PERFECT MAPLE LEAF

The most beautiful maple leaf, prize winner in the nationwide competition conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway, was submitted by Mrs. C. McConnell, Fredericton R. No. 3, York County, New Brunswick. It has a flare of autumn coloring ranging from light yellow to deep blood red, and its perfect symmetry and form won it distinction in competition with 10,000 other beautiful leaves, submitted by enthusiastic Canadians from Coast to Coast. The leaf, a thing of sheer beauty, was selected by such outstanding artists as C. W. Simpson, R.C.A., R. W. Pilot, R.C.A., and James Crockett.

In the largest leaf phase of the competition, six-year-old Bobby Hume, of Revelstoke, B.C., made an astonishing win with a leaf showing an area of 222 square inches.

The success which greeted the original competition this year has encouraged Canadian Pacific officials to plan for another competition on a larger and more comprehensive scale next fall.

The Professor Who Became A Lord

by Dr. Oscar Watson

LIKE the Brunswickan, the Columbia Alumni News is asking the alumni to contribute to its columns personal sketches and memories of the old days. In response to such a request, Viscount Exmouth, of England, an alumnus, who was an instructor, and later Professor of Chemistry at Columbia, in New York, tells humorously of his new sphere of action in the House of Lords. It is so typical of the man and his human nature that you might like to scan a couple of paragraphs. He comments in this way:—

"You may know that through my father (a citizen of the United States), who succeeded to the title at the age of 96, I inherited (thanks to a fine old Admiral, who succeeded Nelson in command of the Mediterranean and fought his way without family or wealth to back him, from a midshipman to Vice-Admiral of England), a very fair outfit of titles. Indeed, my full name nowadays, if some idiot wanted to throw it at me, would run as follows: The Right Honorable Sir Charles E. Pellew, Baronet of Trevocry, Baron Exmouth and Viscount Exmouth. But some of my old friends at the Columbia University Club just before I left the United States might call me 'Prof', or, if they preferred, 'Vike'."

That is Charlie Pellew all over. He had a special sense of humor. He was an Instructor at the College of Physicians and Surgeons when I was a student there and he was known affectionately as "Charlie". He was a jovial man and a good teacher, bubbling over most of the time. His sense of humor was at its best when, after he had extracted $5 from each of the students for actual and possible breakage in the laboratory, he would return to them at the
