

ROUGE ET NOIR

Scoop by "Snoop"

Hi guys 'n gals! How'd the week-end go? Pretty good from my point of view. Never saw or heard so much dirt, scandal and slush in all my life. When I think of some of it—gosh, I'm still blushing!

So Molesworth finally got himself a woman—with interest, too.

Four dates in one evening—everything was Jake last night but is it Wright to cut out the Air Force?

Ah, let me have just two steps—1, 2, cut please. Bud doesn't seem to have Doc's technique.

What have you Be(e)n doing? Granted you had a good time but I thought you were his Fran.

Gals sold their garters—collegians flocked the place—Bill recited—and forgot—at the old Rat Race.

Uffie seemed to think the dance last night was o-Kay! That goes for Dave, too.

Those five Senior hunters (?) Tender-hearted Allie to the rescue of the poor little wabbit at the mercy of those vicious women!

(Continued from Page One) the actual course of study of those wishing to take the air training and would count as a half-term course. Instruction would be given by both members of the University and Airforce personal.

Only students who meet the medical requirements of the R.C.A.F. will undertake the above course of training and they will sign a statement of honourable intention to join the R.C.A.F. at the completion of their training. The administration of such training would be separate from that of the C.O.T.C. All members of such a unit would wear the Airforce uniform.

Dr. MacKenzie said that he expected to hear from Ottawa in the very near future, and that more detailed information of the plan would be given to students when it became available.

Mr. Miller—Pauline's subscription to Collier's—one got out, three got in—my God! he's married!

McGill Frosh

They solicited—and received—scrap of every type and description. Old magazines by the ton, old bottles by the gross, predominated. But scrap metal of various kinds, vital to the war effort, was collected in generous quantities. At one time six sweating freshmen, green ties dangling, heaved on their truck an old gas range. The team which salvaged a three hundred and twenty pound copper heating jacket, deservedly won a prize for efficiency.

One Frosh came back screaming "What luck!" Two old boilers and three bicycles in one block! But he had nothing on others who returned with chairs, sinks and even beds.

At ten o'clock the heavily-laden trucks hauled the scrap to the National Salvage Headquarters Warehouse. The exhausted Freshman Class repaired to the McGill women's residence, where they topped off the evening with two hours dancing. The drive was such a success that there are rumors of another in the near future. Even the freshmen are looking forward to it!

(Continued from Page One) place on November 15 and 16 and will be made up of students from many American and Canadian Universities.

Regarding the Club's program for the coming year, President Rowan said that it shall probably continue along the same lines as in the past year. That is having distinguished guest speakers address the club whenever possible and supplementing these addresses with informal discussions by the members of the Club.

College Night

(Continued from Page One) ing, make-up, lighting and staging are just as important to the success of a play as the acting.

A reading committee consisting of Colin Mackay, Frances Murray, Jean Ramsay, Sheila Lemont, Eileen Wright, Don Corringham, was appointed. After a general discussion on plays and directors, a tentative date was set for the play, November twenty-fourth, and the meeting adjourned.

Dr de Merten

(Continued from Page One) society that it is not so much argument alone that convinces an audience, but more so the manner in which the argument is put across. He included in his address valuable hints that public speakers must keep in mind and put into practice if they are to be successful.

The two main items of business at the meeting were, the annual debate against the Delta Rho, and the approaching trial debates for the contests with Bates College and St. Francis Xavier. It was decided to leave the arrangements for the former with the executive and that the date of the trial debates would be in approximately three weeks.

Frosh Elect

The Vice-President of the Freshman Class is by tradition, the President of the Freshettes. Earlier in the week Betty Page had been elected to this latter office and automatically took over the duties of Vice-President.

Seven Scholarships

UNB Faculty

Other members of the faculty when asked to give their opinions on this question all appeared in favour of the establishment of such a day. Here is what Dr. Bailey, head of the Department of History had to say on the subject:

"I heartily approve of the idea of having a Founders' Day, and also think that the 12th of February a most suitable day since it comes in the middle of a term. I believe we should have a Founders' Day because it would serve to bring to mind and focus upon our attention the ideal for the realization of which this University was founded. By that ideal I mean the dominant idea that inspires the democratic way of life. The purpose of the University was and is to ensure an enlightened public opinion without which the democratic process is impossible."

From the practises held so far, Coach Ryan is gradually placing the boys in the positions for which they are best suited. The scrum he has been using is not what he wants yet. Some of the heavier boys from the line and backfield will be brought up to replace lighter men now in the scrum.

Coach Ryan is not depending a great deal on strategy. "The players," he said, "have not been together long enough to work out and perfect intricate plays." Two or three manoeuvres, however, will feature the U.N.B. attack.
