

Governor's measures, responsibility, has been...
But why, it will be asked, is this measure lost? (For lost it certainly is, although never introduced in the present House.) We reply, by the conduct of His Excellency and his advisers, and by the mania of a small but desperate, as well as despicable faction, who, for interested motives are vociferating for Responsible Government.

The members of the House of Assembly are the representatives of the people and as such—and justly too—are jealous of their privileges; had the initiation of money grants come before the House, unconnected with any other measure, we opine its fate would have been very different, but the members had been told out of door that Responsible Government would be forced on them during the present session, and they are afraid this question is a part of the contemplated change—the point of wedge, which if allowed to enter will be driven home.—We repeat that the responsible, grasping after an ignis fatuus, have prevented that from taking place which might have been beneficial.

We allude too to the conduct of the Executive; it is this:—On the eve of a general election the Governor re-published Lord John Russell's circular on "Responsible Government," thereby not only giving an intimation of his own political bias, but significantly warning the subordinates of Government to support men in favour of his theories. He then issued circulars to the magistrates of different Counties, requiring information respecting roads, schools, &c., together with the amount of Legislative aid required in their particular districts; thus taking upon himself the duties of the representatives, or to say the least, acting upon the Initiation Bill before it became a law. He then, by a notice in the Royal Gazette, directed all petitions praying for Legislative aid, to be forwarded to him before the opening of the session; a most extraordinary measure surely, and if any person complied with it he must have been a fool for his pains, as a petition conveyed in such a manner will never be received by the Representative Body. He next published part of Lord Stanley's despatch and suppressed the rest; a mutilation we believe unprecedented: He then recommended a schedule of duties to the consideration of the Lower House, which they voted to be a breach of privilege. And to cap the climax he withdrew all licences from Schoolmasters throughout the Province, although an Act existed that no person who taught a school without a licence shall receive any pecuniary aid from the Legislature; thus rendering nugatory an Act which had passed both bodies of the Legislature, and received the Royal assent!

After this who will be surprised that the House of Assembly are jealous of their rights? or who can blame them for their conduct? We candidly confess we cannot, although we hope they will introduce some substitute for the initiation which may embrace both the wishes and welfare of the inhabitants of this Loyal Province.

On Monday evening, we witnessed the performance of the Dumb Girl of Genoa, and The Golden Farmer, by the Amateurs, to a large and fashionable audience.

The play of the Dumb Girl was ably sustained throughout. In the after-piece was some excellent acting; the gentleman who personated the character of the farmer created quite a sympathy with the audience, as we observed many of the fair sex were affected even to tears.

The parts of Jenny Twitcher, and Harry Hammer were both admirably sustained, as the audience testified by their irresistible burst of laughter and repeated plaudits.—Old Mobb was played true to nature.

FIRE AT NORTON.—On the evening of Friday the 24th inst., the Grist and Oat Mill belonging to Mr. Joseph Stewart, was totally consumed by fire. This Mill was a superior establishment, and had recently been put into a state of complete repair. This misfortune will subject the surrounding settlers to great inconvenience for some time, and the property not being insured, the loss must fall heavily upon Mr. Stewart, who, as a miller, has given great satisfaction to his neighbours, by whom he is generally respected.—Observer.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—On Wednesday evening, and last evening, Mr. Douglas Hughes lectured on Painting. The subject will be resumed on Friday evening next.

Mr. W. E. Twynan lectured on Architecture, on Friday evening last.

Dr. Paterson will lecture on Monday evening next, on the Laws of Vision.

ROBBERY.—On Saturday night last, the Store of Messrs. D. & F. Leavitt, in printing sums for different purposes, when no funds were in the treasury to meet their drafts.

ROBBERY.—On Saturday night last, the Store of Messrs. D. & F. Leavitt, in

Nelson-street, was broken open, and ten bags of flour were carried away by the robbers, who entered through the window of the door, the shutter being forced in.—The thieves at first attempted to force open the door, but being unable to accomplish this, they broke through the shutter, demolishing the glass. It was reported that a considerable sum of money remained in the drawers untouched. Such "honour among thieves," however, is of rare occurrence, and very naturally excited some surprise; but we are informed that this was not the case, no money having been left in the Store.—As the robbers did not effect their object without some difficulty, and causing considerable noise, it is a matter of astonishment that they were not overheard by the Watch, especially when we consider that they were almost within sight of the Watch House.—New Brunswick.

A private soldier, named Joseph Pearson, of the 52d Regiment, stationed in this Garrison, was drowned in the river on the morning of the 22d inst. Woodstock Telegraph.

