

Hockey Game Between Co-eds and the Faculty

Due to the zealous efforts of the co-eds the Brunswickan had already gone to press before the sports' highlight of the week had taken place. Therefore the Co-ed/Faculty hockey game will have to be presented as a preview rather than a review.

If past years may be used as a gauge we feel quite confident in saying that the rink was surrounded or should we say stormed by amused and amusing spectators. The game which was called for eight quite naturally did not get under way till eight forty five. If the weather was cold the fans rushed the dressing rooms, bounding in on unprepared, undressed and unsuspecting co-eds! if the thaw was still thawing the backers of the two teams engaged in a terrific snow-ball fight littering the ice from stem to stern; if it was raining the game was called.

Finally the two teams got lined up only to discover that the faculty had twelve extra men on the ice. Bob, Bap, Jaky or Sandy (which ever one was referee) then gave the co-eds a penalty shot. M. Duffie took the shot she lifted it and got Barney between the eyes. Since Duffie was in goal she couldn't have taken the shot.

During the first, second and third periods the play was rangy, rapid and ragged marked by much foul play on both sides. I guess that just about covers the game.

The faculty team was, seriously weakened by the absence of Prexie. The co-eds considered him their greatest menace and made certain he couldn't get there, that was the reason for the postponement from Monday to Tuesday to Thursday. What the faculty lost by the absence of MacKenzie they gained in the absence of Bruiser Bailey who was forced to the sidelines by that ancient ailment, rheumatism. McCourt as usual played a stellar game and vied with Rusher Ryan as the star of the Faculty. Tripper Anderson and Rugged Reed were ever on the defensive but mostly on their fannies. The co-eds staged a revolt after the brawl, uprising against Tripper whom they claimed spent most of her time polishing the apple with Socko Sears. She didn't trip him more than twelve times. All was forgiven when Tripper defended her good name but saying that she was not a "piggy with the puck." (or Joe) and wanted Rugged to get a couple of cracks at him. The most outstanding play of the game was when Crusty Crotty really put on a powerdrive and threw herself as well as the puck into the net on top of Barney. We can't guarantee that this happened but Crusty has been planing on it. After this onslaught Barney said that he considered the co-eds a threat and played a nice defensive game as well as minding the nets. The two finds of the evening were Killer Kitchen and Loggy Lemont who bumped, kicked, scratched hit and bit thoroughly disabling the prof. machine. We can't guarantee that all this happened but it wasn't because they didn't try. Moose Miller and Dink Dineen, being new faculty players were not as severely punished for past injustices and escaped with a few minor injuries.

We don't know what the score was but if the faculty got any goals (certainly not) they were likely netted by Socko Sears, Rusher Ryan or Masher McCourt. The co-eds had a hard time finding the net but as a general rule aimed at the right end of the rink. The co-ed goals (which were innumerable) were probably planted on the brilliant passing plays of Daring Durick, Wimpee Wright, Muggsy Murray and Cagey Kesson. Let's hope the dirtiest team won.

Line-ups: Big Norm MacKenzie, Socko Sears, Barney Fleiger, goal, Rusher Ryan, Dink Dineen, Moose Miller, Masher McCourt, Rambling Wright, Bruiser Bailey, Slapsy Smethurst.

Co-eds: All co-eds available, that is all who had not outgrown their skates and could bum a hockey stick.

Varsity Hoopsters Lose to Mt. A.

Playing the poorest brand of basketball they have all season the varsity hoopsters dropped a close decision to the Garnet and Gold of Mount A., Friday night, February 20th at Sackville. Poorly as the U. N. B. lads, who had ridden all day on the journey to Mount A. played, the game was very close and exciting.

The first half showed strong defense play on both sides with each team playing hard but cautiously. The half ended with Mount A. leading 12-11 much to the satisfaction of the fans.

The second half opened fast and furiously with both teams continually throwing the ball the length of the floor and playing a wide open game. This is what led to the red and black downfall. The Mount A. forwards caught our guards alone and in the third quarter the score stood 27-19 for Mount Allison. From here on U.N.B. played a better defensive game and crept up on the "mounties". The lead proved too much however, and our boys had trouble finding the basket as shot after shot rolled off the rim.

Lockhart and Mitton played outstanding ball for U.N.B. while every member of the squad turned in a fine game.

The boys offered no excuses when they returned, but were confident that they were still the best team. They were further handicapped by not having Coach Ryan with them, who had to remain in Fredericton to help with the high school tournament held here. This winds up an excellent season for the basketball team with the exception of a game Saturday night with the C. Y. O. team from Saint John.

Line-ups:
U.N.B.—Rogers, 4; McClintock, 8; Lockhart, 8; Mitton, 4; Smith, 4; Baird; Clark; Grant; Cliff; Sears; Stothart.
Mt. A.—Tucker, 12; Hatch, 9; Hipson, 6; MacLeod, 2; Moffat, 2; Hunter, 2; Crudge; McLennan; White; Falziel.
Referee—Norman Laidlaw.

