Co-ed War Effort

In many respects, the Co-eds of the University of New Brunswick, should be proud of their War Effort. Considering, that we number only around 60 girls in all, much has been accomplished.

In the fall, the Ladies' Society featured a dance and entertainment, and from this project $20 was forwarded to the Red Cross Blanket Fund, and $24 to the University Spitfire Fund. Also it is very certain, that another contribution from the Co-eds to our ever growing Spitfire Fund, will be forthcoming.

All co-eds of the university are required to take Physical Training. This has proved very successful, with all Co-eds responding whole-heartedly. This programme is under the direction of our physical instructor, Mr. Howie Ryan.

Most girls hold a certificate in First Aid, and about one-third of the girls have volunteered to take the Wireless Course, if it is to be given at our University. Also 80% of the girls have signed the Pledge to buy two War Saving Stamps a month.

Many girls have also been busy knitting for the Red Cross. However, it is felt by many that more girls could be knitting for the Red Cross, in their spare hours spent in the Ladies' Reading Room. Also when the girls were asked last fall to go to the Red Cross Rooms, two days a week, some turned out, but when one considers what could be accomplished if everyone turned out, the results would become decidedly changed.

In the great plea that has been raised all over Canada, regarding a greater War Effort on the part of all Canadians, have we ever stopped to ask, how many of us are really putting forth a whole-hearted "Total War" effort?

It is hoped, that in the near future more girls will be seen knitting for the Red Cross, a considerable larger sum raised by the Co-eds for the Spitfire Fund, and in general, a greater war effort on the part of all.

Surely nothing is too much, or too great to ask of us for the preservation of our way of life.

Co-ed Week

Once again, it is Co-ed Week on the Campus of U.N.B. It is the one week of the college year, that the co-eds have an opportunity of repaying the males. It is a week of great activity and tremendous doings. We have for example the Co-ed Bridge party in the Ladies' Reading Room, the Co-ed Dance, the Co-ed hockey game with the faculty and numerous other events.

It was in 1935 that the first Co-ed Week came into existence at U.N.B. It proved such a great success, that ever since, it has been an annual affair on our campus.

It is especially during the Co-ed Week that everyone's attention is drawn to the fact, that the women of today, are playing a very dominant part in world affairs, with so many professions formerly only for men, but now open for women, it is natural for the females to exert themselves to the best of their ability.

Although the women on our campus are greatly outnumbered by the males, still they play a very dominant part in all college activities, and it is realized more every year that without them on our campus, it simply wouldn't or couldn't be the same.

We see our females achieve great success in (to name a few), basketball, swimming, debating, entertainments of all kinds, and even Co-ed Hockey. We see them take a great interest in all college activities, and work whole-heartedly for their success.

During a Co-ed Week, our females try to the best of their ability to make it a great success, a week full of pleasant memories for everyone in the years to come.

This is the fourth annual Co-ed Edition of the Brunswickan. The first Brunswickan put out entirely by Co-eds was in 1939, and ever since has been an annual event. It is sincerely hoped that it will continue to be in the many years to come.

We know, that when this week is finished, the Co-eds, will again have shown, that they can really do a great job, when it comes to entertaining our "devoted males."

Thank You

The editor would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have worked so hard to make this Co-ed Issue of The Brunswickan possible, and a special word of thanks to Mr. Morrill and his staff in the Printing Department of McMurray's without whose help it could not have appeared.

President's Message

It seems very fitting that, in this issue of The Brunswickan, we should pay tribute to the Co-eds and present some picture of their activities on the campus. I feel honored that the staff of this Brunswickan has chosen me to do so. First, I should like to congratulate Jean Ramsay, Editor-in-Chief, and her able staff for their untiring efforts in making this issue a success.

The publication of this Brunswickan by the Co-eds leads to the realization of the importance and far reaching place that the women of today are taking in the world. Even on our campus this is plainly seen as our girls invade all possible fields including sport, journalism and social life. This year one co-ed has invaded the field of draughting and set a precedent. We are going to need the experience which we have had the opportunity to gain at college. Ours is a great opportunity, and we should, and we must, accept the advantage which college has to offer. Only after doing this, shall we be able to step out into a war-torn world and accept the responsibility that will be ours.

The co-eds have witnessed many changes on the campus this year. The use of the swimming pool has been granted us. The fine facilities of the Lady Beaverbrook Gymnasium, with a capable instructor in charge, have been placed at our disposal. These alone are colossal changes to the co-eds' way of life on this campus, and changes we are proud to say for the better. This year, too, witnessed the taking on of more social functions by the co-eds with great success. Another innovation was the redecoration of our rooms. In this respect, we owe gratitude to Dr. and Mrs. MacKenzie for their unfailing advice and support.

Some mention should be made of our war-effort. We have sponsored several money-making events during the year. Our aim has been to put our war effort first, and to spend the balance for the upkeep of our rooms. In making donations we have not forgotten the campus Spitfire Fund or the Red Cross. Individual effort has been manifested by the purchase of War Savings Stamps, knitting and assistance in the Red Cross rooms.

In reviewing the events of the year we have a right to feel satisfied because what we have undertaken has been successful. But, at the same time we must admit that there is much more to be accomplished. Many times we have wasted time and money. Our rooms have not always been a symbol of efficiency. During the remainder of the term let us resolve to remedy these failings.

I should like to take this opportunity to thank the girls for their unfailing support in every co-ed undertaking. Without your suggestions, your help and your support nothing could have been accomplished.

To the Seniors: Our privilege of being co-eds is fast drawing to a close. We shall soon find ourselves out in the world, and I hope that the experience we have gained here will find us grasping every opportunity and shirking no responsibility.

To the Juniors and Sophettes: Your turn to be leaders in all fields is near at hand. From my experience in working with you I know that in leadership you will prove

DO YOU THINK THE RESIDENCE BOYS LIVE UP TO THEIR MOTTO 'TOO HOT TO HANDLE'?

Definitely not. I was surprised to see how conceited they were—they aren't all conceited though.

Kay Bell

I can't make any universal laws can quote only particular instances.

Fran Murray

I couldn't say—never tried to handle any.

Marg White

I can tell you better tomorrow morning; no, they're just feverish during Co-ed Week.

Enid Bruce

They're not hot enough to melt an iceberg.

Joyce Mavor

From all reports, I'm afraid the Beaverbrook Bunnies have an exaggerated opinion of themselves. I admire the modesty of room 301—if it isn't false modesty.

IT IS PATRIOTIC TO SAVE — to help provide the dollars urgently necessary to the Fighting Forces and the production of vital War Supplies.

IT IS WISE TO BE THRIFTY—to help control the increasing cost of living. The demand for War materials is reducing production of ordinary goods; at the same time there is a large increase in money in circulation. All unnecessary buying of non-essentials means bidding up of prices for the available supply of such goods. THRIFT will help curb rising prices—THRIFT on the part of all.