FRENCH STEAMERS.—The line of French mail packets to cross the Atlantic is expected to commence running next June. The packets will be 14 in number; they are built to carry 40 guns each, and will belong to the French Government. The port selected for the packet station is Cherbourg. Four of the steamers will run to and from New York; and the rest will convey mails and passengers to and from France and the West Indies, Brazil, and Gulf of Mexico. The fares for passengers will be considerably less than the charges of the English West India Mail Steam packet Company. The whole of the postage paid to the English Government for the correspondence between France and the southern United States and the French West Indies will be lost to England after the French Atlantic steamers have commenced running. A vessel has already been dispatched to make necessary arrangements at the various stations and routes selected for the packets.—Recorder.

EARTHQUAKE AT SEA.—A most remarkable phenomenon occurred on the passage of Her Majesty's sloop-of-war Ringdove from Barbadoes to this port, where she arrived on Monday last.—From the description by one of the officers we learn that at 10, 30 A.M. on the 8th inst. the R. was suddenly taken with so much violence that all on board supposed her masts and timbers would be reached asunder. The shock lasted for about three minutes, and was accompanied by a noise similar to that which is occasioned by getting up the steam of a large steamer. These circumstances were undoubtedly produced by the shock of an earthquake. At the time of the shock the Ringdove was in lat 21d 46m 44s N. Long 62d 54m 46s W. and no bottom could be touched with the hand leads which were instantaneously used.—Halifax Recorder.

DISASTER AT TROY.—The Troy Whig gives the following account of a singular slide of earth in that city, on the 17th inst. by which a number of persons were buried in the ruins, and fifteen to twenty lives lost.

On Friday afternoon, at half past 3 o'clock, a portion of the hill, east of the city slid off, and overwhelmed nine houses; all of them, with one exception, occupied by families. At the time of the slide, several men with teams were engaged at the bottom of the bank, carrying off earth; and narrowly escaped with their lives. Not so, however, the unfortunate inmates of the dwellings; nearly all of whom were buried under the mass of clay, which covered their houses in several instances to the depth of five or six feet, crushing some to atoms, and removing others bodily for the space of several yards.

The distance from the commencement of the slide to the outer edge of the deposit of earth which it left, is not far from 200 yards. The earth having been carried more than 500 feet over a declivity, after it reached the bottom of the hill. The soil being a remarkably uncious blue clay is doubtless the cause of the extraordinary space which the slide covered.

The centre of the slide was then precipitated upon the head of Washington street, overwhelming the buildings on both side of said street, with the exception of one on the corner of Washington and Hill streets, which was partially destroyed. The number of houses destroyed on Washington street was eight. The slide passed down Washington to Hill street, which it crossed, and proceeding a few yards beyond it, was finally arrested.

Vigorous preparations were immediately commenced for removing the earth above the ruins of the houses which were overwhelmed. The work of excavation was prosecuted without intermission for several hours, and the following dead bodies taken out.

Mrs. Mathew Grenin and child; Mrs. William Brazell and two children, Michael Dunn; Thomas Kelly and wife; Mrs. Kilfoile; Edward Dumbleton, a lad; a child of James Caldwell; two children of D. Day; Miss Ann Wilber; a child of Mrs. Gardner; Miss Jane Stanford—in all fifteen.

The following persons were taken out alive:

A child of Z. P. Birdall; Jane McCollum Mr. Gardner; two children, names not ascertained; James Barnett and wife; Mrs. Dun, leg broken; John Clark not expected to survive; Maria Denicker, Mrs. David D. Day and two children, one in the morning arms; Mrs. Caldwell and two children escaped through the chimney, one of Mr. Birdsell's and another child had not been found.

The field of the disaster is described as presenting a most interesting and distressing scene—neighbours and friends, searching those who were suddenly buried beneath the earth, and in most instances parents for their children.—Boston Daily Advertiser.

BUNTING'S VETERINARY TABLET!

Being a Synopsis of the Diseases of Horses and Cattle, with their cause, Symptoms, and cure.

BY PETER BUNTING,
Veterinary Practitioner, Saint John, New Brunswick.

THE Subscriber in offering this work to the generous and discerning public, would respectfully intimate, that it combines the experience of the most eminent veterinary surgeons and practitioners in Europe, and that the whole have been carefully revised by the author; and such alterations made therein as the peculiarity of the climate of New Brunswick required; for, notwithstanding the perfection to which the art has arrived in Great Britain, there are diseases known there, which have never been known to exist here, and vice versa; consequently an English Veterinary Tablet, would be found to be very imperfect indeed in North America. He would also beg leave to assure Farmers, and others, that with his Tablet before them, very few cases of disease would ever occur, which they would not be enabled to treat with perfect safety, by following the instructions there laid down.

For Sale, neatly bound (till further arrangements are made) at Mr. McMillan's, Phoenix Book Store, Prince William Street; and by the proprietor, Sydney Street, near St. Malachi's Church, St. John, N. B.—Price 2s. 6d.
