

ROUGE ET NOIR

Scoop by "Snoop"

Hm-mm-m! Whatcha know Joe? I know plenty I does, after Three months of literary idleness. As Joe Collich I've watched five years of students ebb and flow outta here and by gum I've never seen such a crummy lot of freshmen. That reminds me—I'd better introduce myself to those greenhorns—I'm known as "Snoop." Surely you've heard of me—the original scandal monger. Some things I tells, others more intimate I hold my tongue—but most I tells! So watch yourself my verdant ones when I go snooping.

During the summer I've been tearing around quite a bit visiting all the hot spots, Chez Maurice, Trading Post, The Green Lantern, Riverside and a few others. Notice no mention is made of the Goody Shop—nothing went on there.

No, Barney, No, that's not what the Freshettes' symbol stands for.

I'm gonna get me a woman — Molesworth.

A question that has been bothering us—"Is she, or is she not, married?"

At last Colin has got a Ramsay in the Residence.

Competition is the spice of life. If you don't believe me ask Bobbie and Herbie.

She couldn't say yes ma'am—she had to go to bed.

I wonder if Gabriel's (pardon me Doc's) horn will call her back from Sherbrooke soon.

Superman Gregory, an expert on moving cars by manpower, even Austens.

Noranda certainly led Harry off the straight and narrow path. I hear he's getting quite absent-minded too.

Bap's been Hoveying around lately but now the Navy's in town.

Some of the femmes in the Girls they left behind me Club aren't getting left behind very long.

The President of the S. R. C. believes in keeping up International (excuse me, inter-town) Relationships.

Sorry I'm short this week but the woman's editor is crowding for peared at the Post Office steps, replete with sailor hats, earrings, green ties and odd socks, together with placards setting forth their names and addresses.

At the Post Office the freshmen were called upon to provide entertainment in the form of political speeches, songs, dances, etc., for the large crowd which had gathered to witness this traditional ceremony. This they did very successfully, after which they performed the lively "snake dance" through the streets, closing an eventful evening with rest and refreshments at the Goody Shop.

The Freshettes appeared as new exponents of the V campaign on Monday morning, with red V's stamped on their fair brows, also wearing turban and housefrocks. Behind the Arts Building they were paraded singly between two lines of their male classmates, each demonstrating some housewifely art as she passed.

Although very similar to the initiation of last year, this year's proceedings lacked none of the vigor and effectiveness which make initiation one of the most popular of college traditions.

lectures at 8.30 a.m. Thus students will have the full three hours for lab. work before C.O.T.C. which will begin at 4.30 p.m. Plans are also underway to have ladies' physical instruction under the guidance of Athletic Director Ryan. ...
Mentioning repairs to certain buildings on the campus Dr. MacKenzie spoke of the remodeling of the Old Gym which is being used by the Air Force now, and which will be a permanent addition for the use of the Department of Electrical Engineers in the future. The Arts Building also has undergone quite extensive repairs.

President MacKenzie then addressed his next remarks to the new students. He recalled the high standing of our university and called upon the Freshmen and Freshettes to live up to that high tradition. He asked the Sophomores to use discretion in their dealings with the Freshmen and to, on no account, do anything that might bring discredit to themselves and to the University.

Turning from particular to general remarks Dr. MacKenzie implored the assemblage not to forget that we are a belligerent, that we are fighting a war of wars on the outcome of which rests our future security. "Keep first things first," said the President in entreating the students to prepare themselves for service in whichever way it may be required.

In conclusion Dr. MacKenzie paid tribute to those members of this University who have already sacrificed their lives for their country, and asked the present members of the student body to settle down to the work that was before them in the coming year.

all C. U. P. members expressed the hope that co-operation between the different university papers would be even greater than in previous years. It has also been suggested that the weekly C. U. P. columns run last year be published again this year.

My Four Years at College
Frosh—She has a very nice family.
Soph: She usually gets the family car.

Junior: She certainly can hold as much beer as I can.
Senior—She sure has a fine apartment.

Sympathy is what one girlie offers another in exchange for details. —Awgwan

"I've never been kissed before," said she, as she shifted the car again with her knee.

"Webster says that taut means tight. I guess I've been taut quite a bit in this school after all."

Shoe Clerk: "Do you know what wears out most shoe leather?"
Sheba: "No."
Shoe Clerk: "That's right."

Mother (entering room unexpectedly). "Well, I never . . . !"
Daughter: "Oh, Mother, you must have!" —Humbug

Prof. "Will you men stop exchanging notes in the back of the room?"
Stude: "Them ain't notes — them's cards. We're playing bridge."

Prof: "Oh, I beg your pardon."

Normalite—I thought you said your room-mate was a civil engineer?

Techer—That's right.
Normalite—Well, he didn't act like it last night.

She was only a taxi-driver's daughter, but you auto meter. —Manitoban.

They sat side by side in the moonlight,
She murmured as she smoothed his brow:

"Darling, I know that my life's been fast,
But I'm on my last lap now."

soon after leaving College. In the city of New York where he became attached to the Associated Press. He was cable editor of this organization for 22 years and it was written of him at the time of his retirement that he had dictated upwards of 30,000,000 words of foreign news copy analyzed and enlarged from the cables of correspondents.

During the college year of 1933-'34 Dr. Watson contributed a series of ten articles to The Brunswickan. These articles, entitled "Old Days and New" undoubtedly contain more information on the history and anecdotes of U.N.B. than anything that has been written up to this time.

Dr. William F. Ganong was considered one of the most distinguished scholars and historians that Canada has ever produced.

Born of Loyalist ancestry, Dr. Ganong came from one of New Brunswick's most illustrious families. Following his early education in Saint John schools Dr. Ganong entered U.N.B. from where he was graduated with the degree of bachelor of Arts in 1884, and received his master's degree in 1886. From Harvard he received his A. B. in 1887 and from the University of Munich his Ph.D. in 1894.

In 1887 Dr. Ganong was appointed assistant and instructor in botany at Harvard. He resigned that post to accept the appointment of professor of botany at Smith College and it was here that he spent the greater part of his life.

He was the author of many scientific and historical works and held many prominent honorary positions during his life time. In 1898 this University conferred on him the Honorary Degree of Ph.D. and again in 1930 he received the Honorary Degree of L. L. D. from his Alma Mater.