INTERCLASS

It is very difficult for a co-ed to get correct technical information about such a confusing game as hockey—as anyone who has watched the co-ed team play will guarantee. We understand that the idea of the game is to push the little black rubber thing, called the puck, down the ice with your stick into the net at the end but such small details as blue lines, tripping people (why else do they give you a stick?) and picking up the puck and throwing it if you get the chance, escape us. Therefore we'll have to give you male evidence on the interclass hockey Sunday, February 22, which ended in a four way tie.

Seniors vs Sophomores
In the regular Sunday opener, the up-and-coming Sophomore Sextet plastered a 4-1 decision on the fast-fading Seniors.

Without the services of Bob Grant, their star net-minder, and lacking the presence of hard-hitting Harry Wall and Ten Goal Waring, the sorrowful Senior squad still put up a real fight against the Sophomores.

Ernie MacKay sank the first counter of the match in the first period, followed later by Jim Ayer's two goals and Dosne's sole tally. Barney Ross in the final frame was the lone marksman for the Seniors. Lineups:
Seniors—Paul, Murray, Coombs, Hamilton, Ross, Innis, Metcalfe.
Sophs—Whittingham, Mears, Ayer, McNair, Johnson, Mann, McAlary, MacKay, Dosne.

Juniors vs Freshmen
Four to three for the Frosh was the final verdict on the second interclass game. It was a thrilling display of might and brown all the way, as the Froshs unleashed their hidden store of power late in the second period to whittle down the Juniors lead and then to pass them.

The third year men were in the same plight as the Seniors. A mere eight men appeared in their lineup as opposed to the Freshmen trillions. Both teams were without their regular goal-tenders, MacNab and Bunker respectively: the mesh-minder scarcity seemed, in fact, to be the order of the day.

With scores by Rogers and Fortier, the jaded Juniors took a 2-0 lead into the second period, but the valiant Frosh machine staged a comeback to net four goals—all by young Ralph Ayers—and won the game, and Bob McLaughlin was able to snap the rubber past Hamilton, making the final score look a bit more even.

Lineup:
Juniors: Metcalfe, Harris, Morrison, Rogers, Fortier, McLaughlin, Depow, MacMillan.

Frosh: Hamilton, Fleming, Spicer, Stewart, Mulherin, Stothart, Adamson, Adams, Cyr, Bishop, Brewer.

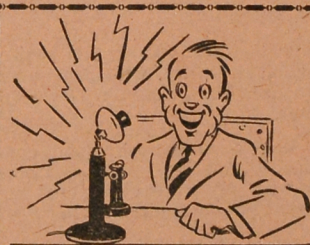

Some of the more confusing details to a co-ed are—Why, in interclass hockey, a junior played goalie for the seniors? Why a senior played goalie for the freshman and why Spicer, who we understood played varsity, was playing interclass?

HOCKEY BENEFIT

The hockey team will play Marysville on Tuesday March 3, at the College Rink in a benefit game for their injured goalie, Tony Pelletier who was hurt in the game against Mt. A. at Sackville.

The U.N.B. line-up will be the same as in the last game against Mt. A. here, with McNab, in the net. The Marysville line-up is not known at this date.

U. N. B. Co-eds Defeated by Acadia Team 18-13

In a close hard-fought battle, the first of a home-and-home series on Thursday, February 19, the U.N.B. Co-ed Basketeers went down to a glorious defeat before the Acadians.

The game started fast, U.N.B. taking the lead in the first few seconds of play when first Anderson and then McLean scored on beautiful field shots. By the end of the first quarter the Acadia team had recovered its scoring punch and evened the score 4-4.

The second quarter resembled the first, featuring closely-contested play; each team adding 2 points to their scores.

Both teams, out for the kill in the next period after the halfway mark, piled up baskets, but U.N.B., playing hard had a slight edge on the play and led 11-10.

In the final bracket, with 2 minutes to go the score stood 13-13. Acadia put on a sudden scoring splurge breaking through the U. N. B. defense to get two baskets and a free shot, making the final score 18-13.

Gwen Ward, tall, sharp-shooting centre of the Acadia team, closely checked by U.N.B.'s alert guard, Enid Bruce, managed to account for 11 points. Pat Anderson, centre for U.N.B. was high scorer for her team with 7 points to her credit.

The home team's guards were kept busy intercepting the forceful passes of Acadia's lanky key guard, Clair Lockhart, who specialized in driving the ball the length of the floor.

The U. N. B. forward line played a flashy game, breaking fast and passing cleanly. They peppered the blackboard continually through out the game, but like the Acadians had tough luck on their shots. The whole team was out there fighting and they played a game worthy of the best U.N.B. support.

Acadia—Forwards Theakston, Harlow 7; Ward 11; Britou; Guards Smith, Keddy, Fleet, Budd, Lockhart.

U.N.B.—Forwards Anderson 7; McLean 3; Murray 3; Cunningham, Page; Guards, Bruce, Wright, Murray, McLean, Levine, Lemont.

Badminton Tournament

A successful Badminton Tournament was held in the Lady Beaverbrook Gymnasium February 13th and 14th.

The star of the tournament was Miss Enid Bruce who one three events, the ladies singles, ladies doubles and mixed doubles. Miss Bruce teamed with Leslie Stevens in the ladies doubles and with Bill Thompson in the mixed doubles.
