men Prefer Blondes because "she is a brunette". Margie Morrison, another negative defender, announced that the resolution was foolish "Don't all men like the dark?" quote she.

Marg Fraser in referring to the book "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes", pointed out that the gentleman who wrote it was expressing the opinion of thousands of men. But imagine her embarrassment when all her arguments went pfft! when Bernice Gunn reminded her that the book had been written by a brunette with a sense of humor.

After a long, drawn-out consultation, the three blonde judges, Grace Olts, Kay Wetmore and Marion Morrison announced, with tears in their eyes that the decision went to the Negatives.

A sing-song followed and after delightful refreshments the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. C. C. Jones and Mrs. John Stephens were guests of honor for the evening and expressed themselves as having enjoyed the proceedings immensely.

him to understand, criticize, and adapt himself to the social, political and economic organization in which he lives."

Essential to this attitude of mind are tolerance and acceptance. The first quality will enable him to debate without prejudice the opinions of others and hence gain anything of value in them. The second quality for any competent criticism, for a man cannot see flaws and weaknesses in things he accepts unquestioningly as true.

Mr. Woods then discussed several problems in education, such as who should control education, what should be taught, and how it should be taught. Feeling that the aim of education was development of the individual, he came to the conclusion that the state should equip the individual with the necessary mental attitude to enable him to make the best possible use of the total knowledge of humanity; acquire the individual with the sources of past and contemporary thought; and encourage him to treasure his natural inclinations along some line of study and endeavor.

The reading of Mr. Woods' paper was followed by an open discussion among the members of the society. Refreshments were served under the convenorship of Miss Doris Bayley. The president, H. Campbell Creighton was in the chair.

DAVE CAUGHEY

from Alan Glenning in the Semifinals.

The finals match, by far the most closely contested and exciting his second College Championship. Bob Likely, stepping into the place held by his elder brother last year, proved a worthy successor and played sparkling golf the whole way, but could not quite match the uncanny approach shots as played by Coughy onto the rough temporary greens. Coughy led, two up, at the turn and after winning the eleventh, lost the thirteenth and fourteenth, he tied the next but took the sixteenth to win three up and two to go. Both players handed in a score of 85, a very fine score, considering the condition of the course this time of year.

The week-end eliminations in the college tournament are as follows:

Quarter Finals

Andy Likely defeated Art Odell, 3 and 2.

Bob Likely defeated Doug Gemroy 1 up.

Alan Glenning defeated Ken Bailey 2 and 1.

Semi Finals

Bob Likely defeated Alan Glennie 2 and 1.

David Coughy defeated Andy Likely 6 and 4.
