every means within the scope of his command to frustrate, if possible, a project fraught with so much danger to the western border of our territories. It is certain we are to make a very brief stay here, and that we are to sail hence for Monterey, where we expect to meet the frigate and the Cyane."—Portland Tribune

From the Leeds Mercury.

PROSPECTS OF TRADE WITH CHINA.

Already the news of the peace between England and China has operated favourably upon our markets, giving a most important stimulus to the markets of Manchester and Liverpool, and a much improved feeling to that of Leeds. The new ports opened, the respect which the Imperial Government will be likely to show to British trade, the decidedly commercial character of the Chinese people, their immence numbers, and the much nearer approach which our merchants will now be able to make to the northern and colder parts of China, where woollens are worn, are all circumstances that must operate to increase the export of British manufactures to that country.

But whilst this confidence may be reasonably entertained, our merchants and manufacturers would do well to act with caution. There has scarcely ever been a new opening like this afforded to trade, that it has not in a few months been terribly overdone, and the exporters have glutted the market, and thus thrown away their property. It was thus on the reopening of the American trade after the revolutionary war—on the opening of the Brazilian and Buenos Ayrean markets to England—on the opening of the European markets at the peace of 1814—and on the opening of the Indian markets at the abolition of the East India Company's monopoly. It ought to be known that there is at the present moment a year's stock of all kinds of British manufactures on hand in China. During the last twelve months very few goods have been sold in that market, and the latest commercial letters represent prices as exceedingly low. We state these facts on the authority of a gentleman engaged in the trade, whose character is a guarantee for the accuracy of his statements. We also know that in this country there are large stocks in the hands of the manufacturers of goods intended for the China market; and as it is certain that those goods will be sent off by the first opportunity, there will be the less room for those who may come after them.

It may farther be useful to manufacturers and merchants to know that the Chinese are the most particular people in the world as to the colours, the making up, the widths, lengths, and weights of the goods they purchase. There is not a house in the trade which has not bought its knowledge of Chinese tastes and habits by dear experience.

Our Bradford friends may not all be aware that the Chinese have religious or quasi religious scruples against weariug fabrics which are made of two different materials, as wool and cotton. We know of a case in which a lot of worsted goods with cotton warps were sent to Canton, and were sold on arrival by the pattern card; but on the day following the sale was cancelled by the Hong merchants, who alleged that the goods were made of animal and vegetable substances mixed, which was contrary to nature as well as to their religion. In this respect the Chinese act on the principle laid down in the Mosaic law, "Neither shall a garment mingled of linen and woolen come upon thee."—Levit. xix. 19. It may be relied on, that mixed fabrics will not sell in China.

The kind of woollens principally sent to China are ladies' cloths and medium cloths—fabrics which employ a large proportion of labour with a small proportion of wool. The district in which they are chiefly made comprises the villages of Rawdon, Yeadon, Guisely, Idle, Shipley, and Eccleshill, and they come to the Leeds market. The market at our White Cloth Hall, on Tuesday last, was the best that has been known for two years.

In cottons, the articles principally sent to China is shirtings, of which the largest sales ever known were made in Canton, just before the departure of the last mail but one; and a degree of improvement had in consequence been felt in the trade even prior to the news of the peace. Cotton twist is also sent in large quantities. It is anticipated that as the cottons of England have superseded those of India, so they will supersede those of China, as soon as they can be brought into competition with them. An immense demand may therefore arise for cotton manufactures.

The principal difficulty of our merchants will be in obtaining returns from China. The only large imports from that country now are in tea and silk.—Probably other articles may be discovered in the northern parts of China; and it is said that samples of tobacco of very superior quality have been shown in the London market.

The treaty of peace with China will leave disposable a large land and sea force. A private letter from Bombay mentions that Sir Henry Pottinger had proposed to take advantage of those means, and to proceed to Japan and demand satisfaction for the long-continued insults we have endured from the Emperor, and to require admission for our ships to those islands on terms of mutual mercantile advantage. We cannot say how far our correspondent's information may prove correct, but we have heard that this is not the first time the matter has been proposed to Government. The cruelties exercised against the crews of vessels wrecked on these islands demand that some steps should be taken; and no more favourable opportunity has been afforded than the presence of our ships and troops in China, from which they can easily be directed upon Jaddo, and other ports of Japan.—Naval and Military Gazette.

Interesting to Surveyors.—Deeming the following description of a new instrument to facilitate and render more correct, than those in use do, the business of the Surveyor, we copy it for their information.

New Invention—A new surveying instrument has been invented by Mr. Francis D. Murphy, of Newark, N. J., which it is thought will supersede these now in use. The 'New American Circumferenter,' which is the name given to the instrument, is designed to measure accurately any horizontal angle in in any visible direction, independant of the magnetic needle, the inner graduated ring, and without the necessity of moving the compass round on the tripod, as with the ordinary instruments in use; thereby obviating the inaccuracies inseparable from the use of the common surveying compasses.—Halifax Day Star.

Bermuda, Dec 10. Ar. H. M. Line of Battle Ship Illustrious, Captain J. Erskine, bearing the flag of Vice Admiral Sir Charles Adams, K. C. B. Sir Charles and the members of his family landed on the following day in good health. The Illustrious had a very stormy passage, on the 27th in a gale from the North, she shipped such a quantity of water that it was found necessary to scuttle the lower deck and work the chain pumps. She lost two boats, and received serious damage in her sails.

New Mail Arrangement. The Eastern Mail will close at Halifax from and after Friday next, on Monday and Friday nights at nine o'clock, and the western mails at the same hour. The Deputy Post Master General deserves much credit for this arrangement, whereby persons will be enabled to answer their letters by the respective mails, in a few hours after their arrival.—Halifax Morning Post.

We have just heard from Hammond River, where the poll for King's County was held yesterday. The following was the state of the poll at its close yesterday.

Freeze,	488,	McLeod,	314,
Earl,	345,	Vail,	271,
Pywell,	88.

It was currently reported that Pyewell would resign to day in favour of McLeod and it was supposed the contest between that gentleman and Dr. Earl, would be a close one.

A Conundrum. Why is the Sheriff of King's County like Pharaoh? D'ye give it up? Ans. Because he refused to let Moses go.

BUNTING'S VETERINARY TABLET!

Being a Synopsis of the Diseases of Horses and Cattle, with their cause, Symptoms, and cure.

BY PETER BUNTING,

Veterinary Practitioner, Saint John, New-Brunswick.

THE Subscriber in offering this work to the generous and discerning public, would respectfully intimate, that it combines the experience of the most eminent veterinary surgeons and practitioners in Europe, and that the whole have been carefully revised by the author; and such alterations made therein as the peculiarity of the climate of New Brunswick required; for, notwithstanding the perfection to which the art has arrived in Great Britain, there are diseases known there, which have never been known to exist here, and vice versa; consequently an English Veterinary Tablet, would be found to be very imperfect indeed in North America. He would also beg leave to assure Farmers, and others, that with his Tablet before them, very few cases of disease would ever occur, which they would not be enabled to treat with perfect safety, by following the instructions there laid down.

For Sale, neatly bound (till further arrangements are made) at Mr. M'Millan's, Phœnix Book Store, Prince William Street; and by the proprietor, Sydney Street, near St. Malichi's Church, St. John, N. B.—Price 2s. 6d.
